March Driver Slain

WHITE WOMAN

Montgomery, Ala. (AP) — A white woman from Detroit was shot to death in her car Thursday night in a rural section west of here after driving a group of civil rights marchers from Montgomery to Selma.

The death occurred only hours after Dr. Martin Luther King Jr. led 25,000 persons to the Alabama capitol to climax a five-day, 50-mile voter rights march.

The body of the woman, identified from papers in her purse as Mrs. Viola Gregg Liuzzo, 38, of Detroit, was found in the car on U.S. Highway 80 about 25 miles west of Montgomery.

Near March Route

The highway was the route of the civil rights march. A state investigator said papers in the car indicated she was a member of a transportation committee.

State and federal authorities began an immediate investigation.

She was the third person killed since the start of a voter registration campaign in Alabama several months ago.

Jimmie Lee Jackson, 26, a Negro, died in a Selma hospital Feb. 26 after being shot Feb. 18 by a state trooper during a disturbance in Marion. The Rev. James J. Reeb, 38, a white Unitarian minister from Boston, was attacked by several white men in Selma March 9 and died two days later in a hospital. Four white men have been charged with murder in the slaying.

Followed Try

The death near Lowndesboro, Ala., occurred several hours after a 20-man delegation—all from Alabama—tried without success to present a voting rights petition to Gov. George C. Wallace in Montgomery.

A rally marked the end of the march, with civil rights leaders addressing the massed thousands and nationally known entertainers singing.

Next Step

King said in an interview that the next step is to "arouse people all over the nation to work for passage" of the voting rights bill.

Whitney Young, director of the National Urban League, compared the march with the 1963 march on Washington. "This march," he said "reaches a specific area — the right to vote."

The rally ended with the crowd linking arms, swaying back and forth as they sang, "We Shall Overcome."

Many of the marchers who tramped the 50 miles from Selma were taken back to that city in 15 chartered buses and some trucks.

Speaking on a Montgomery television station Wallace said, "Today in a negative way has been a grand day for Alabama."

All-American

The delegation tried to present its petition to the governor on a day which climaxed a voter rights march a climax U.N. Under-secretary Ralph Bunche said was "an all-American attack on an all-American problem."

Bunche, like King a Nobel Peace Prize winner, told the massed thousands in front of the statehouse that "the world is overwhelmingly with us in this struggle."

"We want to tell the people of Selma, the people of Alabama, the people of the nation that we are on the move now and we're not going to let anybody turn us around," King said.

The petition said:

"We have come not only five days and 50 miles, but we have come from three centuries of suffering and hardship. We have come to you, the governor of Alabama, to declare that we must have our freedom now. We must have the right to vote; we must have equal protection of the law and an end to police brutality."

Open Meetings Bill Stalls In Committee

By VIRGIL FALLOON
Star Staff Writer

A bill requiring that all meetings of governmental bodies be open to the public failed to gain approval Thursday in the Legislature's Miscellaneous Subjects Committee.

A motion to advance LB790 to the floor lost 3-5 and further action was deferred pending possible amendatory revision.

Chiefly introduced by Sen. Eugene T. Mahoney of Omaha, the measure drew no direct opposition.

Journalism and news media representatives strongly supported the bill for "open meetings" on the principle the public has a right to know how their representatives are conducting the public's business.

The bill decrees that all meetings of governing bodies of the state or political subdivisions shall be public meetings.

Authorized To Report

Persons attending such meetings would be fully authorized to make memoranda or abstracts and report or broadcast fully what transpires.

A person denied these rights granted by the act could seek relief through writ of mandamus, and officials violating the act would be subject to impeachment, or misdemeanor conviction.

Before the losing vote for advancement, the committee struck a provision declaring an advance notice of meetings should be given as public policy.

Charles Thone, a Lincoln attorney representing the Nebraska Broadcasters Association, said the bill would prohibit executive sessions, including those executive sessions of legislative committees which newsmen under Unicameral rules are permitted to attend when reporting only formal actions.

General Bar

Thone said the bill would be a general bar to closed meetings by any governmental body, but the Legislature could enact specific legislation, when requested, closing "sensitive areas," when justification can be shown.

Jim Raglin of Lincoln, representing Sigma Delta Chi journalism society, said laws similar to LB790 have been enacted in at least 29 states.

He said LB790 is a model act that Sigma Delta Chi has been supporting across the nation.

Dr. William Hall of the University of Nebraska School of Journalism said news representatives are stand-ins for the public, but what the public can't observe, it can't appraise."

Right To Know

Jim McGaffin, an Omaha television director, said, "Whenever public policy is being set, the public has the right to know the reasoning behind it."

Appearing in general support of the bill were Douglas County Election Commissioner Jerry Hassett and State College Coordinator Freeman Decker, who urged some provision for executive sessions when "sensitive matters are discussed."

Thone said any attempt to "put an umbrella over executive sessions would just water-down the 'open meeting' principle of the bill."

Several committee members questioned whether the legislation might tend to squelch a free exchange of ideas at committee meetings.

At last one said committee votes could be made public, but felt discussion shouldn't be publicly disclosed. Reporting of how individual senators vote is forbidden now.

The committee also:

—killed LB822, requiring the appointment of two deputy registrars in each precinct of counties requiring voter registration.

—NO 'SUPER PATRIOT'—

Lincolnite Snubs Minuteman Bid

By MICK ROOD
Star Staff Writer

A Lincoln man has received a letter inviting him to join the Minutemen, an ultra-conservative, patriotic group that arms its members to fight communism with "espionage and infiltration."

He doesn't know why the invitation was sent to him, and he doesn't plan to join. He did speculate that the Minutemen had taken his name from the mailing list of a "patriotic" organization to which he belongs.

"I'm not ready to become an extremist or super patriot," he said.

'Could Be Enslaved'

Fearing that "our nation could be conquered and enslaved by the communists" in a few years, Minutemen instruct their members to do the following:

—purchase a gun and ammunition.

—form "active bands" to join an underground network.

—becomed thoroughly trained in guerrilla warfare.

By recruiting and "training" these individual agents, the Minutemen hope to "save Americans for generations to come from a life of slavery."

The organization's packet for prospective members includes a standard letter from National Coordinator Robert B. DePugh, an application form, a list of "practical security measures," a statement of the Minutemen's purpose and a brief history.

The local invitation came with a thick, gray piece of paper around the letter "to prevent your mail from being read by infrared cameras."

In his letter, DePugh says most Minutemen have been fighting communism by "traditional means" for many years.

More Needed

"Something more was needed." DePugh says.

"By the methods of espionage and infiltration the Minutemen are the one and only organization that are really fighting communism now," he says.

"Practical security measures" for Minutemen include methods to keep activities secretive to the point of being on the mailing lists of "left-wing" periodicals or some "peace movement." This, the literature says, will "keep the postal inspectors guessing as to which side you are really on."

Members are asked to prepare secret rendezvous points, keep hidden records that can be easily destroyed, develop a "telephone code," and to avoid writing "patriotic letters to newspapers under your name . . . identifying you to the enemy."

Always the reference to the "enemy," the "threat," the "security measures."

As to who the Minutemen really are, the new member's guide says:

"The newspapers and television have pictured the Minutemen as a bunch of crackpots running around shooting off their guns without any idea why they were doing it. This is exactly the type of person we don't want in our organization."

Duck Hunters

A "Short History Of The Minutemen," explains the development of the Minutemen from a group of ten in a duck hunting club to a "guerrilla band to fight communism."

It is described in the literature as a case of "ten average Americans gradually waking up."

Norborne, Mo., is given as the headquarters of the Minutemen inside the prospective member's packet. Norborne is a small agricultural community east of Kansas City, Mo.

At least one Lincoln resident doesn't plan to "wake up," but the Minutemen's slogan greeting future members still reads, "We Will Never Surrender."

CHOU EN-LAI

Chou Says U.S. Wants Big War

. . . IF BOMBS NOT THREATS

By K. S. KAROL

Peking (AP)—"If the Americans are not content with threatening gestures and really want to provoke a wider conflict, then the Chinese and Russian people will close ranks."

This was Red Chinese Premier Chou-En-lai talking about the situation in Viet Nam. Continuing in this vein in a 2½-hour interview, he declared:

"That is the truth. Remember that and you will see that history will bear it out. That is why Johnson, who is dancing on the tight rope of war and doesn't know how to turn about, is risking some surprises."

Chou emphasized the last phrase, but die not say what he meant by it.

"The United States is in the process of extending its aggression," Chou declared. "It is sending Marines to South Viet Nam and in a single month it has bombed the Democratic Republic of (North) Viet Nam six times

Horse Proverb

"But the American government will never force the South Vietnamese people and the Democratic Republic of Viet Nam into negotiations by intensifying the war. As the old Chinese proverb says, they are trying to go to the north while heading their horses to the south."

Asked if he thought the United States might be stepping up operations to save face before negotiations begin, Chou replied half astonished, half indignant:

"Saving face? A brigand who has committed an armed robbery—can he save face by committing a second or a third? How many crimes are required before America's face is, as you put it, saved?

"In my view, the best way this bandit can save his face is by giving back the property he has stolen. The best way the Americans can save face is by withdrawing their forces from South Viet Nam and by renouncing the right they claim to carry the war into the north."

U.S. Aggressor

Chou said that "American aggression against the Democratic Republic or Viet Nam is aggression against the socialist (Communist) camp in its entirety."

"This being so, all of us have the duty to help the National Liberation Front of South Viet Nam and the Democratic Republic of Viet Nam in accordance with the international engagements we have undertaken.

"The menace of the United States concerns not only the Democratic Republic of Viet Nam and the other countries of Indochina . . . but also the Chinese Peoples Republic . . .

"Let the Americans act as seems good to them, and we will act as we mean to act. In any case, the war will develop not in accordance with human wishes, still less the wishes of American imperialism."

Rejects Parallel

For the second time, I tried to put up the case for negotiations, reminding Chou that in both Indochina and Algeria, France had intensified its military operations preceding peace talks. Chou rejected the comparison.

As for peaceful coexistence, Chou said:

"The talks between the Chinese and American ambassadors have been going on for 10 years. They have already met 125 times in Warsaw. Do you know what they are talking about? You don't know?

"Our ambassador proposes an agreement on principle on two points to the American ambassador. First of all, on peaceful coexistence. Revisionists (the Russians and their allies) pretend that China is opposed to peaceful coexistence. The United States repeats this loudly and the Indian government echoes it.

Impossible

"To ask China to coexist peacefully with the United States while the latter maintains military bases around China and occupies the Chinese territory of Formosa, obviously, that is impossible."

Chou said the second point discussed in Warsaw was the withdrawal of American troops from Formosa and Formosa Strait.

"The Americans did not dare accept that either," he said. "That is why 10 years of talks have led to nothing."

K. S. Karol, now in China, is a former Polish diplomat. He writes for the New Statesman of London and Nouvelle Observateur of Paris. The AP excerpted and distributed his interview with Chou En-lai.

Gemini Flight Smooth

Cape Kennedy, Fla. (AP)—Astronauts Virgil Grissom and John Young said Thursday their orbit-shifting "Molly Brown" spacecraft performed smoothly throughout its three-orbit flight Tuesday and that it was ready for longer and more demanding journeys.

But they said the reason for falling short of their mark when they came down in the Atlantic is still a mystery.

"The spacecraft worked perfectly . . . We didn't expect to have it so good," Grissom told a news conference.

Families Beam

The space partners sat side by side at a table also occupied by officials of the National Aeronautics and Space Administration. Their families beamed proudly in the audience.

In contrast to their normal quietness in public, Grissom and Young bantered with newsmen, provoking laughs.

Grissom, the command pilot, said he had no trouble maneuvering the world's first steerable craft, changing orbits three times as it whirled on its 4-hour, 54-minute celestial journey.

The astronauts were asked which they considered more important, their maneuverable flight or the March 18 Russian feat in which a cosmonaut stepped into space from his orbiting capsule.

Important

Grissom said that maneuvering was very important "but I don't want to take anything away from the Russians."

Young said the Russian feat was phenomenal, "but maneuvering in space is phenomenal too."

"There wasn't a jiggle or bump in the first stage," he said. "The second stage ride was steady."

Young said he ate the space food and found the brownies to be the best food on board. He said the water system aboard worked to perfection and there was no problem with any of these systems.

Grissom reported the parachute system, which lowers the spacecraft into the water after the re-entry, worked "beautifully."

No Holes Or Tears

He said it deployed right on time at 10,600 feet and there were no holes or tears in the nylon.

He said that when the Molly Brown assumed its three-point landing position, it flopped over real hard. "Both of us hit the windshield. It knocked a hole in my face plate on the helmet and gave John a scratch on his face plate. I thought for a minute that the whole chute had gone."

Germany Lengthens Nazi Hunt

Bonn, Germany (AP)—The West German Bundestag voted Thursday to extend the statute of limitations on murder by five years and thus continue the search for Nazi war criminals until Jan. 1, 1970.

The vote prompted Justice Minister Ewald Bucher to hand in his resignation. He had argued that any change in the statute's deadline, originally to expire this year, violated the constitution.

Bucher quit only a few hours after the Bundestag approved the extension bill 344-96. Four members abstained. Bucher's Free Democratic Party was the only group to oppose it virtually as one bloc. The Social Democrats voted for the bill, while Chancellor Ludwig Erhard's Christian Democrats were divided.

Proposed By Adenauer

The five-year extension idea was proposed by former Chancellor Konrad Adenauer, a Christian Democrat. But many lawyers, in addition to Bucher, contend the bill violates a provision of the constitution saying no act shall be punished unless it was punishable when committed. Thus it may face its toughest test in the Constitutional Court.

The Bundestag eliminated a loophole that would have enabled murderers to escape prosecution if they had held low-ranking jobs under the Nazis. Fritz Erler, the Socialist floor leader, objected to it strongly. There were those in minor jobs who carried out their orders gladly, and even went beyond them, he argued.

"Some of them were worse than they had to be," he said.

Woods Park, Belmont Pool Action Deferred By Park Advisory Board

By BOB SCHREPF
Star Staff Writer

Any action to determine the priority of construction for an instructional swimming pool to be located at Woods Park and a neighborhood pool for the Belmont community was deferred Thursday by the City Park and Recreation Advisory Board.

The board decided to withhold its recommendation until all facts concerning the need for an instructional pool can be reviewed.

City Council members have asked the board to recommend whether funds for the estimated $100,000 instructional pool or the proposed $95,000 Belmont pool — or both — should be included in the capital improvements budget for fiscal 1965-66.

Development Cited

Representatives of the Belmont Lions Club asked the board to consider recommending a pool for that area because of the rapid development of northwest Lincoln and the fact that the closest swimming pool — the municipal pool at 21st and M — is approximately five miles from the Belmont community.

The representatives told the board that there were approximately 1,600 school-age children and 1,200 pre-school children in the northwest Lincoln area who could use a new swimming pool.

Wendell Groth, appearing in support of building an instructional pool to be located next to the existing swimming facility at Woods Park, said that a new pool there could be used for instructing non-swimmers, as a practice pool for synchronized swimming groups, as an overflow facility for peak summer days and as a warm-up pool for swimming meets.

Groth told the board of the "tremendous need" for an instructional pool, citing a backlog of young non-swimmers who could benefit from such a facility.

He also said that the pool could help attract the Olympic tryouts to Lincoln in 1968 as well as being used for the National AAU Championships, to be held here next year.

The Advisory Board indicated support for both the Belmont pool and the additional pool at Woods Park, but said that it would have to review needs and the availability of funds before making a final determination.

Preliminary $953,000 Budget Presented To Improve Parks

A preliminary capital improvements budget of approximately $953,000 has been prepared by James Ager, acting director of parks and recreation.

In presenting the budget to the Parks and Recreation Advisory Board for its recommendation Thursday, Ager said that it included requests from several sources and is not in its completed form.

The budget requests include:

—$596,000 for new buildings, including a Park Department office building and $525,000 for an all-purpose recreation center.

—Miscellaneous park improvements totaling $56,058, including lighting for the new Junior Golf Course, beautification of Woods Park and Pioneers Park improvements.

—Street surfacing amounting to $89,000 for roads in six city parks.

March Driver Slain

WHITE WOMAN

Montgomery, Ala. (AP) — A white woman from Detroit was shot to death in her car Thursday night in a rural section west of here after driving a group of civil rights marchers from Montgomery to Selma.

The death occurred only hours after Dr. Martin Luther King Jr. led 25,000 persons to the Alabama capitol to climax a five-day, 50-mile voter rights march.

The highway was the route of the civil rights march. A state investigator said papers in the car indicated she was a member of a transportation committee.

She was the third person killed since the start of a voter registration campaign in Alabama several months ago.

"Let the Americans act as seems good to them, and we will act as we mean to act. In any case, the war will develop not in accordance with human wishes, still less the wishes of American imperialism."

Rejects Parallel

For the second time, I tried to put up the case for negotiations, reminding Chou that in both Indochina and Algeria, France had intensified its military operations preceding peace talks. Chou rejected the comparison.

As for peaceful coexistence, Chou said:

"The talks between the Chinese and American ambassadors have been going on for 10 years. They have already met 125 times in Warsaw. Do you know what they are talking about? You don't know?

"Our ambassador proposes an agreement on principle on two points to the American ambassador. First of all, on peaceful coexistence. Revisionists (the Russians and their allies) pretend that China is opposed to peaceful coexistence. The United States repeats this loudly and the Indian government echoes it.

Impossible

"To ask China to coexist peacefully with the United States while the latter maintains military bases around China and occupies the Chinese territory of Formosa, obviously, that is impossible."

Chou said the second point discussed in Warsaw was the withdrawal of American troops from Formosa and Formosa Strait.

"The Americans did not dare accept that either," he said. "That is why 10 years of talks have led to nothing."

K. S. Karol, now in China, is a former Polish diplomat. He writes for the New Statesman of London and Nouvelle Observateur of Paris. The AP excerpted and distributed his interview with Chou En-lai.

Gemini Flight Smooth

Cape Kennedy, Fla. (AP)—Astronauts Virgil Grissom and John Young said Thursday their orbit-shifting "Molly Brown" spacecraft performed smoothly throughout its three-orbit flight Tuesday and that it was ready for longer and more demanding journeys.

But they said the reason for falling short of their mark when they came down in the Atlantic is still a mystery.

The spacecraft worked perfectly . . . We didn't expect to have it so good," Grissom told a news conference.

Families Beam

The space partners sat side by side at a table also occupied by officials of the National Aeronautics and Space Administration. Their families beamed proudly in the audience.

In contrast to their normal quietness in public, Grissom and Young bantered with newsmen, provoking laughs.

Grissom, the command pilot, said he had no trouble maneuvering the world's first steerable craft, changing orbits three times as it whirled on its 4-hour, 54-minute celestial journey.

The astronauts were asked which they considered more important, their maneuverable flight or the March 18 Russian feat in which a cosmonaut stepped into space from his orbiting capsule.

Important

Grissom said that maneuvering was very important "but I don't want to take anything away from the Russians."

"There wasn't a jiggle or bump in the first stage," he said. "The second stage ride was steady."

Young said he ate the space food and found the brownies to be the best food on board. He said the water system aboard worked to perfection and there was no problem with any of these systems.

Grissom reported the parachute system, which lowers the spacecraft into the water after the re-entry, worked "beautifully."

No Holes Or Tears

He said it deployed right on time at 10,600 feet and there were no holes or tears in the nylon.

He said that when the Molly Brown assumed its three-point landing position, it flopped over real hard. "Both of us hit the windshield. It knocked a hole in my face plate on the helmet and gave John a scratch on his face plate. I thought for a minute that the whole chute had gone."

Germany Lengthens Nazi Hunt

Bonn, Germany (AP)—The West German Bundestag voted Thursday to extend the statute of limitations on murder by five years and thus continue the search for Nazi war criminals until Jan. 1, 1970.

The vote prompted Justice Minister Ewald Bucher to hand in his resignation. He had argued that any change in the statute's deadline, originally to expire this year, violated the constitution.

Bucher quit only a few hours after the Bundestag approved the extension bill 344-96. Four members abstained. Bucher's Free Democratic Party was the only group to oppose it virtually as one bloc. The Social Democrats voted for the bill, while Chancellor Ludwig Erhard's Christian Democrats were divided.

Proposed By Adenauer

The five-year extension idea was proposed by former Chancellor Konrad Adenauer, a Christian Democrat. But many lawyers, in addition to Bucher, contend the bill violates a provision of the constitution saying no act shall be punished unless it was punishable when committed. Thus it may face its toughest test in the Constitutional Court.

The Bundestag eliminated a loophole that would have enabled murderers to escape prosecution if they had held low-ranking jobs under the Nazis. Fritz Erler, the Socialist floor leader, objected to it strongly. There were those in minor jobs who carried out their orders gladly, and even went beyond them, he argued.

"Some of them were worse than they had to be," he said.

Woods Park, Belmont Pool Action Deferred By Park Advisory Board

By BOB SCHREPF
Star Staff Writer

Any action to determine the priority of construction for an instructional swimming pool to be located at Woods Park and a neighborhood pool for the Belmont community was deferred Thursday by the City Park and Recreation Advisory Board.

The board decided to withhold its recommendation until all facts concerning the need for an instructional pool can be reviewed.

City Council members have asked the board to recommend whether funds for the estimated $100,000 instructional pool or the proposed $95,000 Belmont pool — or both — should be included in the capital improvements budget for fiscal 1965-66.

Development Cited

Representatives of the Belmont Lions Club asked the board to consider recommending a pool for that area because of the rapid development of northwest Lincoln and the fact that the closest swimming pool — the municipal pool at 21st and M — is approximately five miles from the Belmont community.

The representatives told the board that there were approximately 1,800 school-age children and 1,200 pre-school children in the northwest Lincoln area who could use a new swimming pool.

Wendell Groth, appearing in support of building an instructional pool to be located next to the existing swimming facility at Woods Park, said that a new pool there could be used for instructing non-swimmers, as a practice pool for synchronized swimming groups, as an overflow facility for peak summer days and as a warm-up pool for swimming meets.

Groth told the board of the "tremendous need" for an instructional pool, citing a backlog of young non-swimmers who could benefit from such a facility.

He also said that the pool could help attract the Olympic tryouts to Lincoln in 1968 as well as being used for the National AAU Championships, to be held here next year.

The Advisory Board indicated support for both the Belmont pool and the additional pool at Woods Park, but said that it would have to review needs and the availability of funds before making a final determination.

Preliminary $953,000 Budget Presented To Improve Parks

A preliminary capital improvements budget of approximately $953,000 has been prepared by James Ager, acting director of parks and recreation.

In presenting the budget to the Parks and Recreation Advisory Board for its recommendation Thursday, Ager said that it included requests from several sources and is not in its completed form.

The budget requests include:

—$596,000 for new buildings, including a Park Department office building and $525,000 for an all-purpose recreation center.

—Miscellaneous park improvements totaling $56,058, including lighting for the new Junior Golf Course, beautification of Woods Park and Pioneers Park improvements.

—Street surfacing amounting to $89,000 for roads in six city parks.

—$100,000 for swimming pool construction.

LBJ, Cabinet Meet On War

Washington (AP)— President Johnson said Thursday the United States never will be second to anyone in seeking a Viet Nam settlement "that is based on an end of Communist aggression."

At the same time, Johnson said the United States looks forward to the time when all of Southeast Asia will need "economic and social co-operation for progress in peace"—a statement that did not exclude the possibility of future eventual aid even to North Viet Nam.

The President, saying, "It is important for us all to keep a cool and clear view of the situation in Viet Nam," told his cabinet, "The United States still seeks no wider war."

Cabinet Talk

The White House made public a statement of what Johnson said to the cabinet.

The President said about the possible negotiation of a Viet Nam settlement:

"The United States will never be second in seeking a settlement in Viet Nam that is based on an end of Communist aggression. As I have said in every part of the Union, I am ready to go anywhere, at anytime, and meet with anyone whenever there is promise of progress toward an honorable peace. We have said many times—to all who are interested in our principles for honorable negotiation—that we seek no more than a return to the essentials of the agreements of 1954—a reliable arrangement to guarantee the independence and security of all in Southeast Asia."

He went on to say that "at present the Communist aggressors have given no sign of any willingness to move in this direction, but as they recognize the costs of their present course and their own true interest in peace, there may come a change—if we all remain united."

Support For Peace

Johnson said the United States "looks forward to the day when the people and governments of all Southeast Asia may be free from terror, subversion and assassination—when they will need not military support and assistance against aggression, but only economic and social cooperation for progress in peace."

Johnson said major development programs supported by the United States are being conducted in Viet Nam and elsewhere, and added:

"Wider and bolder programs can be expected in the future from Asian leaders and Asian councils—and in such programs we would want to help. This is the proper business of our future cooperation."

Johnson said American military actions in Viet Nam "will be such, and only such, as serve" to control Communist aggression and terrorism" at the lowest possible cost in human life to our allies, to our own men, and to our adversaries, too."

'World Stage'

Johnson, in his formal statement, after reasserting his frequent declaration that the United States seeks no wider war in Viet Nam, said:

"We threaten no regime and covet no territory. We have worked and will continue to work for a reduction of tensions, on the great stage of the world. But the aggression from the north must be stopped. That is the road to peace in Southeast Asia."

The President said that, if aggression is stopped, "the people and government of South Viet Nam will be free to settle their own future, and the need for supporting American military action there will end."

Pro-Westerner Is Premier Of Ceylon

Colombo, Ceylon (UPI)— Pro-Western Dudley S. Senanayake Thursday was sworn in as prime minister of Ceylon following the resignation of leftist-backed Mrs. Sirimavo Bandaranaike who had held power in this rubber-and-tea-rich island for more than four years.

The swearing-in of Senanayake, a staunch anti-Communist who served twice before as premier, ended tension and uncertainty which had prevailed Wednesday when Mrs. Bandaranaike delayed her resignation.

Mrs. Bandaranaike's Socialist Sri Lanka Freedom Party was badly defeated by Senanayake's United National Party in Monday's parliamentary elections. Her inclusion of Communists in the cabinet and her pro-Peking leanings were believed mainly responsible.

66 Seats For UNP

The United National Party emerged as the strongest single group in the elections, winning 66 seats. The Freedom Party won only 41. In the old parliament the United National Party held 41 seats to 75 for the Freedom Party.

Ceylon's problems with American and British oil companies were expected to be solved quickly under Senanayake, a promise made during the campaign by his deputy leader, J. R. Jayewardena.

American-Ceylonese relations were strained and U.S. foreign aid was suspended after the Bandaranaike government delayed payment of compensation to the companies for property it had nationalized.

Possible Competition

Jayewardena said Ceylon might permit American-owned companies to compete with the national oil company in a move to help bolster the sagging economy.

LBJ Asks $500 Million For Area Development

. . . COULD AID RECOVERY FROM MILITARY BASE SHUTDOWNS

Washington (AP)— President Johnson asked Congress Thursday to vote a broad program to combat the problems of economically backward areas of the United States at a cost of more than $500 million a year.

Johnson, sending to the Capitol a special message on area and regional economic development, said his blueprint would help depressed areas with a total population of about 27 million people.

Much of the $510 million each year would finance public works projects designed to make communities more attractive to industry.

$170 Million For Loans

Johnson asked Congress to authorize $170 million a year for loans of various types — some of them to finance commercial and industrial facilities. And a scattering of other grant and loan programs, some of which would not go into effect until the second year of the plan, would require a minimum of $65 million annually.

Summarizing the type of work the federal funds would promote, Johnson cited "a wide diversity of development needs—from improved transportation and water supply to industrial incentives and public facilities."

He emphasized that the program would require partnership by all levels of U.S. government working in cooperation with private enterprise and said:

"No federal plan or federal project will be imposed on any regional, state or local body. No area will be declared distressed by federal decree . . . No programs or projects will be originated at the federal level. The initiative, the ideas and the request for assistance must all come to Washington, not from Washington."

ECA Would Succeed ARA

Johnson proposed creation of an Economic Development Administration within the Commerce Department to direct the program. This agency would take over the powers and functions of the present Area Redevelopment Administration, which would go out of business.

Johnson, in asking for $250 million a year for grants to finance development facilities, said federal funds would be matched locally on a 50-50 basis. However, he said, federal aid to the most needy communities could go as high as 80% of the project's cost if the community was unable to raise its full 50% share.

The $170 million a year for loans would go into a revolving fund and help finance low-cost 40-year loans for development facilities, direct four per cent loans to cover up to 65% of the cost of land, buildings, machinery and equipment for industrial or commercial facilities, and funds to guarantee working capital loans up to 90%.

Although Johnson didn't mention the figure in his message, officials said he would seek $20 million more for grants and technical assistance to multicounty economic development districts for formulating development plans.

To encourage greater participation by private capital in redevelopment projects, Johnson proposed that those who borrow from private institutions to expand their established plants in accordance with development programs be reimbursed by the federal government two percentage points of the cost of interest for up to 10 years.

Johnson asked, too, for $15 million a year to help regional action planning commissions carry out long range planning.

The President said he was particularly anxious to encourage redevelopment programs embracing broad economic areas—such as several neighboring counties — rather than limiting projects to individual communities.

The secretary of commerce would designate areas eligible for aid on the basis either of unemployment or family income statistics.

"When there has been a sudden plant shutdown or closing of a military installation," Johnson said, "the secretary would be authorized to designate areas for assistance if he determines that the area can be expected to become eligible within three years unless assistance is provided."

Gas Outcry Is Just Latest In A Series

Saigon, Viet Nam (AP)—U.S. officials on the scene in Viet Nam have left it to Washington to answer international repercussions over the disclosure that nonlethal gases were used in the war against the Viet Cong.

Nonetheless a current of cynicism is apparent in various quarters here. One official who asked that his name not be used commented:

"People on the outside just have no idea what this war is all about or how it is fought. It's a rough and brutal war. The Viet Cong has never heard of the Marquis of Queensbury or Geneva Convention, and we can't afford to lose just because we have heard of them."

Latest In Series

The critical international reaction to the use of gas was the latest in a series of similar reactions.

In 1962, American planes began dumping chemical weed killer over stretches of jungle adjoining canals and roads, to destroy cover used by guerrillas for ambushes.

Success was limited, but the program was continued. North Viet Nam made defoliation a major propaganda theme, claiming the American chemicals were killing crops and people. At first, international reaction was loudly critical, but eventually the attacks tapered off. Defoliation still is carrried out and little is said about it.

Napalm

The use of gasoline-based incendiary munitions such as napalm has brought periodic outcries from critics of American policy. The criticism of tear gas is linked to the use of napalm.

In fact, napalm and flame throwers have been used here for years. Napalm was a standard weapon of the French air force in fighting the Viet Minh. Inevitably, corpses are piled up as the result of its use, some of them the bodies of women and children.

Other weapons used by American and Vietnamese forces also have become controversial. One of these weapons is the 223-caliber Armalite rifle, introduced in combat for the first time in Viet Nam.

Jagged Wound

The rifle has a muzzle velocity so high that its metal-jacketed bullet virtually explodes when it hits a human being, causing a huge, jagged wound. The effect is similar to the dum-dum expanding bullet outlawed by the Geneva Convention.

But the Armalite has proved to be an exceptionally serviceable jungle weapon. The Viet Cong uses as many Armalites as it can capture from South Viet Nam forces.

Most controversial of all is the practice of torturing prisoners, generally with electric shocks, or smothering with wet towels.

Murder and torture have been standard accessories to Viet Cong tactics for years. Prisoners often are killed outright or tortured to death. Troops on both sides are fond of beheading their enemies to get grisly trophies.

America, deeply involved as it is in the Vietnamese conflict, has inevitably become involved in the "dirtier" sides of the war. U.S. advisers generally are somewhere around when prisoners are taken, and often witness ugly things.

Committee Calls For Higher U.S. Contribution To Conservation Plan

Washington (AP)— The House Appropriations Committee called Thursday for increased federal contributions to a joint federal-state land and water conservation program.

Under the program, outdoor recreation facilities would be financed by receipts from admissions and other revenues of the land and water conservation fund.

The committee approved the Interior Department's $125 million budget request to get the program under way, but changed the matching basis.

The department had recommended that the state provide 60% of the funds and the federal government 40%. The committee recommended a 50-50 matching formula, which would increase the federal share of the program from $74,136,000 to $90,000,000.

Rejecting some requests for land acquisition funds, the committee said, "There is an urgent need to develop a long-range federal land acquisition program that identifies, insofar as possible, areas that are expected to be acquired from appropriations from the land and water conservation fund."

The committee said the Bureau of Outdoor Recreation should plan the long-range program, "giving emphasis to land acquisitions in those areas of the nation where outdoor recreation needs are greatest and should be coordinated with state and local government and private acquisition and development plans insofar as possible."

Pro-Westerner Is Premier Of Ceylon

Colombo, Ceylon (UPI)— Pro-Western Dudley S. Senanayake Thursday was sworn in as prime minister of Ceylon following the resignation of leftist-backed Mrs. Sirimavo Bandaranaike who had held power in this rubber-and-tea-rich island for more than four years.

The swearing-in of Senanayake, a staunch anti-Communist who served twice before as premier, ended tension and uncertainty which had prevailed Wednesday when Mrs. Bandaranaike delayed her resignation.

Mrs. Bandaranaike's Socialist Sri Lanka Freedom Party was badly defeated by Senanayake's United National Party in Monday's parliamentary elections. Her inclusion of Communists in the cabinet and her pro-Peking leanings were believed mainly responsible.

66 Seats For UNP

The United National Party emerged as the strongest single group in the elections, winning 66 seats. The Freedom Party won only 41. In the old parliament the United National Party held 41 seats to 75 for the Freedom Party.

Ceylon's problems with American and British oil companies were expected to be solved quickly under Senanayake, a promise made during the campaign by his deputy leader, J. R. Jayewardena.

American-Ceylonese relations were strained and U.S. foreign aid was suspended after the Bandaranaike government delayed payment of compensation to the companies for property it had nationalized.

Possible Competition

Jayewardena said Ceylon might permit American-owned companies to compete with the national oil company in a move to help bolster the sagging economy.

Committee Calls For Higher U.S. Contribution To Conservation Plan

Washington (AP)— The House Appropriations Committee called Thursday for increased federal contributions to a joint federal-state land and water conservation program.

Under the program, outdoor recreation facilities would be financed by receipts from admissions and other revenues of the land and water conservation fund.

The committee approved the Interior Department's $125 million budget request to get the program under way, but changed the matching basis.

The department had recommended that the state provide 60% of the funds and the federal government 40%. The committee recommended a 50-50 matching formula, which would increase the federal share of the program from $74,136,000 to $90,000,000.

Rejecting some requests for land acquisition funds, the committee said, "There is an urgent need to develop a long-range federal land acquisition program that identifies, insofar as possible, areas that are expected to be acquired from appropriations from the land and water conservation fund."

The committee said the Bureau of Outdoor Recreation should plan the long-range program, "giving emphasis to land acquisitions in those areas of the nation where outdoor recreation needs are greatest and should be coordinated with state and local government and private acquisition and development plans insofar as possible."

FU Creameries Board Loyalty Resolution OKd

..NFO Proxy Vote Challenge Fails

By GLENN KREUSCHER
Farm Editor

Grand Island—The board members of the Farmers Union Coop Creameries must be 100% loyal to the marketing cooperative and not to the National Farmers Organization or any other group, according to a resolution passed by a vote of 140 yes to 83 no at the annual meeting of the FU Creameries Thursday.

An additional 3,206 proxy votes were cast supporting the resolution that read "no persons shall be eligible to take or hold office as a director of this corporation who is a member of or who advocates the policies of any other organization or group which seeks to control by contract or otherwise the marketing of the product handled by this cooperative for its patrons.

"Proof of such conflict or interest upon the part of any director shall be sufficient grounds and reason for suspension of his right to powers as a director by majority action of the board and recall and dismissal of such director by vote of the stockholders at any regular or special meeting.

"Provided notice of such suspension in the proposed recall of such director is included of such in stockholders meeting provided such notice is given to the director not less than 10 days before the date of such meeting."

Battle Flared

Prior to the passing of the resolution the battle for control of the Farmers Union Creameries by the NFO flared on the meeting floor as NFO members sought to challenge proxy vote and the purpose of the resolution.

NFO members contested the use of proxy vote on the introduction of an amendment which had been made from the floor, but were unsuccessful in establishing their point.

Elton Berck, president of the Farmers Union, took to the rostrum when NFO members questioned the purpose of the resolution and said, "Ever since the election at the last annual meeting, the NFO has attempted to force a marketing contract on the association.

"This would threaten the destruction and death of an organization that has served well for nearly 50 years. We want people in charge of the company who are dedicated to carry on our tremendous fine cooperation that has existed for this period."

In the election of three directors on the 1965 ballot, FU members re-elected Carl Bauer of Hildreth, Louis J. Overmiller of Smith Center, Kan., and Henry Buresh of Osceola. They were named over a list of candidates supported by the NFO.

Wahoo May Have College By This Fall

Wahoo—A corporation is being formed to reopen Luther Junior College facilities to the public this fall, according to Lee Bronson, spokesman for a committee of Wahoo men who have been working for this cause.

Bronson said the committee completed negotiatons with Midland Lutheran College in Fremont, owners of the facility, this week and that the group has an option to purchase it within the next 30 years.

Purchase price was not disclosed.

Bronson said the college expects to have an enrollment of 200 students this fall, seeking degrees in liberal arts.

The college campus, located on the northwest edge of Wahoo, consists of approximately 20 acres of land. Luther was closed in June of 1962 after some 75 years of service following a merger between four Lutheran synods.

'Redbird' A Partial Endicott History

By DEAN TERRILL
Southeast Nebraska Bureau

Endicott—Ginger snaps were a dime a pound when "The Redbird" first feathered out, and Vol. 1 No. 1 noted that nine former students were in CCC camps.

Not that 30 years is so long, century-wise, but in this case it is quite a skein of community service. The little school paper uniquely has chronicled Endicott's deaths and Sunday dinner guests, birthday anniversaries and basketball, dog bites and this winter's big derailment.

"We still have every issue, so the file serves as a partial town history," related longtime advisor Ruth Wallace. Principal Dorothy Strain had taken her Redbird turn during WWII—and both are veteran enough to remember the '34 duplicator that started it all.

Always more than a school paper, the bi-weekly 10-pager still intersperses every "local" imaginable among the 100% spellers and such. The high school enrollment is down and Ray Thomas' haircuts are up a quarter, but Vaughn's Grocery is still a faithful advertiser.

Each issue enriches the tradition — and sometimes history as well. The recent blizzard account, for example, noted that "activities have been scheduled, postponed, rescheduled and repostponed and are still hanging in the balance."

"It doesn't seem long ago that the parents of several present staff members worked on the paper," recalled Miss Wallace. "Every year we have to get across that a paper comes out on time, but we've never missed a deadline."

Patricia Fairchild heads the present staff of four seniors and five juniors, also known less colorfully as "office practice class."

Neatly mimeographed, the publication goes every other Friday to 140 subscribers as far away as California and Oregon.

"It seems the adults look forward to the local news as much as the students do the school news," said Patricia. "You should hear the phone ringing if some get missed."

Engineer Declares Missouri River Is Not As Muddy As People Think

Atchison, Kan. (AP)—An Army Engineer declared Thursday that the Big Muddy—Missouri River—is not as muddy as people think and much of recent complaining about it stems from the nation's new breed of water sports enthusiasts jumping to conclusions.

The defender of the river was D. C. Bondurant, head of the Sediment Investigation Section for the Corp of Engineers in Omaha, who spoke to the quarterly meeting of the Missouri River Basin Interagency Committee. His speech was a reply to what he described as a number of comments including newspaper editorials and letters to congressmen about sedimentation in Missouri River reservoirs.

"Without exception, these comments have been uninformed and alarmist in character," Bondurant said. "Now that recreation has exploded into such a major activity, thousands of people who would have hardly noticed the existence of a reservoir a few years ago are swarming along the shore lines or on the reservoirs—fishing, boating or indulging in some other forms of aquatic activity.

"They see the inlets where they launch their boats filling with sediment or they see a mile or so of delta deposit without realizing that the deposits occupy only a few miles, with a thousand miles of open water overall."

Rites Saturday For Child Killed In Auto Accident

Graveside services will be held at Lincoln Memorial Park at 3 p.m. Saturday for Michael B. Johnston, 7, son of Mr. and Mrs. W. Wallace Johnston of Vermillion, S.D.

Surviving are his parents; sister, Theresa; brothers, Randall and Jerry, at home, and Delvan, attending the University of Oregon at Eugene; and his grandparents, Mrs. W. K. Johnston of Lincoln and Mr. and Mrs. Raymond L. Heiss of Page. A memorial service is scheduled for Saturday morning in Vermillion.

'Fritz' Reunited With His Mother For First Time In Nearly 8 Years

Omaha (AP)—John F. (Fritz) Johnson, the Omaha television announcer, who turned out to be a missing Ohioan, has been reunited with his mother for the first time in nearly eight years.

Mrs. Stephen Bader of Akron, Ohio, came here Wednesday night without advance notice. She spent the evening with her son.

Johnson's doctors have said they can find no evidence the Omaha man remembers life as Lawrence Bader. Bader disappeared in May, 1957.

Johnson's brothers, Richard and John, flew to Omaha last week to visit with him and talk to his doctors. They said afterward they have not the slighttest doubt their brother has no recollection of his former life in Ohio.

Johnson has been undergoing psychiatric treatment and Mrs. Bader recently sent pictures from the family album to the Omaha doctors for use in memory restoration efforts.

Mrs. Bader followed her daily custom of going to church by attending mass here Thursday.

Thursday evening Mrs. Bader had dinner with her son and his family doctor at the steakhouse where Johnson first worked when he came to Omaha.

Friday she will meet Johnson's two Omaha children—one adopted—who were said to be looking forward to the visit of "Grandmother Bader."

Harry Farnham, Johnson's attorney, said there are no plans for Mrs. Bader to meet Johnson's Omaha wife, Nancy.

Johnson was married and the father of four in Ohio. Since his identification as Bader he and Nancy have been living apart.

The Independent Citizen

By WILLIAM O. DOBLER

A current analysis of the state's implied consent law produced one story of interest In one county, the rumor was heard, not a single case of implied consent has been filed since enactment of the law six years ago. The law is one whereby you agree in accepting your driver's license to submit when questioned to a test for drunken driving.

If you refuse the test, you have violated a condition of your license and that license is automatically revoked The law immediately loses its effect if not applied by law-enforcement agencies, which apparently is the case in one county. The rumor is that people in that county just don't like to fool around with such things If somebody has a few too many and bangs into a neighbor's car, everyone just gets together and talks the situation out, the damage is repaired and everyone lives happily ever after. Apparently, the theory there is that the implied consent law is only adding to the problems of people.

The Local Rule

Probably there still are some areas of Nebraska where the law is more what people want it to be than what might be on the books but such would be the exception, not the rule. In general, the implied consent law is enforced by law-enforcement agencies.

The next step in the law comes at the state level where the Department of Motor Vehicles has the responsibility of actually revoking the licenses. But it has turned out there that the automatic revocation is not quite so automatic as backers of this law had originally intended. When things started out, 62 test refusals brought revocation and six were dismissed.

In the year 1964, there were 143 license revocations under the implied consent proceedings and 205 dismissals. It is pretty obvious that what was intended by the law has not come to be the case in actual practice. It just is not at all reasonable that there would be more dismissals than revocations. A dismissal means that the individual had what the state department considered a valid excuse for refusing to take a drunken driving test. But the reasons given by the department director for dismissals sound pretty weak. There seems to be two reasons for this weakness. One, the department director does not seem to think too highly of the law and, therefore, gives all benefit of doubt to the citizen.

Secondly, the law places a judicial matter in the hands of an administrative department and you could not expect much good to come of that. Fortunately, Gov. Frank Morrison has said he will ask the attorney general to prepare a bill transferring responsibility in implied consent cases from the Department of Motor Vehicles to the courts. This will eliminate the weakness of judicial determination by an administrator. Those who refuse to submit to a test will not be able to avoid license revocation through use of a legal smokescreen. When placed in the courts, the law will come to apply equally to all, as it should.

The next big question is whether we want the implied consent law, at all. It still is what Motor Vehicles Department Director B. H. G. Eiting says it is—a switch from normal law-enforcement methods. He pointed out that it, in effect, requires a person to testify against himself.

Also, it is a law that assumes guilt until proven innocent and that is quite a reversal of things. The constitutionality of the law is still something we cannot comprehend in view of these unorthodox aspects. If we have such a law, it should be applied with justice but why it was ever passed in the first place is a question the Legislature might now want to ask itself.

The Legislature has not struck much of a blow for equity but perhaps will make a contribution to the health of the state through its final adoption of a big boost in cigarette taxes. Why cigarette smokers should pay more taxes than non-smokers is a bit of logic that escapes us and it would be a grand and glorious thing if the public would cast a fatal blow at such tactics. It would be a fatal blow if the tax hike caused people by the thousands to give up smoking, especially cigarettes. This might also do a lot for the health of the state in general.

Tax Hike For Smokers

Cigarette smokers, it is hoped, will give a lot of thought to the fact that they are paying some $30 or more a year in state taxes that are not paid by other people. The tax would prove to be of real value if it drove people from the smoking habit. That would be of much more real benefit than the income from the tax itself.

Authority In Education

The outbreak of student protests at universities in various parts of the country has caught the concern of many people. Educators themselves have attempted to critically examine the conflicts that have developed with the thought in mind that improvement is a goal never to be forsaken.

There are many ideas of what constitutes the right kind of campus life, the right kind of student body and the right kind of faculty. The matter of academic freedom is often a part of the issues we face today in higher education and there is far from unanimous agreements as to what this does and should constitute.

But it would seem that certain things are clear. When it comes to the establishment of curriculum and the order of life on campus, the university administration occupies a role of finality. The same thing has to apply in the area of total responsibility or administration of the affairs of the institution.

There can be no question where final authority lies and if it is anywhere but the administration, we would be in for endless chaos. You cannot have anarchy in the operation of a college or university any more than you can in any other group or organization of people.

Just as clearly, there is a rule for responsible student participation in the affairs of the institution. The student voice is not one that should be silenced but matters cannot be left to the student body for final determination. Certainly, an unfortunate situation has developed when the matter of authority is one of major debate.

Policy Not Easy To Change

The dawn of Nebraska's bright new water conservation age seems to come up hard and cloudy.

The 1963 law, which was an early step in new water policy, extended state control of waterways, drainage ditches and man-made streams.

One cannot state at this time how long that law will last but the Legislature's Public Works Committee is already being occupied by LB329, a measure proposing to end the control.

The bill represents the feelings of a good number of Lincoln county irrigators. It was introduced by Sen. Cecil Kraft of North Platte and is primarily in the interests of farmer irrigators in the Platte Valley west of North Platte.

Proponents of the measure said in effect, "We don't want any controls. We can regulate our own water usage."

This is recognizable attitude and is certainly tenable if other factors permit it. And it does represent a characteristic attitude of Nebraskans to see to their own business.

But in this age of growing demand for a fixed amount of water we wonder if these same people would be as content with no law if perhaps an industry or some needy community or some farmers elsewhere decided to tap the same sources of water and thus reduce the gallonage these people are presently enjoying.

The present regulatory law is as much a defense for those now dependent on water as it is a refuge for those who will one day need water.

A changing policy of any kind does not come easily because it inevitably threatens present uses and past custom. And water is no exception. But Nebraska's full economic potential does take precedence and wise legislation now can avert serious controversy in the future.

Problem Is Resolved

Good diplomacy, mutually fostered, has removed one more point of controversy between Mexico and the United States—an event that makes us all happier.

We are learning how to get along with our good and valuable neighbor to the south.

This time at Juarez, Mexico, negotiators for the United States and Mexico have put together a pact which will permit Mexico to divert Colorado River water, during its period of salinity, away from an irrigation district involving 300,000 acres in the Mexicali valley. The United States will contribute $5 million to the cost of a diversion canal and Mexico will drop its request for "pure" river water for all of the 1.5 million acre feet guaranteed under a treaty in 1944.

The successful solution reminds of a series of recent year settlements of border problems. Not long ago the United States returned to Mexico a piece of valuable land in the environs of El Paso. It was Mexican land switched to the north bank by the tortuous Rio Grande river and later improved by El Paso.

Such things are signs of maturing friendliness between the two countries, coupled with a new and higher regard on the part of the United States. Preceding these changes have been a growing population on our side of the border and a growing knowledge of Mexico by greater travel into Mexico, plus, of course Mexico's more stable government and the rapid improvement of the Mexican society.

Mexico is a delightful country, tremendously rich in resources with an exceptionly mild and agreeable climate. Its language, art, age and customs give it a distinct foreign atmosphere. A visit there is truly a rewarding experience for any American. A strong and unshakeable friendship is the greatest need of both countries and it is rapidly being developed.

Degenerate Poor In Washington

WASHINGTON — My distinguished colleagues on the Washington Post have been crusading for the improvement of Toby Town, a pocket of Negro poverty in Maryland, 19 miles from the White House. It is a laudable crusade.

I happen to live next door to Toby Town and know something of its problems. There is nothing about Toby Town and its poverty which a church, less liquor, and the abolition of Sunday gambling will not cure.

There have been four murders in Toby Town in the last twenty years. This, in a population of seventy, is a high ratio of death by physical violence. All of the murders resulted from liquor, or quarrels over the gambling take, or both.

Not far from Toby Town, about two miles away on the Berryville road, there is another Negro community. Unlike the squalor and poverty of Toby Town, this Negro community is clean, its fences neat, its vegetable gardens well kept, its front yards festooned with flowers. It has running water in most homes, and flush toilets. The privies which feature Toby Town are no more.

Perhaps most important of all, it has a church. It's a community church of no particular denomination, but its citizens get leadership and inspiration from that church.

The mainstay of the community is Harry Clipper, a Negro patriarch who doesn't squander his salary on liquor every weekend. Other members of the community follow his example.

I happen to employ one resident of Toby Town and have offered to employ others over a period of twenty years. I know these people well. I like them and trust them when they are sober. They could make admirable citizens if liquor and craps were not the order of every weekend.

It is true, as reported by the Washington Post, that the backyards of Toby Town are unkempt. But they are cleaner than some of the areas around the freedom houses in Mississippi where northern students live in squalor and untidiness which makes better-class Mississippi Negroes give them a wide berth.

It is also true that the younger generation of Toby Town has deteriorated to a state of perpetual unemployment.

Their trouble is the constant example of alcoholism and of weekly profits thrown in the dust of the Sunday's crap game. It's not an atmosphere conducive to rearing an energetic or community-minded younger generation.

I have long tried to figure out what could be the salvation of Toby Town. I have talked with some of its citizens and with the white and Negro neighbors around it.

I am not sure there will ever be a salvation for some of its citizens. But I do believe that if it had the example of church leadership, plus a crackdown on gambling and bootlegging, Toby Town would be able to lift itself out of poverty. Its white neighbors have offered to help.

Bill Undermines Reapportionment

WASHINGTON — A Senate preparing to pass a voting rights bill with a whoop and a holler is simultaneously engaged in wrapping up a stupendous lollipop for the status quo not only in the South but all over the country.

It will cut down the value of the Negro's vote when he gets it together with that of other minorities and all the voters who cram the urban areas where 85 percent of Americans now live. This will be the effect and not very heavily disguised intent of the sweetmeat which will nullify the Supreme Court's "one man, one vote" ruling of June 15, 1964.

A constitutional amendment wrapper has been fixed upon, and a Judiciary subcommittee on such moves is holding hearings on what form it should take. However, the yea votes were there at the start in that citadel of conservatism of which Sen. James Eastland is chairman.

The central structure embraces the principle that states should be permitted to apportion one house of their legislatures on a basis other than population. This immense latitude is qualified by the proviso that a majority of the people must vote for the change. How this would work out in practice is unclear

The project, and especially the timing, is again from the hand of the old master, Republican Leader Everett Dirksen. Dirksen is at the peak of his popularity for his civil rights services. President Johnson's close relations with him in the practice of consensus lend him a helpful coloration in the matter of prestige.

Dirksen has a valid and 100 percent Republican reason for his efforts. His party's rural roots are vital to its power in many states, including New York. That is why the liberal Sen. Jacob Javits is going along part of the way.

The big states with their great cities are the base of the Democratic party's strength and must continue to be. The top-heavy majorities that they have enabled the party to gain in Congress seem to have no place in the thinking of Senate Democratic Leader Mike Mansffield, who once more is prepared to swing along with his opposition leader.

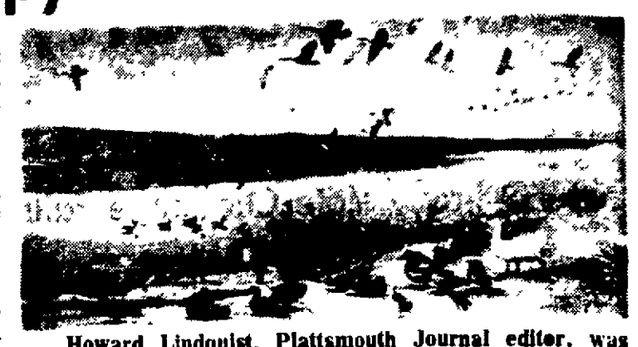

Really staggering, however, is the Senate's near-total indifference to the true condition of the state legislatures in today's world. Even casual readers of newspapers must observe their many internal weaknesses. Experts have come to question their capacity to deal with new and complex questions.

THE NEIGHBORS SAY

A Happy TV Non-Listener

By MONA B. PARKER

Howard Lindquist, Plattsmouth Journal editor, was deeply moved by a rare and wonderful sight. The waterfowl migration is on at the game refuge near there and the stopover birds, ducks and geese, number in the thousands from day to day. The refuge itself is not open to the public yet and Mr. Lindquist describes the coming and going as one of the truly thrilling sights of this modern age. "In this era of vanishing frontiers, the wilderness of the wild waterfowl remains unchanged, his aloofness to man complete, the wild goose's call completely a thing of his own world."

Marlin Waechter hopes Stanton Register readers "didn't mothball those longies a couple of days ago when the temperatures were back up in two figures. If you were so foolish, we'll bet you've retrieved and sewed yourself up in 'em again by now. Br-r-r!"

Mud, states Mrs. Lester Eastwood in the Pawnee Republican, is deep when it has enough suction to pull off a loosely fitting overshoe. But mud is too deep when a man loses a rubber boot in his own barnlot.

Farm life down that way, she says, proceeds at slow pace these days . . .

"Chore times stretch out interminably as man and animals plod deliberately through the mire. On rural roads where rock and gravel are thin enough to break through, traffic proceeds slowly along the dry middle line. Each driver is fearful that he may meet another vehicle at the top of a hill. Farm driveways are one-way passages—no place to turn around. Cars are either driven or backed out, or backed in and driven out, whichever plan seems the most feasible."

Fae Montgomery took herself away from duties at the Morrill Mail office and on a jaunt to a neighboring town, and she had some glimpses of springtime . . .

She was surprised to see a few industrious farmers here and there, busy in the field, some plowing, some spreading fertilizer. She even saw a team of horses harnessed to a wagon, not often to be seen anywhere any more. And a couple of sacks of potatoes beside the wagon.

As a youngster back East, she said her family always put spuds into the ground on Good Friday. Neighbors planted by the moon, but she never understood this, and "our garden just got planted, for the most part, when we got around to it after we could get it plowed. If it came up or not seemed to depend on the elements and our care. Maybe one year we had mostly beans and the next an abundance of tomatoes. But we always had a garden."

Helen Marr sets forth in the Walthill Citizen a suggestion for decorating eggs for Easter with invisible writing or drawing on the eggs. You dissolve an ounce of alum secured from grocery or drugstore in a cupful of vinegar, dip a small pointed brush in the solution and write or draw or otherwise decorate an uncooked egg. You let the solution dry thoroughly, then cook the egg in simmering water for 15 minutes. When the egg is shelled, the white will display message or design. The hard-cooked egg may be colored to make it more attractive before being shelled.

J. C. Crosland of the Hooker County Tribune of Mullen was considering an entirely different aspect of the seasons of spring and summer that many of us television viewers would just as soon be leaving behind us . . .

"I'll probably be glad, in a few more weeks, that I have not been watching television a great deal. I might find a few programs I've missed when the re-run season starts.

Bill Plourd, Nance County Journal, is now possessed of a gadget that makes him completely happy. He can turn off the sound of his TV without getting up from his chair.

With such a means of detaching himself from the Great Captive Audience, he no longer worries about the shocked comments of the daughter who discovers her mother using shampoo with milk in it. He couldn't care less about Junior's tooth cavities, percentagewise. And "the aesthetic and cultural frontiers that have been crossed in the manufacture of bathroom paper no longer impress me."

A six-year-old Hastings youngster had the perfect solution all worked out, after hearing his parents discuss the cost of sending their child to college. He stated flatly that he wasn't going. When his mother wanted to know why, he spelled it out for her.

"Why spend all that money to go to college when I can go to Sunday school for ten cents a week?"

Crime Rate

Hastings, Neb.

The crime wave is increasing at a very alarming rate and we should arouse ourselves to a means of checking it. It can be done.

First, we might consider the cause. During the past 50 years, it has become more and more the custom for both parents to be away from home in gainful employment, and baby-sitters are not parents. Sometimes it is almost necessary for both parents to earn something, but not always. Christ once told his followers that a man's life does not consist in the abundance of his possessions. Today we have other ideas. Money has become our meter to measure man.

We must not think it the business of law-enforcement agencies to build the good society. That is the business of the church and it should not be dodged. Court records show that the young people who have had Sunday school training have a much lower record of crime than those who have not had it. It is reasonable to think that if the churches would bring all the young people under their influence, the crime wave would recede. The young people should be taught that there is a God in heaven who rewards with everlasting life those who do His will on earth. They should know that the Bible teaches among other things that one must not steal, must not commit adultery, must not kill, etc. Then that teaching will build a conscience against all crimes. Necessity demands that the light shine more intensely.

Education

Lincoln, Neb.

Higher education financed mostly by tuition? (Shudder!) Shades of the early 1800's! Why not go all the way? Those who can afford private tutors are entitled to a full education.

The most glorious pages of labor history deal with education. A bitter clash over tax-supported schools broke out in the 1830's. The Rhode Island legislature said it would keep such a wild idea out of the state at bayonet point, if necessary. A wealthy Indiana conservative asked why he should pay taxes for schooling of people "who were better suited to their station without it." What the common man needed was more work to keep him from thinking up mischievous schemes against his betters.

My machinists' union was founded in the pit of a railroad roundhouse, not for higher wages but for better education opportunities for their children. Many wealthy people called universal public education "socialism."

Since 1806 the courts had outlawed unions as criminal conspiracies, which only made labor more determined to build unions and to change the law, the courts and society. Our forebears were ridiculed as "workies" but these heralds of Jeffersonian democracy fought hard and well and won many benefits Americans take for granted today. We would have long since been turned under, but for public education.

Russian space accomplishments are sobering. To us it will be a tragedy if LB826 cannot be implemented.

Britain's Plan

Lincoln, Neb.

A British social scientist who is doing post-graduate study in the United States under the Fulbright Plan writes in the New Republic of the operations in the United Kingdom of the government's National Health Service.

He says there are about 40,000 general practitioners of medicine, with average incomes of $168 per week, which he observes is about four times the salaries paid to college professors. Each doctor has an average of 2,300 potential patients.

To support the health service, each family pays a mean levy of $130 per year, the rich and the poor alike. This pays for hospitalization, physician, dentist and optician service, all medicines and surgeons' fees. It includes, under a supervised insurance plan, for unemployment, old age pensions and family support.

Under the plan which was started in 1948 and has been amended from time to time, the British Medical Journal is cited as having claimed that the general health of the United Kingdom has been greatly bettered, that the people of low income who most need medical care are remaining productive and living longer and more happily. It is also held out that the United States remains far behind most advanced nations in permitting the money motive to becloud the professional ability of medical workers for the best interest of the entire public.

Degenerate Poor In Washington

WASHINGTON — My distinguished colleagues on the Washington Post have been crusading for the improvement of Toby Town, a pocket of Negro poverty in Maryland, 19 miles from the White House. It is a laudable crusade.

I happen to live next door to Toby Town and know something of its problems. There is nothing about Toby Town and its poverty which a church, less liquor, and the abolition of Sunday gambling will not cure.

There have been four murders in Toby Town in the last twenty years. This, in a population of seventy, is a high ratio of death by physical violence. All of the murders resulted from liquor, or quarrels over the gambling take, or both.

Not far from Toby Town, about two miles away on the Berryville road, there is another Negro community. Unlike the squalor and poverty of Toby Town, this Negro community is clean, its fences neat, its vegetable gardens well kept, its front yards festooned with flowers. It has running water in most homes, and flush toilets. The privies which feature Toby Town are no more.

Perhaps most important of all, it has a church. It's a community church of no particular denomination, but its citizens get leadership and inspiration from that church.

The mainstay of the community is Harry Clipper, a Negro patriarch who doesn't squander his salary on liquor every weekend. Other members of the community follow his example.

I happen to employ one resident of Toby Town and have offered to employ others over a period of twenty years. I know these people well. I like them and trust them when they are sober. They could make admirable citizens if liquor and craps were not the order of every weekend.

It is true, as reported by the Washington Post, that the backyards of Toby Town are unkempt. But they are cleaner than some of the areas around the freedom houses in Mississippi where northern students live in squalor and untidiness which makes better-class Mississippi Negroes give them a wide berth.

It is also true that the younger generation of Toby Town has deteriorated to a state of perpetual unemployment.

Their trouble is the constant example of alcoholism and of weekly profits thrown in the dust of the Sunday's crap game. It's not an atmosphere conducive to rearing an energetic or community-minded younger generation.

I have long tried to figure out what could be the salvation of Toby Town. I have talked with some of its citizens and with the white and Negro neighbors around it.

I am not sure there will ever be a salvation for some of its citizens. But I do believe that if it had the example of church leadership, plus a crackdown on gambling and bootlegging, Toby Town would be able to lift itself out of poverty. Its white neighbors have offered to help.

Bill Undermines Reapportionment

WASHINGTON — A Senate preparing to pass a voting rights bill with a whoop and a holler is simultaneously engaged in wrapping up a stupendous lollipop for the status quo not only in the South but all over the country.

It will cut down the value of the Negro's vote when he gets it together with that of other minorities and all the voters who cram the urban areas where 85 percent of Americans now live. This will be the effect and not very heavily disguised intent of the sweetmeat which will nullify the Supreme Court's "one man, one vote" ruling of June 15, 1964.

A constitutional amendment wrapper has been fixed upon, and a Judiciary subcommittee on such moves is holding hearings on what form it should take. However, the yea votes were there at the start in that citadel of conservatism of which Sen. James Eastland is chairman.

The central structure embraces the principle that states should be permitted to apportion one house of their legislatures on a basis other than population. This immense latitude is qualified by the proviso that a majority of the people must vote for the change. How this would work out in practice is unclear.

The project, and especially the timing, is again from the hand of the old master, Republican Leader Everett Dirksen. Dirksen is at the peak of his popularity for his civil rights services. President Johnson's close relations with him in the practice of consensus lend him a helpful coloration in the matter of prestige.

Dirksen has a valid and 100 percent Republican reason for his efforts. His party's rural roots are vital to its power in many states, including New York. That is why the liberal Sen. Jacob Javits is going along part of the way.

The big states with their great cities are the base of the Democratic party's strength and must continue to be. The top-heavy majorities that they have enabled the party to gain in Congress seem to have no place in the thinking of Senate Democratic Leader Mike Mansffield, who once more is prepared to swing along with his opposition leader.

Really staggering, however, is the Senate's near-total indifference to the true condition of the state legislatures in today's world. Even casual readers of newspapers must observe their many internal weaknesses. Experts have come to question their capacity to deal with new and complex questions.

THE NEIGHBORS SAY

A Happy TV Non-Listener

By MONA B. PARKER

Howard Lindquist, Plattsmouth Journal editor, was deeply moved by a rare and wonderful sight. The waterfowl migration is on at the game refuge near there and the stopover birds, ducks and geese, number in the thousands from day to day. The refuge itself is not open to the public yet and Mr. Lindquist describes the coming and going as one of the truly thrilling sights of this modern age. "In this era of vanishing frontiers, the wilderness of the wild waterfowl remains unchanged, his aloofness to man complete, the wild goose's call completely a thing of his own world."

Marlin Waechter hopes Stanton Register readers "didn't mothball those longies a couple of days ago when the temperatures were back up in two figures. If you were so foolish, we'll bet you've retrieved and sewed yourself up in 'em again by now. Br-r-r!"

Mud, states Mrs. Lester Eastwood in the Pawnee Republican, is deep when it has enough suction to pull off a loosely fitting overshoe. But mud is too deep when a man loses a rubber boot in his own barnlot.

Farm life down that way, she says, proceeds at slow pace these days . . .

"Chore times stretch out interminably as man and animals plod deliberately through the mire. On rural roads where rock and gravel are thin enough to break through, traffic proceeds slowly along the dry middle line. Each driver is fearful that he may meet another vehicle at the top of a hill. Farm driveways are one-way passages—no place to turn around. Cars are either driven or backed out, or backed in and driven out, whichever plan seems the most feasible."

Fae Montgomery took herself away from duties at the Morrill Mail office and on a jaunt to a neighboring town, and she had some glimpses of springtime . . .

She was surprised to see a few industrious farmers here and there, busy in the field, some plowing, some spreading fertilizer. She even saw a team of horses harnessed to a wagon, not often to be seen anywhere any more. And a couple of sacks of potatoes beside the wagon.

As a youngster back East, she said her family always put spuds into the ground on Good Friday. Neighbors planted by the moon, but she never understood this, and "our garden just got planted, for the most part, when we got around to it after we could get it plowed. If it came up or not seemed to depend on the elements and our care. Maybe one year we had mostly beans and the next an abundance of tomatoes. But we always had a garden."

Helen Marr sets forth in the Walthill Citizen a suggestion for decorating eggs for Easter with invisible writing or drawing on the eggs. You dissolve an ounce of alum secured from grocery or drugstore in a cupful of vinegar, dip a small pointed brush in the solution and write or draw or otherwise decorate an uncooked egg. You let the solution dry thoroughly, then cook the egg in simmering water for 15 minutes. When the egg is shelled, the white will display message or design. The hard-cooked egg may be colored to make it more attractive before being shelled.

J. C. Crosland of the Hooker County Tribune of Mullen was considering an entirely different aspect of the seasons of spring and summer that many of us television viewers would just as soon be leaving behind us . . .

"I'll probably be glad, in a few more weeks, that I have not been watching television a great deal. I might find a few programs I've missed when the re-run season starts.

Bill Plourd, Nance County Journal, is now possessed of a gadget that makes him completely happy. He can turn off the sound of his TV without getting up from his chair.

With such a means of detaching himself from the Great Captive Audience, he no longer worries about the shocked comments of the daughter who discovers her mother using shampoo with milk in it. He couldn't care less about Junior's tooth cavities, percentagewise. And "the aesthetic and cultural frontiers that have been crossed in the manufacture of bathroom paper no longer impress me."

A six-year-old Hastings youngster had the perfect solution all worked out, after hearing his parents discuss the cost of sending their child to college. He stated flatly that he wasn't going. When his mother wanted to know why, he spelled it out for her.

"Why spend all that money to go to college when I can go to Sunday school for ten cents a week?"

Brevity in letters is requested but length in itself will have no bearing on publication. Writers are advised that needless details and repetitious matter will be edited out of letters. Crime Rate

Hastings, Neb.

The crime wave is increasing at a very alarming rate and we should arouse ourselves to a means of checking it. It can be done.

First, we might consider the cause. During the past 50 years, it has become more and more the custom for both parents to be away from home in gainful employment, and baby-sitters are not parents. Sometimes it is almost necessary for both parents to earn something, but not always. Christ once told his followers that a man's life does not consist in the abundance of his possessions. Today we have other ideas. Money has become our meter to measure man.

We must not think it the business of law-enforcement agencies to build the good society. That is the business of the church and it should not be dodged. Court records show that the young people who have had Sunday school training have a much lower record of crime than those who have not had it. It is reasonable to think that if the churches would bring all the young people under their influence, the crime wave would recede. The young people should be taught that there is a God in heaven who rewards with everlasting life those who do His will on earth. They should know that the Bible teaches among other things that one must not steal, must not commit adultery, must not kill, etc. Then that teaching will build a conscience against all crimes. Necessity demands that the light shine more intensely.

Education

Lincoln, Neb.

Higher education financed mostly by tuition? (Shudder!) Shades of the early 1800's! Why not go all the way? Those who can afford private tutors are entitled to a full education.

The most glorious pages of labor history deal with education. A bitter clash over tax-supported schools broke out in the 1820's. The Rhode Island legislature said it would keep such a wild idea out of the state at bayonet point, if necessary. A wealthy Indiana conservative asked why he should pay taxes for schooling of people "who were better suited to their station without it." What the common man needed was more work to keep him from thinking up mischievous schemes against his betters.

My machinists' union was founded in the pit of a railroad roundhouse, not for higher wages but for better education opportunities for their children. Many wealthy people called universal public education "socialism."

Since 1806 the courts had outlawed unions as criminal conspiracies, which only made labor more determined to build unions and to change the law, the courts and society. Our forebears were ridiculed as "workies" but these heralds of Jeffersonian democracy fought hard and well and won many benefits Americans take for granted today. We would have long since been turned under, but for public education.

Russian space accomplishments are sobering. To us it will be a tragedy if LB826 cannot be implemented.

Britain's Plan

Lincoln, Neb.

A British social scientist who is doing post-graduate study in the United States under the Fulbright Plan writes in the New Republic of the operations in the United Kingdom of the government's National Health Service.

He says there are about 40,000 general practitioners of medicine, with average incomes of $168 per week, which he observes is about four times the salaries paid to college professors. Each doctor has an average of 2,300 potential patients.

To support the health service, each family pays a mean levy of $130 per year, the rich and the poor alike. This pays for hospitalization, physician, dentist and optician service, all medicines and surgeons' fees. It includes, under a supervised insurance plan, for unemployment, old age pensions and family support.

Under the plan which was started in 1948 and has been amended from time to time, the British Medical Journal is cited as having claimed that the general health of the United Kingdom has been greatly bettered, that the people of low income who most need medical care are remaining productive and living longer and more happily. It is also held out that the United States remains far behind most advanced nations in permitting the money motive to becloud the professional ability of medical workers for the best interest of the entire public.

Gas Tax Hike Passed

By ODELL HANSON
Associated Press Writer

Nebraska's Legislature Thursday passed a bill increasing the state gasoline tax by one-half cent, to 7½ cents, with 80% of the added revenue going to cities for street purposes, and 20% going to counties.

The approving vote on LB25 was 33-16, the absolute minimum of affirmative votes needed to make the bill effective with the emergency clause.

The measure appeared to have fallen one vote short of the 33 affirmative votes needed to make the bill effective on the governor's signature and permit the tax increase to go into effect April 1.

But Sen. Kenneth Bowen of Red Cloud changed his vote from "no" to "aye" to put the proposition over.

It was typical of the tortured route the bill has traveled.

First reported out by the Revenue Committee, the bill was killed on the floor, then was reconsidered and returned to the committee. Emerging once again, it survived still another kill attempt on the floor before moving toward final passage.

At 7½ cents a gallon, Nebraska's state gasoline tax is topped only by Alaska's, and is equalled only by that in Washington State. The federal government taxes gasoline also—at four cents a gallon.

About $3 million

The tax hike will yield an estimated $3 million per year.

With municipalities receiving 80% of this amount, the yield for them will approximate $2.4 million a year, although they will be giving up the $720,000 a year currently provided them under the state highway urban fund, which the bill abolishes.

Counties will pick up an additional $600,000 a year.

The bill says the added revenue for cities shall be distributed to each city and village in the proportion that the population of such city or village bears to the total population of all incorporated cities and villages of the state.

The 20% to counties will similarly be distributed in the proportion that the rural population of each such county bears to the total rural population of the state.

In the form in which Scottsbluff Sen. Terry Carpenter's bill was passed, it represented a type of compromise settlement, at least temporarily, of a long dispute between cities and counties over distribution of gas tax revenue.

With the passage of LB25, sponsors asked permission to withdraw two bills which took other approaches to meeting the street building needs of cities and villages. Action was deferred on the withdrawals because rules require a one day layover.

Lincoln Sen. Hal Bauer asked permission to withdraw his LB245, which would have revised the present seven-cent gas tax allocation formula to give more of the money to municipalities.

And Sen. Cecil Craft of North Platte asked to withdraw his LB409, which would have authorized municipalities to register motor vehicles and collect a fee of up to $5 on each.

In the dramatic final vote, all senators were present and the voting board showed a 32-19 count. Sen. Carpenter changed his "aye" vote to an abstention in order to be in position to move for reconsideration later, but then Sen. Bowen changed his vote to "aye" and the issue was settled.

Except for sales and income tax proposals, the gas tax bill passed Thursday and the cigarette tax increase bill passed Wednesday represent the biggest revenue producing measures expected to confront the body this session.

How legislators voted on final passage of LB25, the gas tax increase bill:

Other bills passed Thursday (E-emergency clause):

LB31—Requiring mutual fund corporations to supply the state tax commissioner with lists of Nebraska stockholders for tax checking purposes. (Carpenter) (49-0).

'Johnson To Ask Farm Program Extensions'

Gov. Frank Morrison Thursday quoted President Johnson as saying he will ask for an extension of some existing farm programs even though they aren't solving the farm problem.

The governor said the President identified the basic problem as loss of farm population and a depressed agricultural economy.

"He said that as long as we are losing people in rural areas and the farm economy is what it is, it's obvious we haven't come up with the right answer," the governor said after visiting with the President in Washington this week.

Theatened Loss

Morrison consulted the President in particular about the threatened loss of $100 million in funds for the Agricultural Conservation Program under the U.S. Department of Agriculture.

The Budget Bureau has proposed a $100 million cut in funds and has proposed establishing a revolving fund whereby cooperators of soil and water conservation districts will be required to pay for the technical services for laying out conservation practices by soil conservation service personnel."

Gov. Morrison said the President wants the farmer to participate directly by putting up money for the soil conservation work.

County Line Annexation Bill Sent On

A controversial bill prohibiting Omaha from annexing across county lines without voter approval of the annexed area was advanced 5-3 to the floor Thursday by the Legislature's Miscellaneous Subjects Committee.

The measure, LB436, drew hot debate in February when aired in public hearing. It was introduced by Sen. Dale Payne of Papillion.

Prompted By Battles

The measure was prompted by annexation battles involving areas along the Douglas-Sarpy County line.

In other action, the committee killed three bottle club bills, which Chairman Eric Rasmussen of Fairmont said were "essentially designed to kill bottle clubs."

Rasmussen said the committee would proceed to draft a bill that "would tighten controls on bottle clubs, but not put them out of business."

He said State Liquor Control Commission recommendations regarding tightening of membership and guest requirements, making license fees more uniform, clarification of the power of attorney and separating licensed from public premises would be considered.

Killed

Axed by the committee were LB712, providing for forfeiture of a bottle club license if the licensee acquires a federal retail stamp; LB508, repealing the power of attorney for the purchase of liquor for members, and LB807, giving communities and counties local option over the establishment of bottle clubs.

Rasmussen said LB394 probably would be used as the vehicle to carry the committee's amendments.

He said desirable aspects of the killed bills may be incorporated into the single bill.

During public hearings, the three bills were opposed by bottle club interests while being backed by licensed retail liquor dealers.

Jets Hit Viet Cong Base Near Cambodia

Saigon, Viet Nam (AP) — Bombs and rockets rained from U.S. Air Force jets Thursday on a suspected Viet Cong headquarters in the jungles of Tay Ninh Province, which adjoins the Cambodian frontier 60 miles northwest of Saigon.

A communist-controlled area 290 miles northeast of Saigon in Binh Dinh Province was another major target of F100 fighters and B57 bombers in an explosive followup to Peking's hint that Red China might send fighting men to help the Red guerrillas.

The Peking threat brought no sign of uneasiness in official quarters in Saigon, where the possibility of Chinese involvement on the Korean War pattern had been included in all military calculations for a decade.

Discounted

Abroad, analysts familiar with Communist Chinese affairs were inclined to discount it as a propaganda gesture.

The key sentence of the broadcast declaration was:

"We are ready to send our men, whenever the South Vietnamese (Viet Cong) people want them, to fight together with the South Vietnamese people to annihilate the U.S. aggressors."

A Western diplomatic expert, back in Hong Kong after a visit to Red China, suggested "the operative word is 'ready.'"

'Very Crafty'

"There is no definite commitment that they will actually go," he said. "Peking has been very crafty in its phrasing of its threats on this question of sending volunteers into the Viet Nam war. It has been playing the brinkmanship game made popular by its hated enemy — the late John Foster Dulles."

The diplomat said he and other Chinese experts he has spoken with do not believe Peking would dispatch troops unless the United States sent ground forces into North Viet Nam.

Nationalist Chinese specialists in Taipei went even further. They said they are convinced there will be no substantial open Chinese Communist intervention. These sources said there has been no indication of any big movement of Communist Chinese toward the Viet Nam since the border forces were beefed up after the Tonkin Gulf incidents last August.

Peking's declaration responded to a broadcast by the Viet Cong's political front Wednesday that it would call for international military help —"youth and army men"— if the United States continues to expand the war.

Though officials were silent, many U.S. military men here of all ranks have longed for an open confrontation with Red China that might settle once and for all the hot and cold wars that have alternated in East Asia since 1948.

"I hope the Chinese are serious about this," one said. "If the volunteers start coming in, we'll have our first chance at playing in our own ball park."

It was in 1955 that Lt. Gen. Samuel T. Williams, a Korean War veteran who then commanded the U.S. military advisory group in Saigon, began tailoring the fledgling South Vietnamese army to meet an onslaught from the north.

Not Same Kind

The army has been largely trained and equipped for conventional warfare, to meet the same kind of threat the South Koreans and their U.N. allies faced in Korea.

This has its drawbacks, for the Vietnamese war has never resembled the Korean conflict. Instead it has become increasingly like the French Indochina war that ended in a communist victory in 1954. Critics said they considered the Williams policy turned out troops ill-equipped for the stealthy jungle combat that has evolved.

But South Viet Nam now has more than 500,000 men under arms, superbly trained to fight a conventional war. Powerful U.S. reinforcements are no farther away than the U.S. 7th Fleet, cruising a few miles offshore. The U.S.-Vietnamese allies consider their air supremacy is guaranteed.

Military sources expressed belief any Chinese volunteers would lack the experience necessary for jungle fighting and, even in substantial numbers, would have a rought time.

Many Believe Sin-Cancer Relationship

Washington (UPI) — A New York pathologist testified Thursday that many sincere persons believe cigarette smoking causes lung cancer because they consider smoking a sin.

Dr. William B. Ober, director of laboratories at Knickerbocker Hospital in New York, described what he called the "Puritan School" of cancer theorists this way:

"They tell us that smoking causes lung cancer, sexual intercourse causes cancer of the cervix and drinking causes cancer of the throat. Lord help us all!

"I think if one starts off with the notion that anything a man does which gives him pleasure is probably sinful, then it is only one step to think it is harmful, and the next thing to do is pass a law against it.

"It is all very well and good to be against sin, but I wish they would define it better."

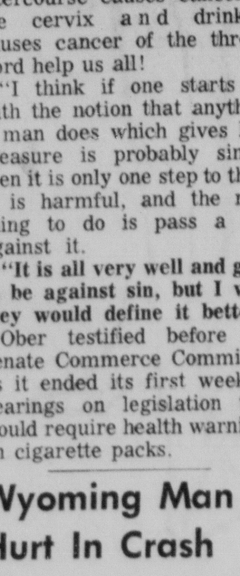

Ober testified before the Senate Commerce Committee as it ended its first week of hearings on legislation that would require health warnings on cigarette packs.

PLAIN FACTS

After all is said – more is usually said than done.

Much is being said about low retail food prices but the fact remains that prices can be too low as well as too high. There is a Nebraska law requiring a 6% over cost minimum retail price; but this law has never been enforced and some items are being offered below cost as sales (sucker) bait. There was one such item listed in four grocery ads of March 18 and three listings were at below cost figures. Customers usually must work fast to get such offerings— one lady demanded one recently and one was procured from the back room. Beechners have had no limits since World War No. 2; in fact, if we do sell out of a special and more is available at our wholesale warehouse, we take orders at our sale price.

Beechner's (and all other) price shoppers are now being directed by one competitor not to write down any of their prices. Why???? We welcome price comparisons by anyone. Our stores are open to the public, we have nothing to hide. But we are advised that some competitor's prices have been raised, some lowered, some rasied then lowered, some still the same but marked with cancelled higher prices and some are offered at below cost prices. We shall now reveal that during the past several years, some of our competitor's price shoppers, as well as some of their employees including checkers, have been regular Beechner customers — they told us where prices were the lowest.

Beechners regular prices are such that we honestly believe that if a customer bought everything at Beechners, he would still do better than elsewhere. Of course, every Beechner price is not lower than elsewhere—no store will ever have that distinction. We often have said that if we could sell at the prices of our competitors, we would get rich.

We do not know how much a customer did, does or will save in any given period, nor will we estimate a figure using hand picked or "temporary" priced items. All that goes up no longer comes down; just as all that goes down does not stay down.

You can help our competitors by buying just their bait and if provoked enough, Beechners might just advise about costs and suggest what to buy. Manufacturer's deals are legitimate and we pass them on to you; but in the main, beware where the saving (?) is too great between the regular price and the bait price.

Remember, it is your money you are spending (saving) so get all you can for it —we have really tried to do this very thing for you at Beechners since 1939.

Abstractor Rules Bill Moved

A bill to establish an abstractors board of examiners and to tighten regulation of the abstractors field was given first round floor approval in the Legislature Thursday.

The bill would establish a five member board to administer tests for licensing of abstractors and to in other ways provide greater regulation of the profession.

The measure, LB133, introduced chiefly by Alliance Sen. George Gerdes, contains the "grandfather" clause and persons now in the abstracting business would not be required to take the test to obtain a license.

Woman Urged To Search For Cause Of Nervous Attacks

(EDITOR'S NOTE: This is the fifth of a series of six consecutive articles dealing with new hope for increasing mental health, and the significant changes that are taking place in the treatment of emotional illness.)

By JOSEPH G. MOLNER, M.D.

Here is a letter that impinges on several aspects of emotional or mental health:

Dear Dr. Molner: I am 29 and have to take nerve pills. I have the type of nervous attacks that make me smother and my heart beats fast and other symptoms develop.

My mother-in-law thinks taking nerve pills will finally put a person in a mental hospital. What is your opinion?

—MRS. J. D.

The mother-in-law is quite mistaken. Nerve pills keep people out of hospitals, not put them in.

But I suspect that Mrs. J. D. herself ought to think a little deeper, too. My mail is abundant evidence that a great many people are limping along on nerve pills, which usually means sedatives or tranquilizers. Both are useful—under proper conditions.

They don't solve the real problem, though. Why does Mrs. J. D. have these nervous attacks? There has to be a reason. With her doctor's help, she should search for that reason. The pills are just a means of temporary relief.

Possible Causes

Often enough an overactive thyroid plays some part in such cases—perhaps a small part, perhaps big. Or too many stimulants, such as too much caffein from too many cups of coffee, tea or cola drinks. After these or other physical possibilities have been eliminated, start asking:

When do these nervous attacks occur? Is there a pattern? A doctor doesn't have to be a psychiatrist to spot some causes. There may be anxieties, frustrations or conflicts which, with a little analysis and thoughtfulness, can be abated. Or sometimes boredom, idleness and lack of interest in anything but oneself can let the mind "start chewing on itself." Keeping busy is an old-fashioned remedy not without merit.

Or to go a step farther, there are indeed cases in which some deep-rooted emotional block can exist, suppressed or unrecognized by the patient. In such cases a psychiatrist may be the only answer, but it is only good sense to look for simpler solutions first.

Personally I also set considerable store by the balm that has existed so long for so many: Religious faith. A rapidly-growing interest in "counseling services" by churchmen is proving its worth.

Amateur Psychiatry

Naturally these projects should operate within wise limits. Amateur psychiatry can do harm. It is gratifying to note that many of these counseling groups operate with the guidance of certified psychiatrists. Faith alone isn't necessarily enough if some deep-seated personality conflict is basically doing the damage.

How can a person tell which is which? Many times you can't, without considerable expert training. That is precisely why some thousands of doctors have been spending long evenings in classes and seminars learning these important, difficult distinctions.

The patient's contribution to his own welfare lies largely in his willingness to adopt a reasonable, co-operative view when the doctor says, "some of this is in your head." Not all, because the physical consequences are only too real, but the cause often lies in the emotions. It is encouraging to note that many patients realize this.

Tomorrow: To conquer emotional problems, first admit that they exist.

Kearney Building Bill Is Advanced

A bill to appropriate $1,250,000 from building funds to complete and furnish a science building at Kearney State College was hustled another step toward passage in the Legislature Thursday.

Senators advanced the measure from select file, the second floor stop enroute to final passage, to enrollment and review for possible technical revisions.

Lawmakers are attempting to hurry processing of the measure, LB868, so the science building completion project can qualify for federal funds during the next biennium.

1 Nancy's a year old and growing fast. She's been eating Wonder Bread for several months. Likes to feed herself.

2 Mary Jane, just 2, has 27 words in her vocabulary. She loves to climb—specially out of her crib at night.

3 3-year-old Gerald takes eating seriously. He refuses some foods entirely, but Wonder Bread has always been a favorite.

4 Tom mimics his father the way most 4-year-olds do. But he has a mind of his own . . . likes Wonder sandwiches for breakfast.

6 Being 6 means learning to read and write, and cutting big, new teeth. Jane feels grown-up. She loves it.

8 TJ runs faster than any boy on his block. Running fast is more important than anything when you're 8 years old.

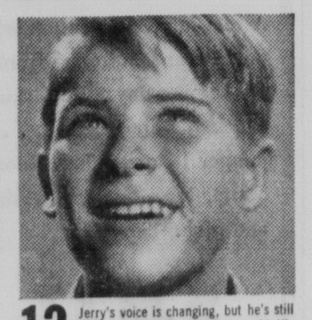

9 Growing 2½ inches in one year, the way most 9-year-olds do, takes a lot of energy. John eats almost as much as his father does.

10 Jennie, at 10, shows promise of becoming an expert swimmer. She's captain of her 5th-grade swim club.

If your children are between the ages of one and twelve, they're in the formative years—when children actually grow to 90% of their adult height. To help make the most of these growing years, be sure to serve nutritious Wonder Enriched Bread. Wonder Bread helps build strong bodies 12 ways. Each slice supplies protein for muscle . . . minerals for bones . . . vitamins for energy. Are your children getting Wonder Bread nutrition during the "Wonder Years"?

Possible Loopholes In Voting Bill Questioned

Washington (UPI) — A discussion erupted in the Senate judiciary Committee Thursday over whether President Johnson's home state of Texas came under the provisions of the new voting rights bill.

Sen. James O. Eastland, D-Miss., who heads the committee, bluntly asked Atty. Gen. Nicholas Katzenbach whether the President's bill was so framed that Texas would not be covered.

Katzenbach said that was not the intent of the bill, although it did work out that Texas would not come under the provisions that would trigger the enforcement provisions.

No Tests

This is because although the Lone Star State had less than 50% of its voting age population participate in last November's elections, it does not employ the literacy tests or other devices that would subject it to the measure's terms.

The bill is designed to wipe out discriminatory tests or devices used to deny the Negro the right to vote. It would permit federal registrars to come into localities where local registrars refuse to comply with the law.

This provision would apply to states where less than 50% of the voters were registered, or voted last November and where there are unfair literacy tests or other devices.

Would Hit Six

Upon enactment, the bill would hit six states where such conditions are said to exist — Louisiana, Mississippi, Alabama, Georgia, South Carolina and Virginia.

Senate GOP leader Everett M. Dirksen, Ill., one of the sponsors of the bill, told newsmen later that Texas "definitely is covered" through the measure's second section which says:

"No voting qualification or procedure shall be imposed or applied to deny or abridge the right to vote on account of race or color."

WILFRED WATSON HAS A PROBLEM

Wilfred Watson, 61, perches on his supply of 6,000 building blocks in Los Angeles. He has been trying to sell them for 10 years now. Back in 1955, Watson sold his land to the government, but he was left with the pile of concrete and pumice blocks. Now he lives in an old car, seemingly little concerned by his problem.

Killer Plague Hits Viet Nam

The new health danger was reported by the Vietnamese health ministry which also confirmed the possible presence of a cholera outbreak in Saigon.

A ministry spokesman said the ministry has received no official statistics on the number of sick or dead in the plague. But he said the local Vietnamese press was "probably close to the mark" in reporting 38 cases and 12 deaths attributed to the dread disease.

The government news agency reported 17 cases and five deaths from plague in Ban Me Thuot, a principal city 165 miles northeast of Saigon, and seven more deaths in Quang Ngai Province, the coastal area 330 miles to the northeast.

Other newspapers reported nine other plague cases in two other central Vietnamese provinces but these were not confirmed.

The 28,000 American military men serving in Viet Nam are given cholera and plague inoculations before going on duty in this country.

The cholera scare was touched off by doctors at Cho Quang Hospital in Saigon who suspect that 10 of their patients have the illness.

The doctors said two patients who died at the hospital last week had symptoms similar to cholera.

SCHOOL BILL CORE OKAYED, 202-137

Washington (AP)—The House tentatively approved the heart of the administration's $1.3-billion school bill Thursday with an impressive display of Democratic solidarity.

By a vote of 202 to 137 it turned back a Democrat's challenge to the formula for putting federal funds into schools in low-income areas. Then it defeated a Republican substitute for the section by a voice vote.

A solid mass of Democrats moved up the aisle past tellers in a non-record vote, crushing the opponents and increasing the prospect for passage of the bill Friday.

The House never has passed a bill granting broad federal aid to elementary and secondary schools. This one would help both public and parochial schools.

The first tip that the leaders command a big majority came on a key amendment to change the bill's formula for improving education in low-income areas.

The amendment would have cut heavily into prospective sums for big Northern states. New York, which would get $91 million under the bill, would have received only $52 million under the amendment. Mississippi, now down for $28 million, would have had $46 million.

Most Democrats who spoke against the amendment declared its adoption would mean the defeat of the bill because the big states would turn against it.

The strong showing against the first two amendments indicated the leadership has the votes to turn back all amendments.

Selma Sues Rights Chiefs For $100,000

Selma, Ala. (AP) — The city of Selma filed a $100,000 suit against Dr. Martin Luther King Jr. and other civil rights leaders and organizations Thursday in an effort to recover money the city spent to police demonstrations for more than two months.

In addition, the city joined with Selma Bus Lines, Inc., in a $9,750 damage suit seeking to recover revenue lost by a Negro boycott of the firm's service. The city gets a percentage of the company's income.

Mayor Joseph T. Smitherman said the $100,000 suit was filed in Dallas County Circuit Court to recover overtime expenses paid to policemen and other city employes in trying to control demonstrations.

Bill Extends Life

Washington (UPI) — The House Agriculture Committee approved a bill extending the life of the National Commission on Food Marketing for one year. The bipartisan panel was created last year to study changes in the nation's $60 billion food industry and to evaluate needs to preserve competition in food marketing.

'Johnson To Ask Farm Program Extensions'

Gov. Frank Morrison Thursday quoted President Johnson as saying he will ask for an extension of some existing farm programs even though they aren't solving the farm problem.

The governor said the President identified the basic problem as loss of farm population and a depressed agricultural economy.

"He said that as long as we are losing people in rural areas and the farm economy is what it is, it's obvious we haven't come up with the right answer," the governor said after visiting with the President in Washington this week.

Theatened Loss

Morrison consulted the President in particular about the threatened loss of $100 million in funds for the Agricultural Conservation Program under the U.S. Department of Agriculture.

The Budget Bureau has proposed a $100 million cut in funds and has proposed establishing a revolving fund whereby cooperators of soil and water conservation districts will be required to pay for the technical services for laying out conservation practices by soil conservation service personnel."

Gov. Morrison said the President wants the farmer to participate directly by putting up money for the soil conservation work.

County Line Annexation Bill Sent On

A controversial bill prohibiting Omaha from annexing across county lines without voter approval of the annexed area was advanced 5-3 to the floor Thursday by the Legislature's Miscellaneous Subjects Committee.

The measure, LB436, drew hot debate in February when aired in public hearing. It was introduced by Sen. Dale Payne of Papillion.

Prompted By Battles

The measure was prompted by annexation battles involving areas along the Douglas-Sarpy County line.

In other action, the committee killed three bottle club bills, which Chairman Eric Rasmussen of Fairmont said were "essentially designed to kill bottle clubs."

Rasmussen said the committee would proceed to draft a bill that "would tighten controls on bottle clubs, but not put them out of business."

He said State Liquor Control Commission recommendations regarding tightening of membership and guest requirements, making license fees more uniform, clarification of the power of attorney and separating licensed from public premises would be considered.

Killed

Axed by the committee were LB712, providing for forfeiture of a bottle club license if the licensee acquires a federal retail stamp; LB597, repealing the power of attorney for the purchase of liquor for members, and LB597, giving communities and counties local option over the establishment of bottle clubs.

Rasmussen said LB334 probably would be used as the vehicle to carry the committee's amendments.

He said desirable aspects of the killed bills may be incorporated into the single bill.

During public hearings, the three bills were opposed by bottle club interests while being backed by licensed retail liquor dealers.

Bus Service For Private, Parochial Students Revived

By DON WALTON
Star Staff Writer

The Legislature Thursday revived on a rousing 46-2 vote a bill which would propose a constitutional amendment permitting public school buses to carry private and parochial elementary and secondary students to school.

The bill, LB382, had been killed in Education Committee on a 7-1 vote.

But Thursday's debate on Sen. Eugene Mahoney's motion to revive pumped strong life back into the measure.

Sen. Lester Harsh of Bartley was the only lawmaker who did not vote on the question.

The bill, in its present form, would seek a vote of the people on the issue in 1966 and, if approved, the question of public bus transportation for private and parochial students would be left to individual school boards.

However, a number of lawmakers said they will not vote to enact the bill unless it is amended to remove the permissive language and make such transportation mandatory.

This would settle the issue at the state level and hopefully avoid heated local controversy, senators noted.

Mahoney said the bill involves "an issue of human decency."

The Omaha lawmaker said "all children should be transported as equals in a community of equals," that 20 states have adopted similar provisions, that the question does not interfere with separation of church and state.

Education Chairman Ross Rasmussen of Hooper said he will support the bill only if it is amended to provide mandatory language.

Sen. Richard Proud of Omaha noted that the school district tax burden would be doubled if parochial schools released their students to the public schools.

But Ruhnke contended that transportation would be "the first encroachment upon the separation of church and state."

Present separation is not discriminatory, Ruhnke argued, because parents have the right to choose between public and private schools.

"It is an issue of human decency and human rights," Sen. Marvin E. Stromer of Lincoln said, and the people should have "a right to present their logic" in balloting on the issue.

Sen. Terry Carpenter of Scottsbluff told his colleagues that Nebraska now practices "segregation in education."

Noting the presence of civil rights demonstrators in the galleries, he declared: "In Alabama, the Negro has to sit in the back of the bus, but in the State of Nebraska, he can't even get on the bus."

Separation of church and state is largely "a ridiculous fiction," Sen. Fred Carstens of Beatrice declared. The church, he said, is "up to its neck in politics" and total separation is "a mythical wall."

Sen. Cecil Craft of North Platte supported revival, but warned that "hotheads on both sides" may distort the issue if it comes to a vote in 1966.

Sen. Edward Danner of Omaha said he regretted voting against a similar proposal which was turned down by the 1963 Legislature and will now support the bill.

"Let us cease putting people in categories," he said.

877th Bill Is Introduced In Legislature

The Legislature Thursday received its 877th bill of the session.

POSTCARD

If you slide off the murderous freeway, a hundred or so miles north of Los Angeles, there is a wonderful road, deserted and relaxing, that runs through the wild Los Padres National Forest.

It is nearly 2 million acres of primitive land. Little streams, chilled by mountain snow. Mile-high deserts of gray-green sage. Pine trees. And river sycamores, hung with green mistletoe.

It begins at the little orange grove town of Ojai. And in my salad days, I lived here.

In a long ago time, Mrs. Annie Besant, the Theosophist leader, discovered Ojai. She likewise discovered that it was the magnetic center of the earth—the place where the new Messiah would make his home.

Naturally, this brought a great gathering of soothsayers—the Theosophists worked a lot with astrology and numerology and such. (There was one man who could read your future by listening to your stomach.) There were many palm readers.

I lived there and learned a lot about astrology and numbers and mitt reading.

I became acquainted with a former rewrite man from the New York tabloids who ate nothing but nuts. He said all other foods were poison.

☆ ☆ ☆

I met so many nudists that it was shocking to go into town and see people wearing clothes.

After awhile, some of the colony discovered a place up near Pismo Beach that they said was really the magnetic center of the world.

They said Annie Besant's place didn't have enough magnetism to pick up a pin.

The new colony made it hard on Ojai—there are no beaches to walk. You can just wade in a rather shallow river.

However, the faithful stuck with it. And an Indian boy from India was brought over to be the new Messiah.

A number of lesser gods filtered in. The rewrite man announced one day that he was the anti-Christ. He quit eating nuts and began polishing off steaks.

One of the colony was ostracized because his horoscope came up showing he was a sex fiend. He was a mild-mannered person. But after reading his chart, they said he must be faking those nice manners. Underneath he was a tiger.

☆ ☆ ☆

Anyway, I stopped for awhile. But the nudists and palmists and the gods of yesteryear seemed to have gone.

Abstractor Rules Bill Moved

A bill to establish an abstractors board of examiners and to tighten regulation of the abstractors field was given first round floor approval in the Legislature Thursday.

The bill would establish a five member board to administer tests for licensing of abstractors and to in other ways provide greater regulation of the profession.

The measure, LB133, introduced chiefly by Alliance Sen. George Gerdes, contains the "grandfather" clause and persons now in the abstracting business would not be required to take the test to obtain a license.

Action Planned On 'Implied Consent'

. . . GOVERNOR WANTS COURTS TO HAVE JURISDICTION

Gov. Frank Morrison said Thursday he will introduce a bill in the Legislature that would take administration of the state's "implied consent" law away from the state motor vehicle director and vest the authority in the courts.

"This (law) is obviously a judicial matter," Morrison said.

"The director is not a lawyer or judge, is not trained in evaluating evidence and is totally incompetent to administer the implied consent law," he added

Where It Belongs

Morrison said, "The legislative tendency has been to go too far in granting to administrative agencies jurisdiction over what is essentially judicial matters."

Nebraska's implied consent law holds that when a person is arrested for operating a motor vehicle under the influence of alcohol and refuses to take a test for the determination of the alcoholic content of his body fluids, his driver's license shall be revoked for one year.

During the past year, Motor Vehicles Director B. H. G Eiting, who administers the law, revoked 143 driver's licenses under the implied consent law and dismissed 205 cases after hearings.

Eiting said more than 85% of the "implied consent" cases were contested by defendants and most were represented by attorneys.

Morrison said The Star's article prompted his announced action, but noted he had "talked problems over with Eiting a couple of months ago."

Eiting had termed the law as "putting an administrator in the awkward position of making quasi-judicial decisions," but added "it is one of the burdens of this office."

Morrison Won't Say If He'll Sign Gas Tax Boost

Gov Frank Morrison declined comment when questioned by newsmen if he would sign LB25, a bill passed in the Legislature Thursday that would increase the state gas tax by one-half cent.

"I will have no comment until I read the bill as finally passed," the governor declared.

In earlier statements, Morrison has been highly critical of the measure. He said it would hurt tourism and work a hardship on border communities

Morrison Says He'll Sign Resolution 14

Gov. Frank Morrison said Thursday he would sign legislative Resolution 14, a measure urging the federal government to allow state legislatures to determine their own legislative districts.

Morrison said he hoped his statement would dispell "the confusion that now exists" with the legislative reapportionmnet resolution.

In 1963, the governor vetoed a redistricting resolution, but he pointed out that the earlier measure was considerably different from LR14, which Nebraska lawmakers have already given first-round approval.

Morrison said the 1963 measure would have denied the federal courts jurisdiction over state reapportionment, and that this was the portion he objected to.

"It was an abridgement of an inherent right of the federal courts to have jurisdiction over every aspect of protecting the rights of the American citizen," Morrison said

He pointed out that LR14 has no such provision.

Legality Of Child Transfers Questioned By Justice Dept.

The State Justice Department has questioned the constitutionality of proposed legislation allowing the transfer of children from the State Home for Children in Lincoln to the Boys' Training School at Kearney or the Girls' School at Geneva

LB323, introduced by Hastings Sen. Richard Marvel and advanced (7-0) to general file by the Legislature's Public Health Committee, would allow such a transfer if approved by the departments of welfare and institutions and the governor.

An opinion written by Assistant Atty. Gen. Mel Kammerlohr notes the department of institutions now has legal power to move any male 16 or older from the Boys Training School to the State Penal Complex.

"Thus, under section 2 of LB323, it would be possible for a child who had been placed in the home for children, whether by commitment or otherwise, to wind up in the Nebraska Penal and Correctional Complex," the opinion said

It goes on to say that transfers such as would be authorized by LB323 would impose a criminal penalty against youngsters in violation of constitutional due process of the law guarantees

Possible Loopholes In Voting Bill Questioned

Washington (UPI) — A discussion erupted in the Senate judiciary Committee Thursday over whether President Johnson's home state of Texas came under the provisions of the new voting rights bill.

Sen. James O. Eastland, D-Miss., who heads the committee, bluntly asked Atty. Gen. Nicholas Katzenbach whether the President's bill was so framed that Texas would not be covered.

Katzenbach said that was not the intent of the bill, although it did work out that Texas would not come under the provisions that would trigger the enforcement provisions.

No Tests

This is because although the Lone Star State had less than 50% of its voting age population participate in last November's elections, it does not employ the literacy tests or other devices that would subject it to the measure's terms.

The bill is designed to wipe out discriminatory tests or devices used to deny the Negro the right to vote. It would permit federal registrars to come into localities where local registrars refuse to comply with the law.

This provision would apply to states where less than 50% of the voters were registered, or voted last November and where there are unfair literacy tests or other devices.

Would Hit Six

Upon enactment, the bill would hit six states where such conditions are said to exist — Louisiana, Mississippi, Alabama, Georgia, South Carolina and Virginia.

Senate GOP leader Everett M. Dirksen, Ill., one of the sponsors of the bill, told newsmen later that Texas "definitely is covered" through the measure's second section which says:

"No voting qualification or procedure shall be imposed or applied to deny or abridge the right to vote on account of race or color."

WILFRED WATSON HAS A PROBLEM

Wilfred Watson, 61, perches on his supply of 6,000 building blocks in Los Angeles. He has been trying to sell them for 10 years now. Back in 1955, Watson sold his land to the government, but he was left with the pile of concrete and pumice blocks. Now he lives in an old car, seemingly little concerned by his problem.

Killer Plague Hits Viet Nam

The new health danger was reported by the Vietnamese health ministry which also confirmed the possible presence of a cholera outbreak in Saigon.

A ministry spokesman said the ministry has received no official statistics on the number of sick or dead in the plague. But he said the local Vietnamese press was "probably close to the mark" in reporting 38 cases and 12 deaths attributed to the dread disease.

The government news agency reported 17 cases and five deaths from plague in Ban Me Thuot, a principal city 165 miles northeast of Saigon, and seven more deaths in Quang Ngai Province, the coastal area 330 miles to the northeast.

Other newspapers reported nine other plague cases in two other central Vietnamese provinces but these were not confirmed.

The 28,000 American military men serving in Viet Nam are given cholera and plague inoculations before going on duty in this country.

The cholera scare was touched off by doctors at Cho Quang Hospital in Saigon who suspect that 10 of their patients have the illness.

The doctors said two patients who died at the hospital last week had symptoms similar to cholera.

SCHOOL BILL CORE OKAYED, 202-137

Washington (AP)—The House tentatively approved the heart of the administration's $1.3-billion school bill Thursday with an impressive display of Democratic solidarity.

By a vote of 202 to 137 it turned back a Democrat's challenge to the formula for putting federal funds into schools in low-income areas. Then it defeated a Republican substitute for the section by a voice vote.

A solid mass of Democrats moved up the aisle past tellers in a non-record vote, crushing the opponents and increasing the prospect for passage of the bill Friday.

The House never has passed a bill granting broad federal aid to elementary and secondary schools. This one would help both public and parochial schools.

The first tip that the leaders command a big majority came on a key amendment to change the bill's formula for improving education in low-income areas.

The amendment would have cut heavily into prospective sums for big Northern states. New York, which would get $91 million under the bill, would have received only $52 million under the amendment. Mississippi, now down for $28 million, would have had $46 million.

Most Democrats who spoke against the amendment declared its adoption would mean the defeat of the bill because the big states would turn against it.

Selma Sues Rights Chiefs For $100,000

Selma, Ala. (AP) — The city of Selma filed a $100,000 suit against Dr. Martin Luther King Jr. and other civil rights leaders and organizations Thursday in an effort to recover money the city spent to police demonstrations for more than two months.

In addition, the city joined with Selma Bus Lines, Inc., in a $9,750 damage suit seeking to recover revenue lost by a Negro boycott of the firm's service. The city gets a percentage of the company's income.

Mayor Joseph T. Smitherman said the $100,000 suit was filed in Dallas County Circuit Court to recover overtime expenses paid to policemen and other city employes in trying to control demonstrations.

Bill Extends Life

Washington (UPI) — The House Agriculture Committee approved a bill extending the life of the National Commission on Food Marketing for one year. The bipartisan panel was created last year to study changes in the nation's $60 billion food industry and to evaluate needs to preserve competition in food marketing.

CANDLES OPEN MILITARY MERGER BID

Washington (AP)—Congressional hearings billed as a showdown in the long struggle ove congressional vs. Pentagon authority opened Thursday. But the only fire came from the candles of a birthday cake.

The fancy cake was presented to Secretary of the Army Stephen Ailes, to the accompaniment of applause but no singing, as he began his testimony before a House armed services subcommittee on the Pentagon's plan to merge Army Reserve units into the National Guard.

Chairman F. Edward Hebert, D-La., who had just denounced the Defense Department on grounds of "contemptuous disregard of the Congress" arranged the little party for Ailes, who was 53 Thursday.

Not Over Yet

Ailes obviously was expected to get the treatment rather than a treat, but Hebert reminded him sardonically that "Tomrrow is another day."

Hebert complained that Secretary of Defense Robert S. McNamara tried to ram through the sweeping Reserve reorganization without legislative authority.

Bray said for his part he was alarmed by "the off-again, on-again, yo-yo approach" to the Reserves which, he said, is damaging Reserve morale and damaging public confidence.

Ailes, when his turn came, argued that the Defense Department couldn't very well have tipped off the plan to Congress in advance of announcing it because:

"As all of us here know, any discussion of force restructuring is highly sensitive and arouses immediate controversy which can interrupt the efforts to prepare careful, well-thought-out plans."

Plan First

Therefore, he said, it was necessary to develop the plan first and "at the proper times present this to the appropriate agencies. This we have done."

Further, he said, 48 states —all but Texas and Wisconsin—and the District of Columbia and Puerto Rico have accepted the Pentagon's troop realignment proposals.

This is likely to set off more fireworks. When Ailes announced last week that 37 states had then endorsed the plan, Hebert had thundered this was double-talk, a press agent trick and an attempt to "brainwash the public."

Qualified

He contended that many of the states accepting the plan had done so with the qualification that it first be approved by Congress.

The plan would wipe out all Army Reserve units and relegate the Reserve to training of individuals only, and bolster high-priority National Guard forces.

Over-all Army National Guard strength would be increased from 400,000 to 550,000, but the number of Army Reservists on drill pay status would be cut from 300,000 to zero.

End In March

Ailes said the reorganization is scheduled to be carried out between July 1 this year and the end of March in 1966, "assuming always that the status of the controlling legislation permits us to do so."

A confrontation between McNamara and the subcommittee was put off by Hebert until the end of the hearings, expected to last for a week to 10 days.

Volunteers Needed

San Juan, Puerto Rico (AP)—Peace Corps Director Sargent Shriver, holidaying in Puerto Rico, says there is a "desperate need" for more Spanish-speaking volunteers to meet requests in Latin America. He noted Peru, which has 450 people from the Corps, is asking for many more, and so is Brazil.

Defeat Puts Home's Head On The Block

London (AP)—Demands for a new leadership of Britain's Conservative Party rose Thursday night in the wake of a humiliating electoral defeat on Sir Alec Douglas-Home's own doorstep in the Scottish border lands.

Defeat of the Tories in a special election in the Roxburgh district by the Liberal candidate, 25-year-old TV broadcaster David Steel, strengthened the hand of Prime Minister Harold Wilson, even though the candidate of his Labor Party polled such a low vote he lost the deposit he paid to file.

A record number of Roxburgh voters trudged through a snowstorm to vote Wednesday and gave Steel nearly 50% of the ballots. This transformed what had been considered a safe Conservative bailiwick into a Liberal victory.

This victory brought the party lineup in parliament to 314 seats for the ruling Laborites, 301 for the Conservatives and 10 for the Liberals, with two other special elections to fill vacancies still to be held. One of these is a Labor stronghold and the other is considered safe for the Conservatives.

Gloom prevailed in Conservative circles Thursday night. The party had sent its top national figures on speaking tours of the Roxburgh district, which lies just over the county border from Douglas-Home's ancestral home in Berwickshire. But still the Conservative percentage of the vote dropped from 42 8 last October in the national elections to 38 6%.

London's Evening News, Conservative, asked in a front-page story from its political correspondent whether Sir Alec's leadership of the party could survive this shattering blow." The Evening Standard, also Conservative, said the Roxburgh defeat had raised a question mark about Sir Alec's political future.

In contrast with the Conservatives, Liberals and Laborites were jubilant. Liberal representation in parliament went into two figures for the first time since 1950.

For the Laborites, the loss of their candidate's deposit because he polled less than an eighth of the total vote was a small price to pay for the shattering blow to Conservative morale. And, since the Liberals support much of the Labor government's policy, Steel's victory at Roxburgh hurts the Conservatives more than the Laborites.

Bus Service For Private, Parochial Students Revived

By DON WALTON
Star Staff Writer

The Legislature Thursday revived on a rousing 46-2 vote a bill which would propose a constitutional amendment permitting public school buses to carry private and parochial elementary and secondary students to school.

The bill, LB382, had been killed in Education Committee on a 7-1 vote.

But Thursday's debate on Sen. Eugene Mahoney's motion to revive pumped strong life back into the measure.

Only Sens. John Knight of Lincoln and Arnold Ruhnke of Plymouth voted against revival. Sen. Lester Harsh of Bartley was the only lawmaker who did not vote on the question.

The bill, in its present form, would seek a vote of the people on the issue in 1966 and, if approved, the question of public bus transportation for private and parochial students would be left to individual school boards.

However, a number of lawmakers said they will not vote to enact the bill unless it is amended to remove the permissive language and make such transportation mandatory.

This would settle the issue at the state level and hopefully avoid heated local controversy, senators noted.

Mahoney said the bill involves "an issue of human decency."

The Omaha lawmaker said "all children should be transported as equals in a community of equals," that 20 states have adopted similar provisions, that the question does not interfere with separation of church and state.

Education Chairman Ross Rasmussen of Hooper said he will support the bill only if it is amended to provide mandatory language.

Sen. Richard Proud of Omaha noted that the school district tax burden would be doubled if parochial schools released their students to the public schools.

But Ruhnke contended that transportation would be "the first encroachment upon the separation of church and state."

Present separation is not discriminatory, Ruhnke argued, because parents have the right to choose between public and private schools.

"It is an issue of human decency and human rights," Sen. Marvin E. Stromer of Lincoln said, and the people should have "a right to present their logic" in balloting on the issue.

Sen. Terry Carpenter of Scottsbluff told his colleagues that Nebraska now practices "segregation in education."

Noting the presence of civil rights demonstrators in the galleries, he declared: "In Alabama, the Negro has to sit in the back of the bus, but in the State of Nebraska, he can't even get on the bus."

Separation of church and state is largely "a ridiculous fiction," Sen. Fred Carstens of Beatrice declared. The church, he said, is "up to its neck in politics" and total separation is "a mythical wall."

Sen. Cecil Craft of North Platte supported revival, but warned that "hotheads on both sides" may distort the issue if it comes to a vote in 1966.

Sen. Edward Danner of Omaha said he regretted voting against a similar proposal which was turned down by the 1963 Legislature and will now support the bill.

"Let us cease putting people in categories," he said.

877th Bill Is Introduced In Legislature

The Legislature Thursday received its 877th bill of the session.

POSTCARD by Stan Delaplane

If you slide off the murderous freeway, a hundred or so miles north of Los Angeles, there is a wonderful road, deserted and relaxing, that runs through the wild Los Padres National Forest.

It is nearly 2 million acres of primitive land. Little streams, chilled by mountain snow. Mile-high deserts of gray-green sage. Pine trees. And river sycamores, hung with green mistletoe.

It begins at the little orange grove town of Ojai. And in my salad days, I lived here.

In a long ago time, Mrs. Annie Besant, the Theosophist leader, discovered Ojai. She likewise discovered that it was the magnetic center of the earth—the place where the new Messiah would make his home.

Naturally, this brought a great gathering of soothsayers—the Theosophists worked a lot with astrology and numerology and such. (There was one man who could read your future by listening to your stomach.) There were many palm readers.

I lived there and learned a lot about astrology and numbers and mitt reading.

I became acquainted with a former rewrite man from the New York tabloids who ate nothing but nuts. He said all other foods were poison.

I met so many nudists that it was shocking to go into town and see people wearing clothes.

After awhile, some of the colony discovered a place up near Pismo Beach that they said was really the magnetic center of the world.

They said Annie Besant's place didn't have enough magnetism to pick up a pin.

The new colony made it hard on Ojai—there are no beaches to walk. You can just wade in a rather shallow river.

However, the faithful stuck with it. And an Indian boy from India was brought over to be the new Messiah.

A number of lesser gods filtered in. The rewrite man announced one day that he was the anti-Christ. He quit eating nuts and began polishing off steaks.

One of the colony was ostracized because his horoscope came up showing he was a sex fiend. He was a mild-mannered person. But after reading his chart, they said he must be faking those nice manners. Underneath he was a tiger.

☆ ☆ ☆

Anyway, I stopped for awhile. But the nudists and palmists and the gods of yesteryear seemed to have gone.

Vitogro
The Rich One
gives your lawn more nutrients for the money than any other high-quality lawn food, and your lawn will show it

This year, spread Vitogro, The Rich One, and see how it fattens thin, pale grass into thick, springy, green turf.

You won't be disappointed. Vitogro is the richest lawn food you can buy for your money. So rich, in fact, it can grow grass even without soil. (See below.) Yet rich as it is, it can't burn, even if you put on a double amount.

Vitogro is also one of the easiest lawn foods to use. You apply Vitogro only once a year to keep your lawn green from spring to fall.

Each Vitogro granule works like a little time capsule, releasing its rich nourishment slowly. So you get a healthy, green lawn all summer.

Does The Rich One cost more than ordinary lawn foods? Yes, a few cents extra. But you'll be glad you spent them when you see the difference in your lawn.

Vitogro grows grass even without soil

Outlook Is Good For Mars Shot

Pasadena, Calif (AP)—Three straight successes in the Ranger moon-photography program have strengthened scientists' hopes of getting clear, close photographs of Mars from Mariner 4, now more than halfway toward that mysterious red planet

A spokesman for Jet Propulsion Laboratory, birthplace of Ranger and Mariner spacecraft, said Thursday that engineering data radioed across more than 39 million miles indicates Mariner 4 is in excellent shape to take pictures during the fly-by next July 14.

Two scientific instruments aboard have failed, but they will have no effect on the spacecraft's main mission — to take up to 21 photographs as close as 6,300 miles, pictures expected to be 100 times better than any taken from earth.

Curving Trajectory

At noon Thursday Mariner 4 had traveled 188 million miles along a curving 325 million mile trajectory. Its speed relative to earth was 30,035 miles an hour and it was swinging past the sun at a velocity of 57,517 m.p.h.

The Mars pictures are not expected, however, to have nearly as much detail as the moon photographs, which showed objects 2 to 3 feet in diameter.

Mariner 4 has only one camera, instead of six, and its pictures must be radioed across millions instead of thousands of miles. They will not be televised live but will be stored on tape aboard the craft, then played back slowly

Transmission of each picture will take more than eight hours, instead of a few seconds.

Nonetheless they are designed to give earth scientists their closest look yet at the mysterious grooves on Mars called canals, the white polar caps which seem to melt each summer, and the vast dark areas which have been interpreted by some astronomers as vegetation.

MEMORY IRKS BRITISH

London (AP)—Prime Minister Harold Wilson's government is reported irked by a public American reminder that British forces used gas to control Cypriot rioters seven years ago.

Official and political sources said Thursday night a statement by Defense Secretary Robert S. McNamara on the subject seemed to them to be unhelpful, irrelevant, disappointing.

McNamara recalled at a Washington news conference Tuesday that one type of gas supplied to South Viet Nam was used by the British in Cyprus in 1958, when that island territory was a British colony, and by West Berlin border guards. The secretary was justifying the use of nausea-producing, nonlethal tear gases by South Vietnamese forces against Viet Cong guerrillas

U.S. authorities, one official reported, are being made aware the British government regrets McNamara's statement

Among the reasons given by the British:

—They feel the defense secretary, at least temporarily, lost sight of the support Wilson's Labor government has been giving to President Johnson's Viet Nam policies.

—They consider there is a world of difference between using tear gas for the dispersal of preindependence rioters and the gases used as a weapon in the Vietnamese war.

Into Records

—They suspect McNamara delved into the record of a previous Conservative Administration as a way of answering the "grave concern" which Labor Foreign Secretary Michael Stewart had expressed in Washington.

Stewart gave the British cabinet an account of his talks with President Johnson and Secretary of State Dean Rusk

A major purpose of Stewart's visit was to clear the decks for new British moves to seek the basis for a Viet Nam political settlement.

British sources said the foreign secretary came back with the understanding that the Johnson administration will go along with Britain's quest for peace—an honorable peace.

"We are coordinating with Washington and we now have a clearer idea of what the Americans want and where they think they are going," one official said.

Suspended For Stand

Soviets Toss Up Unmanned Probe

Moscow (UPI) — The Soviet Union Thursday launched an unmanned "Cosmos 64" scientific probe in a follow-up to the manned space flight last week by Alexei Leonov and Pavel Belyayev.

The official Tass news agency said the satellite was carrying out a further step in the three-year Cosmos program for solving space flight problems, improving communications and spaceship construction.

Action Planned On 'Implied Consent'

. . . GOVERNOR WANTS COURTS TO HAVE JURISDICTION

Gov. Frank Morrison said Thursday he will introduce a bill in the Legislature that would take administration of the state's "implied consent" law away from the state motor vehicle director and vest the authority in the courts.

"This (law) is obviously a judicial matter," Morrison said.

"The director is not a lawyer or judge, is not trained in evaluating evidence and is totally incompetent to administer the implied consent law," he added.

Where It Belongs

Morrison said, "The legislative tendency has been to go too far in granting to administrative agencies jurisdiction over what is essentially judicial matters."

Nebraska's implied consent law holds that when a person is arrested for operating a motor vehicle under the influence of alcohol and refuses to take a test for the determination of the alcoholic content of his body fluids, his driver's license shall be revoked for one year.

During the past year, Motor Vehicles Director B. H. G. Eiting, who administers the law, revoked 143 driver's licenses under the implied consent law and dismissed 205 cases after hearings.

Growing concern of law enforcement officials over the percentage of dismissals was reported by The Star in a Thursday article.

Complaints

Atty. Gen. Clarence Meyer confirmed he had received complaints from peace officers, but said it was an administrative and policy matter under jurisdiction of the governor.

Eiting said more than 85% of the "implied consent" cases were contested by defendants and most were represented by attorneys.

Morrison said The Star's article prompted his announced action, but noted he had "talked problems over with Eiting a couple of months ago."

Eiting had termed the law as "putting an administrator in the awkward position of making quasi-judicial decisions," but added "it is one of the burdens of this office."

Morrison Won't Say If He'll Sign Gas Tax Boost

Gov. Frank Morrison declined comment when questioned by newsmen if he would sign LB25, a bill passed in the Legislature Thursday that would increase the state gas tax by one-half cent.

"I will have no comment until I read the bill as finally passed," the governor declared.

In earlier statements, Morrison has been highly critical of the measure. He said it would hurt tourism and work a hardship on border communities.

Morrison Says He'll Sign Resolution 14

Gov. Frank Morrison said Thursday he would sign legislative Resolution 14, a measure urging the federal government to allow state legislatures to determine their own legislative districts.

Morrison said he hoped his statement would dispell "the confusion that now exists" with the legislative reapportionmnet resolution.

In 1963, the governor vetoed a redistricting resolution, but he pointed out that the earlier measure was considerably different from LR14, which Nebraska lawmakers have already given first-round approval.

Morrison said the 1963 measure would have denied the federal courts jurisdiction over state reapportionment, and that this was the portion he objected to.

"It was an abridgement of an inherent right of the federal courts to have jurisdiction over every aspect of protecting the rights of the American citizen," Morrison said.

He pointed out that LR14 has no such provision.

Legality Of Child Transfers Questioned By Justice Dept.

The State Justice Department has questioned the constitutionality of proposed legislation allowing the transfer of children from the State Home for Children in Lincoln to the Boys' Training School at Kearney or the Girls' School at Geneva.

LB323, introduced by Hastings Sen. Richard Marvel and advanced (7-0) to general file by the Legislature's Public Health Committee, would allow such a transfer if approved by the departments of welfare and institutions and the governor.

An opinion written by Assistant Atty. Gen. Mel Kammerlohr notes the department of institutions now has legal power to move any male 16 or older from the Boys Training School to the State Penal Complex.

"Thus, under section 2 of LB323, it would be possible for a child who had been placed in the home for children, whether by commitment or otherwise, to wind up in the Nebraska Penal and Correctional Complex," the opinion said.

It goes on to say that transfers such as would be authorized by LB323 would impose a criminal penalty against youngsters in violation of constitutional due process of the law guarantees.

REPUBLICAN ACTIVITIES TO START FRIDAY

Republican Founders Day activities in Kearney will open Friday night with a 7:30 p.m. meeting of the GOP budget and finance committee.

Major activities scheduled for Saturday are the noon banquet at Kearney State College featuring Sen. George Murphy of California and a state central committee meeting at the college at 3:15 p.m.

Members of the congressoinal delegation will make a public report at 10:15 a.m. Saturday in the ballroom of the Fort Kearney Hotel.

Committee Kills One Labeling Bill

The measure's provisions were included in another bill approved earlier by the committee.

U.S. High Court To Hear Nebraska Case

The first habeas corpus case from Nebraska to reach the U.S. Supreme Court in recent years will be argued before the justices late in April.

The high court's decision in the case could have a profound effect on the statutes of Nebraska and other states.

The case involves State Penitentiary inmate Paul V. Case, 40, of Detroit, who was sentenced to a five-year term in 1963 for burglary in Lancaster County. Case contends he was illegally sentenced and imprisoned.

Acting as his own attorney, he challenged the constitutionality of the statute under which he was sentenced in Lancaster District Court, which rejected his contention, and the State Supreme Court, which affirmed the district court decision.

He then appealed directly to the U.S. Supreme Court arguing that Nebraska statutes do not provide remedies for violations of rights guaranteed by the federal Constitution.

The high court accepted the case and named a University of Virginia law professor, Dr. Daniel J. Meador, as Case's counsel. Assistant Atty. Gen. Mel Kammerlohr will present the state's case before the high court.

A specific date for presentation of oral arguments has not been set.

CANDLES OPEN MILITARY MERGER BID

Washington (AP)—Congressional hearings billed as a showdown in the long struggle over congressional vs. Pentagon authority opened Thursday. But the only fire came from the candles of a birthday cake.

The fancy cake was presented to Secretary of the Army Stephen Ailes, to the accompaniment of applause but no singing, as he began his testimony before a House armed services subcommittee on the Pentagon's plan to merge Army Reserve units into the National Guard.

Chairman F. Edward Hebert, D-La., who had just denounced the Defense Department on grounds of "contemptuous disregard of the Congress" arranged the little party for Ailes, who was 53 Thursday.

Not Over Yet

Ailes obviously was expected to get the treatment rather than a treat, but Hebert reminded him sardonically that "Tomrrow is another day."

Hebert complained that Secretary of Defense Robert S. McNamara tried to ram through the sweeping Reserve reorganization without legislative authority.

Bray said for his part he was alarmed by "the off-again, on-again, yo-yo approach" to the Reserves which, he said, is damaging Reserve morale and damaging public confidence.

Ailes, when his turn came, argued that the Defense Department couldn't very well have tipped off the plan to Congress in advance of announcing it because:

"As all of us here know, any discussion of force restructuring is highly sensitive and arouses immediate controversy which can interrupt the efforts to prepare, careful, well-thought-out plans."

Plan First

Therefore, he said, it was necessary to develop the plan first and "at the proper times present this to the appropriate agencies. This we have done."

Further, he said, 48 states—all but Texas and Wisconsin—and the District of Columbia and Puerto Rico have accepted the Pentagon's troop realignment proposals.

This is likely to set off more fireworks. When Ailes announced last week that 37 states had then endorsed the plan, Hebert had thundered this was double-talk, a press agent trick and an attempt to "brainwash the public."

Qualified

He contended that many of the states accepting the plan had done so with the qualification that it first be approved by Congress.

The plan would wipe out all Army Reserve units and relegate the Reserve to training of individuals only, and bolster high-priority National Guard forces.

Over-all Army National Guard strength would be increased from 400,000 to 550,000, but the number of Army Reservists on drill pay status would be cut from 300,000 to zero.

End In March

Ailes said the reorganization is scheduled to be carried out between July 1 this year and the end of March in 1966, "assuming always that the status of the controlling legislation permits us to do so."

A confrontation between McNamara and the subcommittee was put off by Hebert until the end of the hearings, expected to last for a week to 10 days.

Volunteers Needed

San Juan, Puerto Rico (AP)—Peace Corps Director Sargent Shriver, holidaying in Puerto Rico, says there is a "desperate need" for more Spanish-speaking volunteers to meet requests in Latin America. He noted Peru, which has 450 people from the Corps, is asking for many more, and so is Brazil.

Defeat Puts Home's Head On The Block

London (AP)—Demands for a new leadership of Britain's Conservative Party rose Thursday night in the wake of a humiliating electoral defeat on Sir Alec Douglas-Home's own doorstep in the Scottish border lands.

Defeat of the Tories in a special election in the Roxburgh district by the Liberal candidate, 26-year-old TV broadcaster David Steel, strengthened the hand of Prime Minister Harold Wilson, even though the candidate of his Labor Party polled such a low vote he lost the deposit he paid to file.

A record number of Roxburgh voters trudged through a snowstorm to vote Wednesday and gave Steel nearly 50% of the ballots. This transformed what had been considered a safe Conservative bailiwick into a Liberal victory.

This victory brought the party lineup in parliament to 314 seats for the ruling Laborites, 301 for the Conservatives and 10 for the Liberals, with two other special elections to fill vacancies still to be held. One of these is a Labor stronghold and the other is considered safe for the Conservatives.

Gloom prevailed in Conservative circles Thursday night. The party had sent its top national figures on speaking tours of the Roxburgh district, which lies just over the county border from Douglas-Home's ancestral home in Berwickshire. But still the Conservative percentage of the vote dropped from 42.8 last October in the national elections to 38.6%.

London's Evening News, Conservative, asked in a front-page story from its political correspondent whether Sir Alec's leadership of the party could survive this shattering blow." The Evening Standard, also Conservative, said the Roxburgh defeat had raised a question mark about Sir Alec's political future.

In contrast with the Conservatives, Liberals and Laborites were jubilant. Liberal representation in parliament went into two figures for the first time since 1950.

For the Laborites, the loss of their candidate's deposit because he polled less than an eighth of the total vote was a small price to pay for the shattering blow to Conservative morale. And, since the Liberals support much of the Labor government's policy, Steel's victory at Roxburgh hurts the Conservatives more than the Laborites.

The largest hot dog in the world was produced by the German Butchers Guild in the late 1600s. It was more than a half mile in length and weighed 885 pounds.

TIME
never wasted in suburbia

Spring has sprung a leak—but it is bound to make its debut sooner or later.

In the meantime suburban residents have found a number of social events to keep them occupied. For instance there have been several out-of-town guests visiting in and around Lincoln—and there also has been some traveling.

HOLLYWOOD HEIGHTS

Miss Maureen Draver, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence Draver was hostess at her home on Saturday evening when she entertained feminine classmates from Sacred Heart School.

The party was in celebration of Maureen's 14th anniversary which, officially was last Monday. On the agenda for the evening was a scavenger hunt followed by refreshments and entertainment at the Draver home.

There were out-of-town guests at the Hollywood Heights home of Mr. and Mrs. Lester Leybold and their daughter, Cindy, this week.

The visitors were Mrs. Leybold's sister-in-law, Mrs. Alfred Burhoop and Mrs. Burhoop's granddaughter, Courtney Epke of York. Mrs. Burhoop and Courtney spent Tuesday afternoon visitingn the Leybold family.

Guests at the home of Mr. and Mrs. John Pierce and their children, Steven, Kimberly, and Deborah, were Mr. Pierce's brother and sister-in-law Mr. and Mrs. Richard Pierce, and their children Ricky and Michael of Cheyenne, Wyo. Accompanying Mr. and Mrs. Pierce on their trip were Wyoming residents who visited in Omaha.

Mr. and Mrs. Pierce and their family arrived in Lincoln on Thursday. On Friday they went to Omaha but returned to Lincoln on Saturday and departed for their home in Cheyenne on Sunday.

EASTBOROUGH

Omaha will be the destination for Eastborough residents, Mr. and Mrs. Earl Auvinen and their two daughters, Penny and Gail, this weekend.

While they are in Omaha, they will be the houseguests of Mrs. Auvinen's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Gail Clifton.

There is also another reason for the trip and that is to look for a future homesite, for within the very near future, Mr. and Mrs. Auvinen and their daughters will be making their home in Omaha.

Outlook Is Good For Mars Shot

Pasadena, Calif. (AP)—Three straight successes in the Ranger moon-photography program have strengthened scientists' hopes of getting clear, close photographs of Mars from Mariner 4, now more than halfway toward that mysterious red planet.

A spokesman for Jet Propulsion Laboratory, birthplace of Ranger and Mariner spacecraft, said Thursday that engineering data radioed across more than 39 million miles indicates Mariner 4 is in excellent shape to take pictures during the fly-by next July 14.

Two scientific instruments aboard have failed, but they will have no effect on the spacecraft's main mission — to take up to 21 photographs as close as 6,300 miles, pictures expected to be 100 times better than any taken from earth.

Curving Trajectory

At noon Thursday Mariner 4 had traveled 188 million miles along a curving 325 million mile trajectory. Its speed relative to earth was 30,035 miles an hour and it was swinging past the sun at a velocity of 57,517 m.p.h.

The Mars pictures are not expected, however, to have nearly as much detail as the moon photographs, which showed objects 2 to 3 feet in diameter.

Mariner 4 has only one camera, instead of six, and its pictures must be radioed across millions instead of thousands of miles. They will not be televised live but will be stored on tape aboard the craft, then played back slowly.

Transmission of each picture will take more than eight hours, instead of a few seconds.

Nonetheless they are designed to give earth scientists their closest look yet at the mysterious grooves on Mars called canals, the white polar caps which seem to melt each summer, and the vast dark areas which have been interpreted by some astronomers as vegetation.

MEMORY IRKS BRITISH

London (AP)—Prime Minister Harold Wilson's government is reported irked by a public American reminder that British forces used gas to control Cypriot rioters seven years ago.

Official and political sources said Thursday night a statement by Defense Secretary Robert S. McNamara on the subject seemed to them to be unhelpful, irrelevant, disappointing.

McNamara recalled at a Washington news conference Tuesday that one type of gas supplied to South Viet Nam was used by the British in Cyprus in 1958, when that island territory was a British colony, and by West Berlin border guards. The secretary was justifying the use of nausea-producing, nonlethal tear gases by South Vietnamese forces against Viet Cong guerrillas.

U.S. authorities, one official reported, are being made aware the British government regrets McNamara's statement.

Among the reasons given by the British:

—They feel the defense secretary, at least temporarily, lost sight of the support Wilson's Labor government has been giving to President Johnson's Viet Nam policies.

—They consider there is a world of difference between using tear gas for the dispersal of preindependence rioters and the gases used as a weapon in the Vietnamese war.

Into Records

—They suspect McNamara delved into the record of a previous Conservative Administration as a way of answering the "grave concern" which Labor Foreign Secretary Michael Stewart had expressed in Washington.

A major purpose of Stewart's visit was to clear the decks for new British moves to seek the basis for a Viet Nam political settlement.

British sources said the foreign secretary came back with the understanding that the Johnson administration will go along with Britain's quest for peace—an honorable peace.

"We are coordinating with Washington and we now have a clearer idea of what the Americans want and where they think they are going," one official said.

Suspended For Stand

Soviets Toss Up Unmanned Probe

Moscow (UPI) — The Soviet Union Thursday launched an unmanned "Cosmos 64" scientific probe in a follow-up to the manned space flight last week by Alexei Leonov and Pavel Belyayev.

The official Tass news agency said the satellite was carrying out a further step in the three-year Cosmos program for solving space flight problems, improving communications and spaceship construction.

FOOD

a handsome Lenten offering

In his precepts, Brillat-Savarin advised, "Let the number of guests not exceed twelve, so that conversation may be constantly general." This is the advice we generally follow today when entertaining in the home. It is usually more satisfying to the hostess to entertain small groups, and more enjoyable for guests who have an opportunity to meet everybody. Historically, great consideration was given to the proper number of guests. The Romans always had three or nine for dinner—as many as the Graces, no more than the Muses. The Greeks invited seven diners, in honor of Pallas. The emperor Augustus preferred twelve men and twelve women, in honor of the twelve gods and goddesses. In France, any number except thirteen is good. Whether you're planning an intimate dinner for two, six at the table, or twelve for a buffet, Crab Imperial is an ideal main dish. Crabmeat, an aristocrat of the shellfish, combined with seasoned mayonnaise and baked in ramekins makes a handsome Lenten offering indeed!

CRAB IMPERIAL

2 pounds lump crabmeat
½ cup mayonnaise
3 pimientos, chopped
1 teaspoon salt
⅛ teaspoon pepper
½ teaspoon dry mustard
2 tablespoons mayonnaise
Paprika

Remove any remaining shell particles from the crabmeat. Combine mayonnaise, pimiento, salt, pepper and mustard. Mix lightly with crabmeat. Place in six well-greased ramekins. Top each with a teaspoon of mayonnaise. Sprinkle with paprika. Bake in a moderate oven, 350 degrees, for 20 to 25 minutes or until bubbly and brown. Makes 6 servings.

QUIZ

♠A9652 ♥A ♦AQ ♣K8763
♠QJ6 ♥AK4 ♦AJ73 ♣AJ5
♠87643 ♥AKQ4 ♦8 ♣AKJ
♠Q8 ♥KQ94 ♦QJ2 ♣KQ63
♠Q ♥Q763 ♦AQ84 ♣AQ92

1. One club. Obviously, the choice lies between a spade and a club, but, in the long run, the winning bid is one club. This is chiefly because the opening club bid permits the maximum exchange of information at a low level.

Thus, if you open with a club and partner responds a diamond or a heart, it becomes possible to show the second suit at the one level. But if you open with a spade and partner responds two diamonds or hearts, it would become necessary to go into the three level to show the second suit. This conservation of bidding space is frequently important in arriving at the best contract, whether at a high or low level

2. One diamond Even though this is clearly a no-trump type of hand, it is better to open with a diamond, our only four-card suit. It would be wrong to bid one notrump, showing 16 to 18 points when we actually have 20, and it would be equally wrong to bid two notrump, showing 22 to 24 points, which we don't have.

The plan is to jump to three notrump if partner's response to the diamond opening is a heart, a spade, or notrump In this way our high-card strength and balanced distribution would become identified almost exactly

3. One spade. Despite the poor quality of the suit, the proper opening bid is one spade. If partner has any three spades, the suit becomes playable as trump. The intention is to bid hearts next and then abide by partner's preference for one of the two suits. The hand lends itself primarily to suit play, and every effort should be extended in that direction.

4. One club. The choice is between one club and one heart. The club bid is preferred because no rebid problem will arise if partner's response is one of any suit. An opening heart bid would, however present a difficult rebid problem if partner responded two diamonds.

5. One diamond. Generally, with 4-4-4-1 distribution, you start with the suit immediately beneath the singleton, but in this case you don't because the suit, hearts, is not regarded as biddable because of its very poor texture. That being the case, you go to the next eligible suit, diamonds. The intention is to bid two clubs if partner's response to the diamond bid is one spade.

Gay Pauley, UPI's Girl Friday who flits from fashion show to fashion show, writes us from Dallas where she has been glimpsing what America's Southwest has to offer for the feminine world. Here is what she says.

Quilts are coverlets, and now they're also clothes with the designs bearing little resemblance to the patchwork productions grandma made.

Rich, yellow quilted cotton formed a daytime suit with cardigan jacket, slightly flared skirt, and dubbed 'lemonade on the rocks." His "floral tattoo" was also for day—a mint green quilted skirt topped by a floral cotton in shades of green and beige. "Side show" used the same mint green and floral print fabrics in a versatile costume to serve during the day or for dressing up in the evening

The Dickey clothes were from one designer in this area who created more often than he adapts, which most of the Texas garment industry does for sports and casual clothes of moderate and low price.

In other lines manufacturers showed today, the suit with the long jacket stood out. Cupiaoli-Leeds showed dark cotton suits in solids and subdued plaids with straight skirts and jackets, most of them unbelted but slim, and ranging from wrist to knuckle to fingertip length. The average: about 28 inches.

ABBY

Abigail Van Buren

DEAR ABBY: How do you tell a girl she is dirty? We are freshmen in high school and one of our classmates comes to school dirty every day. She doesn't comb her hair, she just "rats" it and lets it go. We would like to tell her as politely as possible that she is dirty, but we don't know how.

FROM INDIANA

DEAR GIRLS: There is no "polite" way to tell a girl she is dirty. Perhaps there is a reason why she is "dirty." Do any of you know what her home is like? Are there proper facilities for cleanliness? If there are, and the girl simply does not know better, then one of the girls with whom SHE is close should have a frank talk with her—but in the spirit of kindness and helpfulness. And the same girl could help her improve her hair style.

* * *

DEAR ABBY What do you think is wrong with a husband who, having slept in the same bed with his wife for thirty years, moves into another bedroom and has only been back to sleep with her twice in two years? And then it was only because they had overnight company and he was forced to sleep with his wife. On those occasions he slept on the edge of the bed with his face to the wall. The wife is not unattractive. In fact, she is always getting compliments on the way she dresses and the way she looks. She bathes every day and gets her hair done once a week She can't understand the reason for his sudden coolness Is it any wonder she is—

MISERABLE

DEAR MISERABLE: No, it's no wonder. But the wife need not go on being miserable for the rest of her life. She should have made an effort to find out the reason for her husband's "sudden coolness" two years ago. But it's better late than never.

* * *

DEAR DISGUSTED: Speaking of manners: The essence of good manners is to make your guest feel as much "at home" as possible, even though his table manners strike you as intolerable. Annoying as they are, "bad table manners" do not necessarily reveal an individual's more significant qualities.

* * *

DEAR ABBY. The young lady who wanted that airline pilot to wear his uniform when he dated her might be interested in knowing that it is against airline regulations for any member of its company to appear in a uniform in a night club or bar.

U.S. High Court To Hear Nebraska Case

The first habeas corpus case from Nebraska to reach the U.S. Supreme Court in recent years will be argued before the justices late in April.

The high court's decision in the case could have a profound effect on the statutes of Nebraska and other states.

The case involves State Penitentiary inmate Paul V. Case, 40, of Detroit, who was sentenced to a five-year term in 1963 for burglary in Lancaster County. Case contends he was illegally sentenced and imprisoned.

Acting as his own attorney, he challenged the constitutionality of the statute under which he was sentenced in Lancaster District Court, which rejected his contention, and the State Supreme Court, which affirmed the district court decision.

He then appealed directly to the U.S. Supreme Court arguing that Nebraska statutes do not provide remedies for violations of rights guaranteed by the federal Constitution.

The high court accepted the case and named a University of Virginia law professor, Dr. Daniel J. Meador, as Case's counsel. Assistant Atty. Gen. Mel Kammerlohr will present the state's case before the high court.

A specific date for presentation of oral arguments has not been set.

TIME
never wasted in suburbia

In the meantime suburban residents have found a number of social events to keep them occupied. For instance there have been several out-of-town guests visiting in and around Lincoln—and there also has been some traveling.

Spring Football Coming

Spring football is well under way at a couple of Big Eight schools; it is just around the corner at others; and it is just under a snowbank at Nebraska.

Kansas State coach Doug Weaver says he is looking for receivers in the Wildcats spring drills. Gomer Jones at Oklahoma is looking for "tackles, ends and quarterbacks." Nebraska's coaching staff is still looking for any of their football fields that are hidden by snow.

The Huskers are scheduled to open a week from today and within 10 days, all Big Eight grid camps will be in full swing.

Snap Decision For Weaver

Weaver explains he started spring drills earlier than usual at Kansas State because, "I woke up one morning and it looked like a fine day to play football, so we decided to start spring drills."

Weaver greeted 90 candidates, including 19 lettermen. Among the returning lettermen are six defensive starters and three offensive regulars.

Two defensive standouts off the team that Nebraska demolished, 47-0, are missing spring drills for baseball. Matan, the 6-4, 231-pound all-Big Eight end, and Charlie Cottle, are playing baseball.

The Wildcats lost their top six pass receivers of 1964, representing 38 of the 44 passes caught and 419 of the 439 aerial yards. "One of our main concerns at this stage of spring practice is finding out which players can catch the football," Weaver points out.

Weaver also feels he will get help from a sophomore crop that includes Victor Castillo, the nifty passing quarterback who was in Weaver's doghouse last season after celebrating his 18th birthday a little too strongly in the Jayhawk state where 18th birthdays can be celebrated strongly.

No Captains At OU

Jones, in his second year at Oklahoma's head post, has decided to do away with season captains and will name his leaders on a game-by-game basis.

"We won't elect captains," Jones declares. "We've discovered that captains sometimes become so involved in 'mothering' the squad while serving as contacts between players and coaches that they lose their effectiveness as players."

Jones is using everyone both on offense and defense during the first two weeks before dividing them into platoons after the spring holidays.

"When the squad returns from vacation we will have had time to evaluate the first two weeks and will then place each boy on the platoon where we think he'll do the most good," Jones says.

In an effort to improve its passing game, Oklahoma is experimenting this spring with a wing-T formation involving a split end, thus providing two detached men to throw to instead of the one used most of last fall.

"We especially need tackles, ends and quarterbacks," Jones points out. "The halfback situation is also insecure with the graduation of Lance Rentzel and the switch of Larry Brown to fullback.

Thanks From All-Stater

"I wish to thank you for the honor you have given me by selecting me to the All-State Class B basketball team," Keith Maurer of Madison writes.

"I would also like to thank my teammates and especially my coach, Ed Stevens, for helping me achieve this honor.

Accused Participants Deny Rumors Of Feuding

. . . MANTLE SHIFTED TO LEFT; BOTH MICK AND KEANE DENY FEUD EXISTS

Fort Lauderdale, Fla. (AP)—Manager Johnny Keane shifted the sore-legged Mickey Mantle to left field Thursday and both of them denied a report that a feud was causing disorder on the New York Yankees.

"I told Mickey I wanted him to be my left fielder, in games at Yankee Stadium as well as away from home," Kearne said. "He accepted the decision graciously. There's never been any trouble between us.'

The New York World-Telegram and Sun's writer with the Yankees, Joe King, reported Thursday that a feud seemed to be arising between Keane and the two Yankee veterans, Mantle and pitcher Whitey Ford.

King said that the manager's insistence on stressing that Mantle, who has had trouble with both legs, was not equipped to hold down center field had annoyed Mantle's friends on the team.

"Keane has insisted on making decisions when none as needed," the reporter wrote. He said the Yankee squad was in disorder.

All three of the principals—Keane, Mantle and Ford—shrugged off the suggestion. They said there was nothing to it.

"How can anybody say that I have been moving Mantle about when he has been used only in center field whenever he has played?" Keane said.

Ford laughed when informed of the rumors of a feud and said, "It's the first I've heard of it."

The 33-year-old outfielder said he had asked Keane to put him where he could do the last harm and make the fewest errors.

"I don't care where I play as long as they let me hit," he added.

Mantle admitted, however, that he was apprehensive about playing left field in Yankee Stadium. "There's a low barrier back there and the ground is hillier than in the other fields," he said.

"I won't change Maris," the manager said. "He's the best right fielder in the league."

He also said his decision to use Mantle in left was not dictated in any way by sentiment

"I told Mickey that I wasn't looking to make it easier for him," Keane added. 'I told him I wanted the best outfield I could possibly get, and that included him."

SPAHN'S HIT LIFTS METS

Yankees Fall To Rival, 3-2

. . . TERRY GOES NINE

By Associated Press

Ageless Warren Spahn hit a homer, drove in another run and pitched the New York Mets to a 3-2 exhibition baseball victory over the New York Yankees Thursday.

The 43-year-old left-hander, the Mets' pitching coach who was acquired from Milwaukee, allowed only one run and four hits, struck out three and walked the same number in a sixth inning pitching stint at Fort Lauderdale, Fla.

It was the fourth victory in a row for the Mets, who have finished last in each of their three years in the National League. The Yankees have lost eight of their last nine.

Ralph Terry, meanwhile became the first major league pitcher to go nine innings in the spring training session, hurling the Cleveland Indians to a 6-1 triumph over a Los Angeles Angels team in Tucson, Airz.

In other exhibitions, the other half of the Angels squad beat Boston 8-4 in Scottsdale, Ariz., the Chicago Cubs edged San Francisco 8-7 in Mesa, Ariz., Baltimore defeated Detroit 7-4 in Lakeland, Fla., Milwaukee whipped Minnesota 9-5 in Orlando, Fla., St. Louis nipped Houston 8-7 in St. Petersburg, Fla., Cincinnati got by Philadelphia 7-6 in Clearwater, Fla., the Los Angeles Dodgers took Kansas City 8-5 in Bradenton, Fla. and the Chicago White Sox routed Pittsburgh 10-4 at Fort Myers, Fla.

The only run Spahn allowed was a solo homer by Phil Linz in the third. Spahn, meanwhile, had a single, drove in a run with a sacrifice fly and hit a homer in the seventh.

Terry also turned in a solid job, striking out seven, allowing only one base on balls and scattering eight hits in going all the way for the Indians.

The hitters had the edge in most of the rest of them, however. Tommy Davis' three-run pinch hit homer won it for the Dodgers, a lead off homer in the ninth by rookie Art Shamsky was the difference for Cincinnati, Tim McCarver drove in two rounds with a pinch hit double in the St. Louis triumph, and Lou Klimchock and Sandy Alomar each had three hits in the 16-hit Milwaukee attack that subdued Minnesota.

The top half of the Angels' split squad pounded out 16 hits, including a two-run homer by Bobby Knoop in support of Dean Chance's pitching. The Cy Young Award winner allowed seven hits and three walks in 5 2-3 innings, but still took the victory.

The White Sox had homers by Tom Agee, Manly Johnston, Ken Berry, John Ramano and John Bufford in the romp over Pittsburgh. The Pirates also lost second baseman Bill Mazeroski for five to six weeks when he broke a bone in his right foot.

George Altman singled in two ninth inning runs to tie it and another single by Ernie Banks produced the winner in the Chicago Cubs' comeback, while Baltimore benefitted by four unearned runs in the last two innings in the Colts' rally over Detroit.

BASEBALL ON ICE

Metropolitan Stadium manager Bill Williams, right, and groundskeeper Dick Ericson, skim along on ice skates on some six inches of ice just 18 days before the Minnesota Twins and the New York Yankees are to meet in their American League baseball opener in the Twin Cities. The field has been cleared of a heavy snow, but the thick ice coating remains.

Robie, Saari, Clark Dominate Swimming Championships

. . . WIN IN FINALS

Ames, Iowa (AP) — Roy Saari got Southern California's bid for a third straight national collegiate swimming title off to a blazing start Thursday night when he won the 500-yard free-style in record time.

The fleet junior broke his the American record with his time of 4:43.6. A three-event winner a year ago, Saari took own meet mark and shattered the lead on the third lap and won by five feet over Michigan's Bill Farley.

Michigan, a threat for the team title, boosted its hopes when Carl Robie won the 400-yard individual medley, an event passed up by defending champion Rich McGreagh of Southern California

Robie, who came from behind in the last 40 yards to nip Robert Hopper of Ohio State, was timed in 4 16 6, two tenths off the record

Yale's Steve Clark, who set a record in the preliminaries a year ago and then lost in the finals of the 50-yard free-style, took the title this year.

Clark's time of 21 2 seconds was far off his record of 20.9. He shaded Rich Abrahams of Northwestern and Charles Staples of Oregon, who tied for second although they were given different times.

The finish was so tight that Staples' time of 21.5 was slower than the clocking of 21.4 given Bill Groft of Michigan, who was awarded fourth.

Pastrano, Stable Spar Four Rounds

Monticello, N.Y. (AP)—Light heavyweight champion Willie Pastrano and welterweight challenger Jose Stable sparred four rounds each Thursday in the closing stages of training for the boxing title doubleheader next Tuesday night.

Melvin Kruelwitch, chairman of the New York State Athletic Commission, visited the Pastrano-Stable camp and confirmed the following rules will be in effect Tuesday night: A fighter knocked down three times in a round will be declared knocked out; if a fighter is down at the bell, the count will continue after the bell and if it goes to 10, he is out.

At nearby Kiamesha Lake, Griffith boxed four rounds. The welterweight champion said he would go three rounds each on Friday and Saturday, then do no work at all the next two days.

—STILL THINKS YANKS CAN BE BEATEN—

Optimistic White Sox Pilot Hasn't Changed

11th of a Series

Sarasota, Fla. (AP) — A visitor from Arizona braced Al Lopez in the Chicago White Sox dugout and asked:

"I've been talking with Birdie Tebbetts in the Cleveland camp and he thinks the Yankees really can be beaten this year. What do you think?"

Lopez grinned and answered:

"That is what I have been saying for years. I took a lot of kididng about it but I really meant it. This year I think the White Sox and Baltimore are the teams to beat. Of course, we're not overlooking the Yankees."

Al's optimistic forecasts have been taken with a grain of salt in the past. But he came so close last year when his Sox finished second, one game behind the Yanks that it may be wise to listen.

"I think we should have a little more punch with John Romano and Bill Skowron all the way," he said. "I know last year they were killing us with left-handers. The Yankees brought Steve Hamilton out of the bullpen and he beat us twice. They even beat us with Bud Daley, just coming back from arm trouble.

"It was a funny thing. The Yankees beat us the first 10 times we played them, still we were ahead of them in the standing. Then we beat them six of the last eight and finished second.

"If anything should happen to Ellie Howard they would be in trouble, even more than if they should lose Mickey Mantle or Whitey Ford because they don't have anybody back of Howard.

"Our team showed me last year it could bounce back better than any team I ever saw. I said last year that 98 games would be enough for the pennant. We got 98 but finished second. I'd settle for 98 again."

Lopez is particularly high on rookie center fielder Ken Berry and Romano, a catcher he traded away after winning the 1959 pennant when the club was looking for instant power.

"We have had two big surprises in training camp," said Lopez. "Tommy John and Tom Agee. John, a left-hander, pitched five shutout innings against the Yankees and might make it as a starter. Agee has been doing a fine job in the outfield."

"Our infield should be better. Last year Pete Ward came up with a bad back and we had to shift Don Buford from second to third base, a strange position. Ward is fine this year and Buford will be under less strain at second. Rom Hansen at short and Skowron at first are the others."

Smoky Burgess probably will stay as a left-handed pinch hitter and Lopez may keep Gerry McNertney, Bill Heath or Jimmie Schaffer behind Romano. J. C. Martin is a borderline case.

The pitching is the solid corps of the club. Lopez expects Peters to be even better. Pizarro has been holding out, as usual, in Puerto Rico, but is expected to be ready by opening day because he pitched all winter.

Joel Horlen, a 13-game winner as a rookie, shows great promise as does Bruce Howard. Johnny Buzhardt and probably John are the other starters.

Dave DeBusschere reported late after coaching the Detroit NBA team and will have to hustle to catch up. The bullpen is in good hands with the two knucklers, Hoyt Wilhelm and Eddie Fisher.

CUSTOMERS CONFUSED, HORSE EXASPERATED, RACE IS RERUN

Warwick, England (AP)—It was confusing to the customers, and exasperating to a 5-year-old race horse named Kohoja Hafiz.

Twenty-six horses lined up for the event, the starting tapes were yanked and the crowd yelled, "They're off!"

But only half of them were off. The other half fidgeted behind manually operated tapes that failed to go up. Britain doesn't have starting gates used in the United States.

A dozen of the horses bolted down the track. Two of them, Grey Jet and Jos threw their jockeys and then galloped back to the stables.

The others were pulled up after about a furlong—that is, all except Khoja Hafiz. Khoja kept going, proudly racing alone around the oval, and finally crossing the finish line amid cheers.

Khoja's jockey, David East, brought him back to the starting gate but the starter ruled he had run enough. He was withdrawn.

Finally, 17 minutes late, the race got off officially. It was won by a 100-8 long shot named Bright Counsel.

FOOD

a handsome Lenten offering

In his precepts, Brillat-Savarin advised, "Let the number of guests not exceed twelve, so that conversation may be constantly general." This is the advice we generally follow today when entertaining in the home. It is usually more satisfying to the hostess to entertain small groups, and more enjoyable for guests who have an opportunity to meet everybody. Historically, great consideration was given to the proper number of guests. The Romans always had three or nine for dinner—as many as the Graces, no more than the Muses. The Greeks invited seven diners, in honor of Pallas. The emperor Augustus preferred twelve men and twelve women, in honor of the twelve gods and goddesses. In France, any number except thirteen is good. Whether you're planning an intimate dinner for two, six at the table, or twelve for a buffet, Crab Imperial is an ideal main dish. Crabmeat, an aristocrat of the shellfish, combined with seasoned mayonnaise and baked in ramekins makes a handsome Lenten offering indeed!

CRAB IMPERIAL

- 2 pounds lump crabmeat
- ½ cup mayonnaise
- 3 pimientos, chopped
- 1 teaspoon salt
- ⅛ teaspoon pepper
- ½ teaspoon dry mustard
- 2 tablespoons mayonnaise
- Paprika

Remove any remaining shell particles from the crabmeat. Combine mayonnaise, pimiento, salt, pepper and mustard. Mix lightly with crabmeat. Place in six well-greased ramekins. Top each with a teaspoon of mayonnaise. Sprinkle with paprika. Bake in a moderate oven, 350 degrees, for 20 to 25 minutes or until bubbly and brown. Makes 6 servings.

QUIZ

1. ♠A9652 ♥A ♦AQ ♣K8763
2. ♠QJ6 ♥AK4 ♦AJ73 ♣AJ5
3. ♠87643 ♥AKQ4 ♦8 ♣AKJ
4. ♠Q8 ♥KQ94 ♦QJ2 ♣KQ63
5. ♠Q ♥Q763 ♦AQ84 ♣AQ92

1. One club. Obviously, the choice lies between a spade and a club, but, in the long run, the winning bid is one club. This is chiefly because the opening club bid permits the maximum exchange of information at a low level.

Thus, if you open with a club and partner responds a diamond or a heart, it becomes possible to show the second suit at the one level. But if you open with a spade and partner responds two diamonds or hearts, it would become necessary to go into the three level to show the second suit. This conservation of bidding space is frequently important in arriving at the best contract, whether at a high or low level.

2. One diamond. Even though this is clearly a no-trump type of hand, it is better to open with a diamond, our only four-card suit. It would be wrong to bid one notrump, showing 16 to 18 points when we actually have 20, and it would be equally wrong to bid two notrump, showing 22 to 24 points, which we don't have.

The plan is to jump to three notrump if partner's response to the diamond opening is a heart, a spade, or a notrump. In this way our high-card strength and balanced distribution would become identified almost exactly.

3. One spade. Despite the poor quality of the suit, the proper opening bid is one spade. If partner has any three spades, the suit becomes playable as trump. The intention is to bid hearts next and then abide by partner's preference for one of the two suits. The hand lends itself primarily to suit play, and every effort should be expended in that direction.

4. One club. The choice is between one club and one heart. The club bid is preferred because no rebid problem will arise if partner's response is one of any suit. An opening heart bid would, however, present a difficult rebid problem if partner responded two diamonds.

5. One diamond. Generally, with 4-4-4-1 distribution, you start with the suit immediately beneath the singleton, but in this case you don't because the suit, hearts, is not regarded as biddable because of its very poor texture. That being the case, you go to the next eligible suit, diamonds. The intention is to bid two clubs if partner's response to the diamond bid is one spade.

ABBY

Abigail Van Buren

DEAR ABBY: How do you tell a girl she is dirty? We are freshmen in high school and one of our classmates comes to school dirty every day. She doesn't comb her hair, she just "rats" it and lets it go. We would like to tell her as politely as possible that she is dirty, but we don't know how.

FROM INDIANA

DEAR GIRLS: There is no "polite" way to tell a girl she is dirty. Perhaps there is a reason why she is "dirty." Do any of you know what her home is like? Are there proper facilities for cleanliness? If there are, and the girl simply does not know better, then one of the girls with whom SHE is close should have a frank talk with her—but in the spirit of kindness and helpfulness. And the same girl could help her improve her hair style.

* * *

DEAR ABBY: What do you think is wrong with a husband who, having slept in the same bed with his wife for thirty years, moves into another bedroom and has only been back to sleep with her twice in two years? And then it was only because they had overnight company and he was forced to sleep with his wife. On those occasions he slept on the edge of the bed with his face to the wall. The wife is not unattractive. In fact, she is always getting compliments on the way she dresses and the way she looks. She bathes every day and gets her hair done once a week. She can't understand the reason for his sudden coolness. Is it any wonder she is—

MISERABLE

DEAR MISERABLE: No, it's no wonder. But the wife need not go on being miserable for the rest of her life. She should have made an effort to find out the reason for her husband's "sudden coolness" two years ago. But it's better late than never.

* * *

DEAR DISGUSTED: Speaking of manners: The essence of good manners is to make your guest feel as much "at home" as possible, even though his table manners strike you as intolerable. Annoying as they are, "bad table manners" do not necessarily reveal an individual's more significant qualities.

* * *

DEAR ABBY: The young lady who wanted that airline pilot to wear his uniform when he dated her might be interested in knowing that it is against airline regulations for any member of its company to appear in a uniform in a night club or bar.

THE

'quilted' fashions

Gay Pauley, UPI's Girl Friday who flits from fashion show to fashion show, writes us from Dallas where she has been glimpsing what America's Southwest has to offer for the feminine world. Here is what she says:

Quilts are coverlets, and now they're also clothes with the designs bearing little resemblance to the patchwork productions grandma made.

Rich, yellow quilted cotton formed a daytime suit with cardigan jacket, slightly flared skirt, and dubbed "lemonade on the rocks." His "floral tattoo" was also for day—a mint green quilted skirt topped by a floral cotton in shades of green and beige. "Side show" used the same mint green and floral print fabrics in a versatile costume to serve during the day or for dressing up in the evening.

The Dickey clothes were from one designer in this area who created more often than he adapts, which most of the Texas garment industry does for sports and casual clothes of moderate and low price.

In other lines manufacturers showed today, the suit with the long jacket stood out. Cupiaoli-Leeds showed dark cotton suits in solids and subdued plaids with straight skirts and jackets, most of them unbelted but slim, and ranging from wrist to knuckle to fingertip length. The average: about 28 inches.

Caddie Shoots 65 On Return

. . . USES ONLY 25 PUTTS

Wilmington, N.C. (AP) — Strapping Claude King of Virginia Beach, Va., returned to the course over which he caddied as a teen-ager in this city of his birth to shoot a seven-under par 65 Thursday and take the first round lead in the $28,750 Azalea Open Golf Tournament.

The 32-year-old King, a 207-pounder standing 6-foot-2, knocked in nine birdies as he jumped into a one-stroke lead.

King, in his fourth year on the professional tour, had a phenomenal putting day, using only 25 strokes on the greens of the 6,700-yard Cape Fear Country Club course. It tied the low figure for the year's PGA tour.

He played the back nine first and shot it in 33, finishing with a 60-foot putt on the 18th green. Then he moved to the first tee and after three pars, birdied five of the last six holes, the last four in a row.

"I never put the ball so consistently near the hole before," he said. Most of his birdies came on putts of eight feet or under as his approach shots were consistently on target.

On the 175-yard eighth hole, the next-to-last he played on his reversed round, the former East Carolina College football fullback, "came as close to a hole-in-one as I ever did in my life."

His No. 5 iron shot just missed the pin, stopping some six inches away.

Stuart, 30-year-old club pro who plays only the winter tour, also played the course in reverse order. On No. 8 he knocked in a 12-footer for a birdie and on No. 9, his final hole, he holed out from 175 yards with a No. 3 iron for an eagle two.

Host pro Hampton Auld, who dropped off the tour several years ago to take the Wilmington job, held third place alone at 67, with birdies on two of his last three holes. He also started his round on the 10th tee.

Five players tied for fourth place at 68, including Jacky Cupit who is hoping to earn his way into the Masters at Augusta, Ga., in two weeks with a good showing here.

In all, 38 men in the field of 146 broke par and 17 equalled it on a cloudy, humid day. The course played a bit on the long side as it slowly dried out following day-long showers Wednesday.

Divot-Diggers Accent Practical Attire

. . . A LOOK A 1965'S NEW GOLF GEAR

By STEVE SNIDER

New York (UPI)—What's new in golf gear for 1965?

Quality is the fresh note as the nation's manufacturers cater to the increasingly more sophisticated needs of eight million divot-diggers who'll shell out more than $150 millions on new equipment this year.

The accent is on superior weapons and fashionable, practical attire but there still are gadgets galore to delight the duffer with an insatiable desire to be first with the latest "stroke-savers."

The swing to quality—rather than extravagent promises—is noted most in the gold ball trade. There's a sudden dearth of balls with cores of some mysterious material guaranteed to get you in trouble with the U.S. Golf Association.

Club-makers generally stress balance, feel and top-grade construction in the mass field. There's an increase in custom-made clubs by artisans who tailor their sets to individual tastes.

Arnold Palmer is out with a copy of his "old putter," the PGA has a trouble-shooting club called "the scrambler," and there's an increase in offerings of pendulum or croquet-type putters popularized by Bob Duden.

In the clothing end, gloves are softer and lighter; waterproofing of shoes has been improved; one manufacturer is out with a super-light shoe for players who ride electric gold carts and don't need heavy walking footwear; raingear, including wrap-around skirts for the gals, is lighter and designed to be tossed into a washing machine.

Gadgets run from the usual rangefielders and plastic sleeves to keep the left arm stiff to new items like the gismo that shows whether an old ball still is round and playable or too beat up for anything but a whack off the practice tee.

One manufacturer offers an "outboard" motor so the player won't have to push or pull up all those hills. Another cart has compartments so clubs can be inserted head-down, promising better balance for the hauler. A collapsible one can be stored in a closet, clubs and all.

Gadget boxes on cart handles hold everything from scorecards, pencils, umbrellas and extra balls to cold beer, cosmetic kits and a bracket for the tired business man to clip in his lighted cigar while he's flailing away.

There are zippered "rain-coats" to protect golf bags, indoor practice putting cups that will return a ball to the exact distance you're putting from, tees and on-the-green ball-markers with names imprinted, a practice "tee" with captive ball that records the distance of each shot.

A shoe attachment sets the right leg for the swing, a cup on the end of a putter shaft plucks the ball from the hole without forcing the player to stoop.

All this goes with a game that always remians the same—hitting the little white ball a considerable distance and eventually coaxing it into a little dark hole.

—COACHES RECRUIT NEGROES—

Color Barrier Being Broken

By Associated Press

Coach Lefty Driesell of Davidson and Coach Horace "Bones" McKinney of Wake Forest said Wednesday they are actively seeking Negro basketball players.

Driesell said he was interested in two players at the all-Negro Laurinburg Institute. Several players which posted a 22-1 record this season were guests of Driesell an all-star basketball game at the Charlotte Coliseum Tuesday.

Driesell said he is interested in Al Hayes, a 5-11 senior guard with a 17 point scoring average, and Charles Scott, a 6-5 junior forward with a 20 point average.

McKinney, who declined to name the Negro player he is seeking, identified him as the center on the Dodge City, Kan., Junior College team. The team won the national junior college championship in 1964 and finished fifth this year.

The center on that team is 6-4 Carl Head from Washington, D.C., who averaged 19 points a game in 1964 and was a junior college All-America selection the past two years.

There are no Negroes on any Atlantic Coast Conference basketball squads, although Negroes have participated in other sports.

There have been no Negroes on Southern Conference basketball varsity teams, although West Virginia has four on its freshmen basketball team. One, Ron Williams, is considered the best West Virginia prospect since Jerry West.

'Pokes, ISU Neck-And-Neck

Laramie, Wyo. (AP)—The two teams picked most likely to battle for the National Collegiate Athletic Association wrestling crown, Oklahoma State and Iowa State, were neck and neck through the first and part of the second round Thursday.

Defending champion Oklahoma State and Iowa State are two of the three biggest powers in the collegiate sport. Each had moved three men into the quarter-finals with second round victories Thursday night. The second round had not been completed.

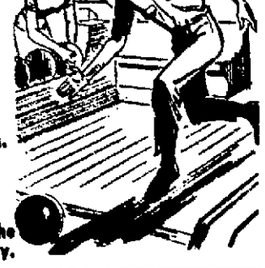

At the end of the first round, the two teams were deadlocked for the lead, 7-7, with Michigan and Oklahoma in second place with six apiece, while a surprising Brigham Young team was fifth with four points.

Dennis Dutsch, 123-pounder, also advanced on a decision. Iowa State wrestlers advancing included Ernest Gillum, 115 pounds, 123-pound Roger Sebert, one of the pre-tourney favorites, and Ron Jones at 130.

Other defending champions coming through with first round victories included Oklahoma's Gary Sager at 137, who outpointed Joe Ganz of Michigan State 6-2, and Iowa State's Gordon Hassman, who made short work of Kurt Kuppinger of Syracuse, pinning him in 4:31 in the 157-pound division.

A VW has fewer parts than other cars because it needs fewer parts.

There's no bulky drive shaft to transfer engine power to the rear wheels. Our car's engine is in back to start with (and to maintain traction with). That's why it doesn't need a drive shaft.

And it doesn't need a radiator, or a water pump, or hoses. Because the engine's cooled with air, not water.

(When you drive your first VW, you may miss putting in antifreeze, rust inhibitors, and whatnot. But you'll soon get used to it.)

The stuff a Volkswagen doesn't use, it doesn't have to haul (and waste gas on). Which is one reason it averages 32 miles per gallon of regular.

And the parts you don't buy, you'll never repair. So you can't waste money on that.

Now you know why you can drive a VW for years and years with a lot of parts missing. And never miss them.

Tondi Leading Hanson Stable Back To Fonner

. . . OPENING SCHEDULED FOR TUESDAY

Grand Island — The first oad of horses from the Hanon Stable of North Platte arived in Grand Island Vednesday. Several more ans of horses will be arrivng daily from Oaklawn Park over the next few days to bring the total stable to 20 head of thoroughbreds.

Tondi, Say Alibhai, Lori J., and Delinda's King, top performers, have made their mark in local and area racing over the past several years. Their return to action at Fonner Park will be looked forward to with a great deal of anticipation.

Tondi is a name in Nebraska racing synonymous with Kelso on the national scale. The black son of Spy Song has accounted for nearly every important stake at Fonner Park and Ak-Sar Ben over the past five years. These successes earned him nearly $100,000.

The Hanson stakes star failed to reach his best stride during the 1964 racing season and only earned $5,025, but the disappointment for his lack of success was lessened for trainer Larry Boyle with the showing of two young horses—Say Alibhai and Delinda's King.

Say Alibhai's winning ways went uninterrupted until several months later in Detroit after he had scored six straight victories. He was injured in his losing effort and did not see action again until this spring at Oaklawn Park. The long list of wins earned him $23,486.

The strength in the stable seems to still lay in the youngsters in the extensive stable. Tenni, Lincoln County, Delinda's King, and Bobbin's Baby have all been consistent performers at Oaklawn Park this winter.

Tenni was the first of the Hanson Stable to win this spring at Oaklawn. She won the initial start of her career by five lengths. The speedy miss has since been second on two occasions against feature race three-year-old.

Lincoln County and Bobbin's Baby have both been good enough to score wins against two-year-old competition in Hot Springs. Bobbin's Baby won as recently as last Monday.

Jockey L. C. Peck is expected to make the trek north with the Hanson Stable since he has been doing the bulk of their riding at Oaklawn. Peck has been the second leading rider in Grand Island the past two years.

LB279—Increasing penalties for hunting, ishing and trapping violations.

All the measures, introduced by the Agriculture and Recreation Committee at the request of the State Game Commission, were not opposed at a public hearing.

Memphis, Tenn. (AP)—The Memphis Wings, already out of the Central hockey league running, took up team-member Max Mestinsek's gauntlet Wednesday night and trounced league-leading Omaha, 7-3.

76ers, Bullets Hold Playoff Edge

By The Associated Press

After winning the openers on enemy courts, the Philadelphia 76ers and Baltimore Bullets have the definite edge in the divisional semifinals of the National Basketball Association playoffs.

Philadelphia beat the Royals at Cincinnati 119-117 in overtime Wednesday night while the Bullets trimmed the Hawks at St. Louis 108-105. The best-of-five game series resume Friday night at Philadelphia and Baltimore.

The Eastern series is highlighted by a negative angle-two sub-par superstars. NBA scoring champion Wilt Chamberlain of the 76ers is suffering from a recurrence of stomach trouble and the versatile Oscar Robertson of Cincinnati is hampered by an injured left foot. Both were obviously bothered by their ailments in the opening game, each scoring some 10 points under his average.

The Bullets, off their upset at St. Louis, now claim the favorite's role in the Western series—at least psychologically, according to Coach Buddy Jeannette. They had balanced scoring by their first five, getting 103 of their 108 points from the starters.

Awaiting the winners of the division semifinals are the mighty Boston Celtics who finished first in the East for the ninth straight time and are after their seventh straight NBA title, and the Los Angeles Lakers, first-place team in the West.

Spring Football Coming

Spring football is well under way at a couple of Big Eight schools; it is just around the corner at others; and it is just under a snowbank at Nebraska.

Kansas State coach Doug Weaver says he is looking for receivers in the Wildcats spring drills. Gomer Jones at Oklahoma is looking for "tackles, ends and quarterbacks." Nebraska's coaching staff is still looking for any of their football fields that are hidden by snow.

The Huskers are scheduled to open a week from today and within 10 days, all Big Eight grid camps will be in full swing.

Snap Decision For Weaver

Weaver explains he started spring drills earlier than usual at Kansas State because, "I woke up one morning and it looked like a fine day to play football, so we decided to start spring drills."

Weaver greeted 90 candidates, including 19 lettermen. Among the returning lettermen are six defensive starters and three offensive regulars.

Two defensive standouts off the team that Nebraska demolished, 47-0, are missing spring drills for baseball. Matan, the 6-4, 231-pound all-Big Eight end, and Charlie Cottle, are playing baseball.

The Wildcats lost their top six pass receivers of 1964, representing 38 of the 44 passes caught and 419 of the 439 aerial yards. "One of our main concerns at this stage of spring practice is finding out which players can catch the football," Weaver points out.

Weaver also feels he will get help from a sophomore crop that includes Victor Castillo, the nifty passing quarterback who was in Weaver's doghouse last season after celebrating his 18th birthday a little too strongly in the Jayhawk state where 18th birthdays can be celebrated strongly.

No Captains At OU

Jones, in his second year at Oklahoma's head post, has decided to do away with season captains and will name his leaders on a game-by-game basis.

"We won't elect captains," Jones declares. "We've discovered that captains sometimes become so involved in 'mothering' the squad while serving as contacts between players and coaches that they lose their effectiveness as players."

Jones is using everyone both on offense and defense during the first two weeks before dividing them into platoons after the spring holidays.

"When the squad returns from vacation we will have had time to evaluate the first two weeks and will then place each boy on the platoon where we think he'll do the most good," Jones says.

In an effort to improve its passing game, Oklahoma is experimenting this spring with a wing-T formation involving a split end, thus providing two detached men to throw to instead of the one used most of last fall.

"We especially need tackles, ends and quarterbacks," Jones points out. "The halfback situation is also insecure with the graduation of Lance Rentzel and the switch of Larry Brown to fullback.

Thanks From All-Stater

"I wish to thank you for the honor you have given me by selecting me to the All-State Class B basketball team," Keith Maurer of Madison writes.

"I would also like to thank my teammates and especially my coach, Ed Stevens, for helping me achieve this honor.

Accused Participants Deny Rumors Of Feuding

. . . MANTLE SHIFTED TO LEFT; BOTH MICK AND KEANE DENY FEUD EXISTS

Fort Lauderdale, Fla. (AP)—Manager Johnny Keane shifted the sore-legged Mickey Mantle to left field Thursday and both of them denied a report that a feud was causing disorder on the New York Yankees.

"I told Mickey I wanted him to be my left fielder, in games at Yankee Stadium as well as away from home," Kearne said. "He accepted the decision graciously. There's never been any trouble between us.'

The New York World-Telegram and Sun's writer with the Yankees, Joe King, reported Thursday that a feud seemed to be arising between Keane and the two Yankee veterans, Mantle and pitcher Whitey Ford.

King said that the manager's insistence on stressing that Mantle, who has had trouble with both legs, was not equipped to hold down center field had annoyed Mantle's friends on the team.

"Keane has insisted on making decisions when none as needed," the reporter wrote. He said the Yankee squad was in disorder.

All three of the principals—Keane, Mantle and Ford—shrugged off the suggestion. They said there was nothing to it.

"How can anybody say that I have been moving Mantle about when he has been used only in center field whenever he has played?" Keane said.

Ford laughed when informed of the rumors of a feud and said, "It's the first I've heard of it."

Mantle, assigned to play left field against the New York Mets in Thursday's exhibition game here, insisted, "My relationship with Keane has been excellent right from the start."

The 33-year-old outfielder said he had asked Keane to put him where he could do the last harm and make the fewest errors.

"I don't care where I play as long as they let me hit," he added.

Mantle admitted, however, that he was apprehensive about playing left field in Yankee Stadium. "There's a low barrier back there and the ground is hillier than in the other fields," he said.

"I won't change Maris," the manager said. "He's the best right fielder in the league."

He also said his decision to use Mantle in left was not dictated in any way by sentiment.

"I told Mickey that I wasn't looking to make it easier for him," Keane added. 'I told him I wanted the best outfield I could possibly get, and that included him."

SPAHN'S HIT LIFTS METS

Yankees Fall To Rival, 3-2

. . . TERRY GOES NINE

By Associated Press

Ageless Warren Spahn hit a homer, drove in another run and pitched the New York Mets to a 3-2 exhibition baseball victory over the New York Yankees Thursday.

The 43-year-old left-hander, the Mets' pitching coach who was acquired from Milwaukee, allowed only one run and four hits, struck out three and walked the same number in a sixth inning pitching stint at Fort Lauderdale, Fla.

It was the fourth victory in a row for the Mets, who have finished last in each of their three years in the National League. The Yankees have lost eight of their last nine.

Ralph Terry, meanwhile became the first major league pitcher to go nine innings in the spring training session, hurling the Cleveland Indians to a 6-1 triumph over a Los Angeles Angels team in Tucson, Airz.

In other exhibitions, the other half of the Angels squad beat Boston 8-4 in Scottsdale, Ariz., the Chicago Cubs edged San Francisco 8-7 in Mesa, Ariz., Baltimore defeated Detroit 7-4 in Lakeland, Fla., Milwaukee whipped Minnesota 9-5 in Orlando, Fla., St. Louis nipped Houston 8-7 in St. Petersburg, Fla., Cincinnati got by Philadelphia 7-6 in Clearwater, Fla., the Los Angeles Dodgers took Kansas City 8-5 in Bradenton, Fla. and the Chicago White Sox routed Pittsburgh 10-4 at Fort Myers, Fla.

The only run Spahn allowed was a solo homer by Phil Linz in the third. Spahn, meanwhile, had a single, drove in a run with a sacrifice fly and hit a homer in the seventh.

Terry also turned in a solid job, striking out seven, allowing only one base on balls and scattering eight hits in going all the way for the Indians.

The hitters had the edge in most of the rest of them, however. Tommy Davis' three-run pinch hit homer won it for the Dodgers, a lead off homer in the ninth by rookie Art Shamsky was the difference for Cincinnati, Tim McCarver drove in two rounds with a pinch hit double in the St. Louis triumph, and Lou Klimchock and Sandy Alomar each had three hits in the 16-hit Milwaukee attack that subdued Minnesota.

The top half of the Angels' split squad pounded out 16 hits, including a two-run homer by Bobby Knoop in support of Dean Chance's pitching. The Cy Young Award winner allowed seven hits and three walks in 52-3 innings, but still took the victory.

The White Sox had homers by Tom Agee, Manly Johnston, Ken Berry, John Ramano and John Bufford in the romp over Pittsburgh. The Pirates also lost second baseman Bill Mazeroski for five to six weeks when he broke a bone in his right foot.

George Altman singled in two ninth inning runs to tie it and another single by Ernie Banks produced the winner in the Chicago Cubs' comeback, while Baltimore benefitted by four unearned runs in the last two innings in the Colts' rally over Detroit.

BASEBALL ON ICE

Metropolitan Stadium manager Bill Williams, right, and groundskeeper Dick Ericson, skim along on ice skates on some six inches of ice just 18 days before the Minnesota Twins and the New York Yankees are to meet in their American League baseball opener in the Twin Cities. The field has been cleared of a heavy snow, but the thick ice coating remains.

Robie, Saari, Clark Dominate Swimming Championships

. . . WIN IN FINALS

Ames, Iowa (AP) — Roy Saari got Southern California's bid for a third straight national collegiate swimming title off to a blazing start Thursday night when he won the 500-yard free-style in record time.

The fleet junior broke his the American record with his time of 4:43.6. A three-event winner a year ago, Saari took own meet mark and shattered the lead on the third lap and won by five feet over Michigan's Bill Farley.

Michigan, a threat for the team title, boosted its hopes when Carl Robie won the 400-yard individual medley, an event passed up by defending champion Rich McGreagh of Southern California.

Robie, who came from behind in the last 40 yards to nip Robert Hopper of Ohio State, was timed in 4:16.6, two tenths off the record.

Yale's Steve Clark, who set a record in the preliminaries a year ago and then lost in the finals of the 50-yard free-style, took the title this year.

Clark's time of 21.2 seconds was far off his record of 20.9. He shaded Rich Abrahams of Northwestern and Charles Staples of Oregon, who tied for second although they were given different times.

The finish was so tight that Staples' time of 21.5 was slower than the clocking of 21.4 given Bill Groft of Michigan, who was awarded fourth.

Midwestern AAU Sets Girls Track Meet For May 1

Seward—The Midwestern AAU Girls Track and Field Championships will be held at Concordia College here May 1, Randall T. Lambert, women's track and field chairman for the Midwestern AAU, said Thursday.

This year's meet will be divided into a high school and an open division. Lambert said the high school division for girls 14-18 had been approved by the Nebraska School Activities Association.

The open division is for girls from 14 years up. Entry forms, registration blanks and other information may be obtained from meet director George Downing, 710 Main, Seward.

Pastrano, Stable Spar Four Rounds

Monticello, N.Y. (AP)—Light heavyweight champion Willie Pastrano and welterweight challenger Jose Stable sparred four rounds each Thursday in the closing stages of training for the boxing title doubleheader next Tuesday night.

Melvin Kruelwitch, chairman of the New York State Athletic Commission, visited the Pastrano-Stable camp and confirmed the following rules will be in effect Tuesday night: A fighter knocked down three times in a round will be declared knocked out; if a fighter is down at the bell, the count will continue after the bell and if it goes to 10, he is out.

At nearby Kiamesha Lake, Griffith boxed four rounds. The welterweight champion said he would go three rounds each on Friday and Saturday, then do no work at all the next two days.

—STILL THINKS YANKS CAN BE BEATEN—

Optimistic White Sox Pilot Hasn't Changed

11th of a Series

Sarasota, Fla. (AP) — A visitor from Arizona braced Al Lopez in the Chicago White Sox dugout and asked:

"I've been talking with Birdie Tebbetts in the Cleveland camp and he thinks the Yankees really can be beaten this year. What do you think?"

Lopez grinned and answered:

"That is what I have been saying for years. I took a lot of kididng about it but I really meant it. This year I think the White Sox and Baltimore are the teams to beat. Of course, we're not overlooking the Yankees."

Al's optimistic forecasts have been taken with a grain of salt in the past. But he came so close last year when his Sox finished second, one game behind the Yanks that it may be wise to listen.

"I think we should have a little more punch with John Romano and Bill Skowron all the way," he said. "I know last year they were killing us with left-handers. The Yankees brought Steve Hamilton out of the bullpen and he beat us twice. They even beat us with Bud Daley, just coming back from arm trouble.

"It was a funny thing. The Yankees beat us the first 10 times we played them, still we were ahead of them in the standing. Then we beat them six of the last eight and finished second.

"If anything should happen to Ellie Howard they would be in trouble, even more than if they should lose Mickey Mantle or Whitey Ford because they don't have anybody back of Howard.

"Our team showed me last year it could bounce back better than any team I ever saw. I said last year that 98 games would be enough for the pennant. We got 98 but finished second. I'd settle for 98 again."

Lopez is particularly high on rookie center fielder Ken Berry and Romano, a catcher he traded away after winning the 1959 pennant when the club was looking for instant power.

"We have had two big surprises in training camp," said Lopez. "Tommy John and Tom Agee. John, a left-hander, pitched five shutout innings against the Yankees and might make it as a starter. Agee has been doing a fine job in the outfield."

"Our infield should be better. Last year Pete Ward came up with a bad back and we had to shift Don Buford from second to third base, a strange position. Ward is fine this year and Buford will be under less strain at second. Rom Hansen at short and Skowron at first are the others."

Smoky Burgess probably will stay as a left-handed pinch hitter and Lopez may keep Gerry McNertney, Bill Heath or Jimmie Schaffer behind Romano. J. C. Martin is a borderline case.

The pitching is the solid corps of the club. Lopez expects Peters to be even better. Pizarro has been holding out, as usual, in Puerto Rico, but is expected to be ready by opening day because he pitched all winter.

Joel Horlen, a 13-game winner as a rookie, shows great promise as does Bruce Howard. Johnny Buzhardt and probably John are the other starters.

Dave DeBusschere reported late after coaching the Detroit NBA team and will have to hustle to catch up. The bullpen is in good hands with the two knucklers, Hoyt Wilhelm and Eddie Fisher.

CUSTOMERS CONFUSED, HORSE EXASPERATED, RACE IS RERUN

Warwick, England (AP)—It was confusing to the customers, and exasperating to a 5-year-old race horse named Kohoja Hafiz.

Twenty-six horses lined up for the event, the starting tapes were yanked and the crowd yelled, "They're off!"

But only half of them were off. The other half fidgeted behind manually operated tapes that failed to go up. Britain doesn't have starting gates used in the United States.

A dozen of the horses bolted down the track. Two of them, Grey Jet and Jos threw their jockeys and then galloped back to the stables.

The others were pulled up after about a furlong—that is, all except Khoja Hafiz. Khoja kept going, proudly racing alone around the oval, and finally crossing the finish line amid cheers.

Khoja's jockey, David East, brought him back to the starting gate but the starter ruled he had run enough. He was withdrawn.

Finally, 17 minutes late, the race got off officially. It was won by a 100-8 long shot named Bright Counsel.

Capitol March Is Calm

. . . IN LINCOLN

By JOHN CERVENY
Star Staff Writer

Approximately 300 persons participated in an orderly civil rights demonstration at Nebraska's Capitol Thursday morning

The demonstration had a dual purpose, according to the Rev. Carroll Lemon, coordinator for the Governor's Commission on Human Rights. It was intended to express symbolic unity with the freedom marchers of Montgomery, Ala., and to dramatize racial problems to the senators of Nebraska.

Legislation supported by the demonstrators includes a fair housing bill, a fair employment practices act, and the setting up of a state civil rights commission. The Rev. Mr. Lemon stated that "what we want most of all is this fair housing bill—this is the worst form of discrimination in the state of Nebraska."

The fair housing bill, LB661, did not come before the Legislature Thursday.

Seven-Degree Weather

The demonstration began at 8 a.m. in seven-degree weather. Nebraskans from Blair, Crete, Lewiston, Columbus and Steinauer as well as Omaha and Lincoln took part in the one-hour march around the Capitol. At 9, the group moved into the Legislative gallery.

Sen. Edward Danner of Omaha introduced the group and said they were there not to exert pressure, but to express their concern.

Demonstrators were given instruction sheets regarding their conduct both outside and inside the Capitol. In spite of the size of the group, there was a minimum of disturbance during the legislative session.

From Selma

A bus load of demonstrators from Omaha included Father James Stewart and Father Gerald Burbac, both recently returned from Selma. Father Stewart said that basically there is no difference between the situation in Alabama, and the discrimination in Nebraska, at the present time.

The Rev. Mr Lemon said that he was very pleased with the turnout and he felt that the demonstrators were making many contacts.

Bill Giving Rail Unit Control Over Gas Utilities' Rates, Services Killed

By DON WALTON
Star Staff Writer

The Legislature's Public Works Committee Thursday killed a bill providing for State Railway Commission regulation of rates and services of gas utilities.

The measure, LB649, sponsored by Sen. Terry Carpenter of Scottsbluff, died on a 5-0 vote.

Carpenter's proposal had drawn heavy fire at its public hearing from Northern Natural Gas Co., Nebraska Natural Gas Co., the Metropolitan Utilities District, and the Cities of Lincoln, Hastings and Sidney.

Boost Levy

In other action, the committee heard and advanced to the floor on a 5-2 vote LB703, which would increase the maximum county levy for flood control from one-fourth to one-half mill.

The bill, signed by Sen. Dale Payne of Papillion, was supported by spokesman for the Papio Watershed Board and attracted no opposing testimony.

Heard and held for later action was LB823, proposing establishment of a basin authority for all major Nebraska water basins.

Such authorities would be responsible for comprehensive basin-wide flood control planning, and their boards would be armed with powers of eminent domain and taxing authority, not to exceed one-fourth mill.

The bill, espoused by Sen. Ross Rasmussen of Hooper, was opposed by spokesmen for the Nebraska Association of Soil and Water Conservation Districts, the Nebraska Farm Bureau Federation, individual watershed planning boards, and Lincoln's Citizens Rights Advisory Council.

Rasmussen received no supporting testimony.

The bill, he said, is needed in order "to tie basin projects together," reduce floods, and conserve oil and water.

Too Often

Too often, Rasmussen noted, there is no flood control action until the citizenry is spurred by loss of life and property.

Rasmussen suggested that taxing authority be increased to one-half mill, noting that "it will cost them more not to do something than to do it."

Opponents said LB823 takes away local self-government, control and initiative, and is too broad and far-reaching.

As a result of local action, six basin-wide investigations are now underway in the state, the committee was told. LB823 would ignore the existing local conservation agencies already at work on flood control, opponents said, and result in conflict and inefficiency.

Killed by the committee on a 7-0 vote, due to passage of a bill increasing the state gasoline tax, was LB378, authorizing a $5 county wheel tax.

Also axed on a 5-3 vote was LB565, broadening the exemption from certain motor vehicle fees of trucks used to haul material for irrigation districts, soil and water conservation districts and other political subdivisions.

Held For Later

Held for later action was LB707, reducing the fee for adding or deleting names on motor vehicle registration forms.

Advanced on unanimous votes:

Legislation Urged To End Cruel Child Beating

By JOHN DE CAMP
Star Staff Writer

More than two-hundred attorneys, law students and law instructors from a dozen states looked at the film of the beaten, bruised body of a six-year-old boy Thursday night and listened as a doctor told them about the "plight of the battered child."

Dr. Robert Gillespie, a surgical specialist nationally recognized as an expert on the subject of the battered child, and Richard Hansen, Lincoln attorney and author of the best-seller "The Year We Had No President," conducted the Battered Child Seminar for the 16th Annual 8th Circuit conference of the American Law Student Association which opened Thursday evening at the Nebraska Center.

Parents 'Mentally Ill'

"The parents who inflict these atrocities," Dr. Gillespie said, "are mentally ill. They have to be to do these things. Their children become frightened animals, fearful of anyone and anything—even those trying to help them."

"The parents who do these things give excuses for their action such as 'the child wet the bed,' or, 'he came in the house with muddy feet.' But these are the same things . . . children do every day. Yet we don't murder them for it."

The solution to the problem, Dr. Gillespie suggested, is in legislation—immediate legislation—by the State Ligislature. The Nebraska Medical Association in cooperation with members of the Nebraska Bar Association has worked to get legislation before the Legislature which would begin to solve the problem. This has resulted in LB444 which would do four things.

First, the bill would make it mandatory for anyone having knowledge of willfully inflicted injuries to children to report such injuries to the county attorney. Second, the bill gives immunity from prosecution for the person reporting the child abuse. Third, the bill would make it mandatory for the county attorney to investigate child battering reports and take necessary action on his findings.

Fourth, the bill sets up a penalty of a fine not exceeding one hundred dollars for anyone failing to report child battreing incidents. The bill carries the emergency clause.

"The two most important things in child battering cases are, first, that the incident be reported so that corrective measures can be taken. Second, the child must be taken away from his parents. For though their abuse may not kill the child the first, or second time, the child is almost always killed if he is returned to the parents for repeated abuse," Gillespie said.

British Boost Postage Rates

London (AP)—The British government announced Thursday an increase in postage rates to meet the rising costs of running the post office.

The minimum charge for letters inside Britain is raised from 3 pence (3.5 cents) to 4 pence (4 2/3 cents) but the maximum weight for this category is doubled from one to two ounces to offset part of the shock.

High School Grads 'More Serious' Now

High school graduates today are better prepared for college than ever before and college students are working harder and more seriously than ever, Chancellor Clifford Hardin told high school principals and guidance counselors meeting at the University of Nebraska

More than 200 representatives of the state's secondary schools were meeting at the University for the 11th Annual Principal - Freshmen conference.

The conference gives high school officials an opportunity to discuss the transition to college with graduates of their schools now enrolled as freshmen and to talk with university faculty members.

Morning discussions included special University programs such as the Career Scholar Program, Honors Placement, English, mathematics, languages and pre-professional training.

At a luncheon, Hardin said that in his view the majority of youth today want to get ahead and are serious in their work and study.

He said that the University is making every effort to provide an education for increasing numbers of young people who want to attend college In spite of recent growth, the University is maintaining close contact with individual students and intends to continue developing and strengthening undergraduate programs.

Vets Get Benefits

Moscow (AP)—The central committee of the Council of Ministers has approved a decree granting special benefits for invalids from World War II. Benefits starting May 1 include free rides on public transportation except taxis for those who have lost a limb, free home loans, discounts on medicine and priority on apartment rental waiting lists.

Tecumseh Firm Files Suit Against Nebraska Citians

Nebraska City (UPI)—The general contractor on the new Nebraska City Senior High School filed a suit in District Court against the school district of Nebraska City.

General Mechnical Contractors, Inc., Tecumseh, charged in the $10,500 suit that the district failed to uphold its part of a contract signed April 18, 1963, which gave the firm 15 months to build the new school at a total cost of $469,000.

The company alleged the district areed in the contract to "provide premises in a proper state of forwardness of accessibility." It said the district failed to provide the site in time and caused the contractor to incur an additional $29,721 in expenses.

Mayor Hopes Base Housing Goes To City

Mayor Dean Petersen said Thursday that he hopes for eventual city control of the Lincoln Air Force Base housing development.

Petersen said, "I have always thought that central control over base housing by some governmental agency is necessary to maintain decent standards."

No definite action has been taken by the city to acquire control of the area, he said, but the city has undertaken a preliminary investigation to find out the best possible use of base housing and the best means to control it.

The mayor said that the future use of housing units at the base could depend in a large part upon

ICC Decision Means Rate Savings For State Shippers

A recent Interstate Commerce Commission decision will mean substantial motor freight rate savings to Nebraska shippers

The decision cancelled rate and minimum charge increases put into effect in 1963 by Middlewest motor carriers. By a 10 to 1 action it ruled out the carriers' 50 cent increase per minimum charge and a five per cent increase in rates, ruling they were "neither justified nor reasonable."

The decision has an effect in a 25-state area extending from the Gulf of Mexico to the Canadian border and from Denver, Colo., to Pittsburgh, Pa. The decision becomes effective April 15

The action concludes 18 months of controversy including Nebraska shippers, the Lincoln Chamber of Commerce Freight rate division and the Nebraska Railway Commission.

John DuPont, Lincoln Chamber traffic director, said that an estimated $40 million collected in excessive rates would not be recoverable, but rate savings as a result of the decision could save as much as $1 million for Nebraska shippers in the future.

Joseph Brown of the State Railway Commission noted what he called the injustice of the no refund of improper charges and said that carriers other than motor carriers enjoy no such exemption.

The Lincoln Chamber of Commerce, principal pleader for the shippers and partner in the action announced the ICC decision in a special news conference.

Caddie Shoots 65 On Return

. . . USES ONLY 25 PUTTS

Wilmington, N.C. (AP) — Strapping Claude King of Virginia Beach, Va., returned to the course over which he caddied as a teen-ager in this city of his birth to shoot a seven-under par 65 Thursday and take the first round lead in the $28,750 Azalea Open Golf Tournament.

The 32-year-old King, a 207-pounder standing 6-foot-2, knocked in nine birdies as he jumped into a one-stroke lead.

King, in his fourth year on the professional tour, had a phenomenal putting day, using only 25 strokes on the greens of the 6,700-yard Cape Fear Country Club course. It tied the low figure for the year's PGA tour.

He played the back nine first and shot it in 33, finishing with a 60-foot putt on the 18th green. Then he moved to the first tee and after three pars, birdied five of the last six holes, the last four in a row.

"I never put the ball so consistently near the hole before," he said. Most of his birdies came on putts of eight feet or under as his approach shots were consistently on target.

On the 175-yard eighth hole, the next-to-last he played on his reversed round, the former East Carolina College football fullback, "came as close to a hole-in-one as I ever did in my life."

His No. 5 iron shot just missed the pin, stopping some six inches away.

Stuart, 30-year-old club pro who plays only the winter tour, also played the course in reverse order. On No. 8 he knocked in a 12-footer for a birdie and on No. 9, his final hole, he holed out from 175 yards with a No. 3 iron for an eagle two.

Host pro Hampton Auld, who dropped off the tour several years ago to take the Wilmington job, held third place alone at 67, with birdies on two of his last three holes. He also started his round on the 10th tee.

Five players tied for fourth place at 68, including Jacky Cupit who is hoping to earn his way into the Masters at Augusta, Ga., in two weeks with a good showing here.

In all, 38 men in the field of 146 broke par and 17 equalled it on a cloudy, humid day. The course played a bit on the long side as it slowly dried out following day-long showers Wednesday.

Divot-Diggers Accent Practical Attire

. . . A LOOK A 1965'S NEW GOLF GEAR

By STEVE SNIDER

New York (UPI)—What's new in golf gear for 1965?

Quality is the fresh note as the nation's manufacturers cater to the increasingly more sophisticated needs of eight million divot-diggers who'll shell out more than $150 millions on new equipment this year.

The accent is on superior weapons and fashionable, practical attire but there still are gadgets galore to delight the duffer with an insatiable desire to be first with the latest "stroke-savers."

The swing to quality—rather than extravagent promises—is noted most in the gold ball trade. There's a sudden dearth of balls with cores of some mysterious material guaranteed to get you in trouble with the U.S. Golf Association.

Club-makers generally stress balance, feel and top-grade construction in the mass field. There's an increase in custom-made clubs by artisans who tailor their sets to individual tastes.

Arnold Palmer is out with a copy of his "old putter," the PGA has a trouble-shooting club called "the scrambler," and there's an increase in offerings of pendulum or croquet-type putters popularized by Bob Duden.

In the clothing end, gloves are softer and lighter; waterproofing of shoes has been improved; one manufacturer is out with a super-light shoe for players who ride electric gold carts and don't need heavy walking footwear; raingear, including wrap-around skirts for the gals, is lighter and designed to be tossed into a washing machine.

Gadgets run from the usual rangefielders and plastic sleeves to keep the left arm stiff to new items like the gismo that shows whether an old ball still is round and playable or too beat up for anything but a whack off the practice tee.

One manufacturer offers an "outboard" motor so the player won't have to push or pull up all those hills. Another cart has compartments so clubs can be inserted head-down, promising better balance for the hauler. A collapsible one can be stored in a closet, clubs and all.

Gadget boxes on cart handles hold everything from scorecards, pencils, umbrellas and extra balls to cold beer, cosmetic kits and a bracket for the tired business man to clip in his lighted cigar while he's flailing away.

There are zippered "raincoats" to protect golf bags, indoor practice putting cups that will return a ball to the exact distance you're putting from, tees and on-the-green ball-markers with names imprinted, a practice "tee" with captive ball that records the distance of each shot.

A shoe attachment sets the right leg for the swing, a cup on the end of a putter shaft plucks the ball from the hole without forcing the player to stoop.

All this goes with a game that always remians the same—hitting the little white ball a considerable distance and eventually coaxing it into a little dark hole.

—COACHES RECRUIT NEGROES—

Color Barrier Being Broken

By Associated Press

Coach Lefty Driesell of Davidson and Coach Horace "Bones" McKinney of Wake Forest said Wednesday they are actively seeking Negro basketball players.

Driesell said he was interested in two players at the all-Negro Laurinburg Institute. Several players which posted a 22-1 record this season were guests of Driesell an all-star basketball game at the Charlotte Coliseum Tuesday.

Driesell said he is interested in Al Hayes, a 5-11 senior guard with a 17 point scoring average, and Charles Scott, a 6-5 junior forward with a 20 point average.

McKinney, who declined to name the Negro player he is seeking, identified him as the center on the Dodge City, Kan., Junior College team. The team won the national junior college championship in 1964 and finished fifth this year.

The center on that team is 6-4 Carl Head from Washington, D.C., who averaged 19 points a game in 1964 and was a junior college All-America selection the past two years.

There are no Negroes on any Atlantic Coast Conference basketball squads, although Negroes have participated in other sports.

There have been no Negroes on Southern Conference basketball varsity teams, although West Virginia has four on its freshmen basketball team. One, Ron Williams, is considered the best West Virginia prospect since Jerry West.

'Pokes, ISU Neck-And-Neck

Laramie, Wyo. (AP)—The two teams picked most likely to battle for the National Collegiate Athletic Association wrestling crown, Oklahoma State and Iowa State, were neck and neck through the first and part of the second round Thursday.

Defending champion Oklahoma State and Iowa State are two of the three biggest powers in the collegiate sport. Each had moved three men into the quarter-finals with second round victories Thursday night. The second round had not been completed.

At the end of the first round, the two teams were deadlocked for the lead, 7-7, with Michigan and Oklahoma in second place with six apiece, while a surprising Brigham Young team was fifth with four points.

Dennis Dutsch, 123-pounder, also advanced on a decision. Iowa State wrestlers advancing included Ernest Gillum, 115 pounds, 123-pound Roger Sebert, one of the pre-tourney favorites, and Ron Jones at 130.

Other defending champions coming through with first round victories included Oklahoma's Gary Sager at 137, who outpointed Joe Ganz of Michigan State 6-2, and Iowa State's Gordon Hassman, who made short work of Kurt Kuppinger of Syracuse, pinning him in 4:31 in the 157-pound division.

A VW has fewer parts than other cars because it needs fewer parts.
There's no bulky drive shaft to transfer engine power to the rear wheels. Our car's engine is in back to start with (and to maintain traction with). That's why it doesn't need a drive shaft.
And it doesn't need a radiator, or a water pump, or hoses. Because the engine's cooled with air, not water.
(When you drive your first VW, you may miss putting in antifreeze, rust inhibitors, and whatnot. But you'll soon get used to it.)
The stuff a Volkswagen doesn't use, it doesn't have to haul (and waste gas on). Which is one reason it averages 32 miles per gallon of regular.
And the parts you don't buy, you'll never repair. So you can't waste money on that.
Now you know why you can drive a VW for years and years with a lot of parts missing. And never miss them.

Union Pacific To Sell Half Of Rock Island

New York (AP) — The Union Pacific Railroad said Thursday it has agreed to sell the southern half of the Rock Island Railroad for $120 million, pending approval of a Union Pacific-Rock Island merger.

The proposed sale, to the Southern Pacific Railroad, would require approval of the Interstate Commerce Commission. The government agency also has yet to approve the prospective Union Pacific-Rock Island merger.

Southern Pacific had asked that approval of the merger be conditioned on a sale to it of almost half of the Rock Island lines.

The sale would bring to the Southern Pacific 2,462 miles of main line road and 1,063 miles of branch lines of the Rock Island from Kansas City, Mo., to the South and Southwest. This amounts to about half of the Rock Island's main line and 37% of the railroad's branch linees.

The Southern Pacific is the nation's second largest railroad, measured by mileage and revenue. It operates 11,549 miles of track, dominating Pacific Coast rail traffic.

Senate Confirms H. H. Fowler As Treasury Chief

Washington (UPI) — The Senate Thursday confirmed Henry H. Fowler to succeed C. Douglas Dillon as secretary of the treasury.

The appointment of the 56-year-old former undersecretary of the treasury was speedily and unanimously approved as the Senate's first order of business.

Fowler quit the No. 2 treasury post last April to return to private law practice only to be tapped for the top job last week.

President Johnson said Fowler would assume the secretary's duties as soon as he is sworn in. Dillon's official resignation is expected later this week.

Republican Named As Tie-Breaker On FCC

Washington (AP)— James J. Wadsworth, a big affable man was nominated by President Johnson Thursday to fill a 3-months-old vacancy on the Federal Communications Commission.

The 59-year-old Republican will join a group of commissioners whose often divergent views have resulted in some public verbal dueling and in several 3-3 tie votes since Frederick Ford resigned in December.

On the FCC, Wadsworth will be watched to see which way he leans in the policy split between the other six commissioners.

Three commissioners — Chairman E. William Henry, Robert E. Lee and Kenneth A. Cox — believe every station's commercial practices should be investigated when its license comes up for renewal every three years.

When renewal cases came up after Ford quit and the vote was a deadlock, the stations remained on the air, but their formal applications for renewal cannot be acted on until the tie-breaker is sworn in.

Block, Bridle Club Trip Will Cover 3 States

The students, majoring in animal science will be accompanied by faculty members from the animal science department. They will travel about 1,200 miles in four days through Nebraska, eastern Wyoming and northern Colorado returning to Lincoln April 24.

Much of the planning has been done by Frank Ramaekers of Monroe, tour chairman, assisted by faculty advisors Dr. D. C. Clanton and Dr. Dwane Zimmerman.

Included in the tour are stops at the Earl Monahan Ranch at Hyannis; the Fort Robinson Beef Research Station; the Wyoming Hereford Ranch and the Warren Livestock Company near Cheyenne, Wyo.; Colorado State University at Fort Collins; the Monfort Feedlots at Greeley, Colo.; the Milo Whitcomb Arena at Sterling, Colo.; the Bruce Snyder Ranch at Paxton and the Paul Pedersen farm in Cozad.

Reported Missing

U.A.R Gives U.S. Temple As 'Thanks'

Paris (UPI) — The United Arab Republic has given the United States a temple.

It is presently lying, carved into portable pieces, on an island in the Nile River, opposite Aswan. It is up to the United States to decide what to do with it.

The gift, made known Thursday by the U.N. Educational, Scientific and Cultural Organization (UNESCO) here, is a gesture of thanks to the United States for the $12 million it has given to the fund to save the Abu Simbel Temple and other ancient monuments from the rising waters of the Nile backed up behind the Aswan High Dam.

The relatively small temple of Augustine, which stood at Denur, was built around 16 B.C. by the Romans to honor two Roman heroes drowned in the Nile. Later it was used as a Christian chapel. The outside walls are carved with Egyptian-style bas reliefs of scenes of offering gifts.

U.S. permanent representative to UNESCO Robert H. B. Wade thanked the U.A.R. government on behalf of the United States for its gesture. He said final decision on its acceptance must come from Washington.

He added that as far as he knew, no decision had yet been taken on whether it would be accepted, and if so, what would be done with the temple. It is believed President Johnson may appoint an expert committee to decide.

Two G.I. Men Injured As Car, Snowplow Meet

Darr (UPI) — Two Grand Island men were injured when the car in which they were riding struck a State Highway Department dump truck-snowplow on Interstate 80 near the Darr interchange.

The accident occurred as the car was attempting to pass a truck and the driver of the car was blinded by blowing snow.

Sherman Pleads Guilty To Assault

Valentine (UPI) — William Sherman, 26, of Valentine, entered a plea of guilty to an assault and battery charge in Cherry County District Court.

2 City Council, School Board Races Loom

Holdrege (AP) — Although there are no special issues up for a vote in the municipal election here April 6, races are assured for two seats on the city council and two school board vacancies.

The two incumbent city councilmen, renominated at the city caucus, are Rueben Nelson, oil dealer, and J. W. Berry, insurance agent. Both are longtime council members. They will be opposed by Marvin Dannehl, hospital technician, and Dee Swanson, advertising salesman. Swanson failed in his bid for nomination at the caucus and gained a place on the ballot by petition.

Dr. Walter Reiner, president of the board of education and a member of the board for 15 years, and J. Rowland McClymont, board member nine years, who is a livestock grower, both declined to run again. Board candidates on the ballot will be Dr. Arden Means, dentist; A. W. Meyers, insurance agent; Glen Anderson, banker, and Willard Peterson, accountant.

Bellevue Advisory Fireworks Plan Placed On Ballot

Bellevue (AP)—There will be fireworks in Bellevue's city election April 6 but whether there will be fireworks in Bellevue may depend on the outcome.

An advisory proposal has been placed on the ballot seeking to repeal a 1963 ordinance legalizing the sale of fireworks, which state law classifies as legal. The decision of the voters is not binding on the City Council, but is regarded as a public opinion poll.

Aside from this issue and the fact Bellevue will be voting for the first time under a new redistricting plan, the election apears to have no unusual elements.

Bellevue will not elect a mayor this year, and only one incumbent councilman is seeking re-election — James G. Harvell in Ward 2.

Erosion Damage Heavy In Plains

The Agriculture Department reports that 50% more land was damaged Nov. 1, 1964, to March 1, 1965, than in the like period last year. The acreage damaged this season was reported at 3,142,000 compared with 2,097,000 a year earlier.

The winds were said to have destroyed thousands of acres of fall-sown winter wheat for this year's harvest. Greatest losses have been in Texas—1,864,000 acres compared with only 157,670 a year ago.

Land damaged in other states this season compared with last, respectively: Kansas 467,100 and 250,900; Oklahoma 152,450 and 50,000; New Mexico 105,800 and 14,600; Colorado 94,550 and 1,259,000; Wyoming 28,270 and 23,210; South Dakota 35,221 and 4,440; North Dakota 18,730 and 9,315; Nebraska 311,300 and 27,400; Montana 64,300 and 300,902.

Lagos, Nigeria (AP)—Cerebral meningitis has killed 51 or more people in northern Nigeria's Sokoto Emirate, health officials report. Since the outbreak two weeks ago there have been 441 reported cases.

Customs Proposal Submitted

Washington (UPI) — President Johnson formally asked Congress Thursday to reorganize the Customs Bureau. He said an "essential feature" was the abolition of patronage jobs.

The plan, originally announced by the White House on Sunday, was sent to Capitol Hill as a regular bill. In urging its approval, the President said:

"This reorganization plan will permit a needed modernization of the organization and procedure of the Bureau of Customs. It will permit a more effective administration of the customs laws."

The proposal calls for modernization of the bureau, which is under Treasury Department jurisdiction, by establishing six regional offices. There now are 113 independent field offices.

Discussing the abolition of jobs filled by the President, Johnson said "the program cannot be effectively carried out without this step."

Therefore, these offices which are filled by presidential appointment would be eliminated: collectors of customs, comptrollers of customs, surveyors of customs, and appraisers of merchandise. Under the program, all officials and employes of the bureau henceforth would come under civil service laws.

Johnson said the program, and "the tightened management controls achieved from these improvements," would make possible a net annual saving of $9 million within a few years.

Suit Questions Law Regulating Homes For Aged

Omaha (AP)—A suit was filed in District Court questioning the constitutionality of an ordinance passed by the Omaha City Council to regulate homes for the aged.

Seven operators of such homes filed the suit asking for a restraining order and permanent injunction to prevent the city from enforcing the ordinance which became effective Thursday.

The suit said the ordinance should be thrown out because it does not properly define what is prohibited, is vague and indefinite, is in excess of city powers, violates due process of law, and covers a subject which has been preempted by the Nebraska Legislature.

Affected by the ordinance are such places accommodating two or more persons who are not related to the operator. The health director is given broad authority to enforce sanitary and other requirements. The director is required to inspect each home at least once every six months.

Always Condemn Superior Arms, Newspaper Says

Madrid, Spain (AP) — Commenting on the stir aroused by the use of nonlethal gas in the U.S.-Vietnamese war against the Viet Cong, the Catholic newspaper Ya said Thursday:

"Every rival surprised by the employment of arms more effecitve than his own has down through history condemned their use and demanded their prohibition.

"The Latern Council 1179 condemned the use of the bow and cross-bow as excessively brutal, and Pope Innocent III prohibited in wars between Christians the use of all arms that launched projectiles.

Ya said the problem still remains to determine "whether those gases used were excessively harmful."

Ethiopia Closes Somalia Border

Addis Ababa, Ethiopia (AP)—Information Minister Menasse Haile Thursday told a news conference the border with the Somali republic has been closed as a reprisal for continued Somali propaganda against Ethiopia.

The step is expected to bring protests from Somali nomads, because the only water on the border is on Ethiopian territory. Ethiopian government officials are meeting with the Somali charge d'affaires here, seeking a way to decrease tension.

Tondi Leading Hanson Stable Back To Fonner

. . . OPENING SCHEDULED FOR TUESDAY

Grand Island — The first load of horses from the Hanson Stable of North Platte arrived in Grand Island Wednesday. Several more vans of horses will be arriving daily from Oaklawn Park over the next few days to bring the total stable to 20 head of thoroughbreds.

Tondi, Say Alibhai, Lori J., and Delinda's King, top performers, have made their mark in local and area racing over the past several years. Their return to action at Fonner Park will be looked forward to with a great deal of anticipation.

Tondi is a name in Nebraska racing synonymous with Kelso on the national scale. The black son of Spy Song has accounted for nearly every important stake at Fonner Park and Ak-Sar Ben over the past five years. These successes earned him nearly $100,000.

The Hanson stakes star failed to reach his best stride during the 1964 racing season and only earned $5,025, but the disappointment for his lack of success was lessened for trainer Larry Boyle with the showing of two young horses—Say Alibhai and Delinda's King.

Say Alibhai's winning ways went uninterrupted until several months later in Detroit after he had scored six straight victories. He was injured in his losing effort and did not see action again until this spring at Oaklawn Park. The long list of wins earned him $23,486.

The strength in the stable seems to still lay in the youngsters in the extensive stable. Tenni, Lincoln County, Delinda's King, and Bobbin's Baby have all been consistent performers at Oaklawn Park this winter.

Tenni was the first of the Hanson Stable to win this spring at Oaklawn. She won the initial start of her career by five lengths. The speedy miss has since been second on two occasions against feature race three-year-old.

Lincoln County and Bobbin's Baby have both been good enough to score wins against two-year-old competition in Hot Springs. Bobbin's Baby won as recently as last Monday.

Jockey L. C. Peck is expected to make the trek north with the Hanson Stable since he has been doing the bulk of their riding at Oaklawn. Peck has been the second leading rider in Grand Island the past two years.

Bill Opening More Private Land Passes

A bill designed to open more private lands to hunting and fishing was advanced to the floor by the Legislature's Agriculture and Recreation Committee Thursday.

The measure, LB280, adopts a model litbility relief law which would reduce the liability of landowners who open their property for public hunting and fishing purposes.

LB279—Increasing penalties for hunting, fishing and trapping violations.

All the measures, introduced by the Agriculture and Recreation Committee at the request of the State Game Commission, were not opposed at a public hearing.

Papik Fields 32 Doane Trackmen

Crete (UPI)—Head coach Al Papik announced that he has a squad of 32-members on his 1965 Doane College track team.

Workouts are being conducted both indoors and outdoors under the tutelage of Papik and Fred Beile, assistant track coach and director of physical education.

76ers, Bullets Hold Playoff Edge

By The Associated Press

After winning the openers on enemy courts, the Philadelphia 76ers and Baltimore Bullets have the definite edge in the divisional semifinals of the National Basketball Association playoffs.

Philadelphia beat the Royals at Cincinnati 119-117 in overtime Wednesday night while the Bullets trimmed the Hawks at St. Louis 108-105. The best-of-five game series resume Friday night at Philadelphia and Baltimore.

The Eastern series is highlighted by a negative angle-two sub-par superstars. NBA scoring champion Wilt Chamberlain of the 76ers is suffering from a recurrence of stomach trouble and the versatile Oscar Robertson of Cincinnati is hampered by an injured left foot. Both were obviously bothered by their ailments in the opening game, each scoring some 10 points under his average.

The Bullets, off their upset at St. Louis, now claim the favorite's role in the Western series—at least psychologically, according to Coach Buddy Jeannette. They had balanced scoring by their first five, getting 103 of their 108 points from the starters.

Awaiting the winners of the division semifinals are the mighty Boston Celtics, who finished first in the East for the ninth straight time and are after their seventh straight NBA title, and the Los Angeles Lakers, first-place team in the West.

Modest Rally Try Fails In Stock Market

New York (AP) — The stock market tried but failed Thursday to carry out a modest rally begun in the previous session. The list ended with an irregular loss, as it has so many times in the past couple of weeks.

Steels and selected issues showed strength in early trading and it looked as if the market was going to try to pull itself out of the doldrums. Gains were trimmed, however, and by the close more stocks showed losses than gains. The popular market averages were lower.

Volume was 5.41 million shares compared with 5.42 million Wednesday.

Of 1,387 issues traded, 597 fell and 482 rose. New highs for the year totaled 102 and new lows 10.

When prices were at their best, the Dow Jones industrial average showed a gain of 1.42. This was at the end of the first half hour. Thereafter the gains eroded, with no special selling emphasis.

Early strength in the steels was linked to record auto sales in mid-March for the steel industry's best customer and also to hope that a steel strike could be averted, analysts said.

Despite the ragged condition of the overall list, eight of the 15 most active stocks rose, with five lower and two unchanged.

Olin Mathieson was the most active stock, up 1¾ at 48¾ on 95,200 shares.

Prices were mixed on the American Stock Exchange. Volume was 2.03 million shares compared with 1.9 million Wednesday. Syntex lost 1¼. Fractional gains were made by Seaboard World Airlines, Dixilyn and Republic Industries.

Corporate bonds were mixed. U.S. government bonds were mostly lower.

Capitol March Is Calm

. . . IN LINCOLN

By JOHN CERVENY
Star Staff Writer

Approximately 300 persons participated in an orderly civil rights demonstration at Nebraska's Capitol Thursday morning.

The demonstration had a dual purpose, according to the Rev. Carroll Lemon, coordinator for the Governor's Commission on Human Rights. It was intended to express symbolic unity with the freedom marchers of Montgomery, Ala., and to dramatize racial problems to the senators of Nebraska.

Legislation supported by the demonstrators includes a fair housing bill, a fair employment practices act, and the setting up of a state civil rights commission. The Rev. Mr. Lemon stated that "what we want most of all is this fair housing bill—this is the worst form of discrimination in the state of Nebraska."

The fair housing bill, LB661, did not come before the Legislature Thursday.

Seven-Degree Weather

The demonstration began at 8 a.m. in seven-degree weather. Nebraskans from Blair, Crete, Lewiston, Columbus and Steinauer as well as Omaha and Lincoln took part in the one-hour march around the Capitol. At 9, the group moved into the Legislative gallery.

Sen. Edward Danner of Omaha introduced the group and said they were there not to exert pressure, but to express their concern.

Demonstrators were given instruction sheets regarding their conduct both outside and inside the Capitol. In spite of the size of the group, there was a minimum of disturbance during the legislative session.

From Selma

A bus load of demonstrators from Omaha included Father James Stewart and Father Gerald Burbac, both recently returned from Selma. Father Stewart said that basically there is no difference between the situation in Alabama, and the discrimination in Nebraska, at the present time.

The Rev. Mr Lemon said that he was very pleased with the turnout and he felt that the demonstrators were making many contacts.

Bill Giving Rail Unit Control Over Gas Utilities' Rates, Services Killed

By DON WALTON
Star Staff Writer

The Legislature's Public Works Committee Thursday killed a bill providing for State Railway Commission regulation of rates and services of gas utilities.

The measure, LB649, sponsored by Sen. Terry Carpenter of Scottsbluff, died on a 5-0 vote.

Carpenter's proposal had drawn heavy fire at its public hearing from Northern Natural Gas Co., Nebraska Natural Gas Co., the Metropolitan Utilities District, and the Cities of Lincoln, Hastings and Sidney.

Boost Levy

In other action, the committee heard and advanced to the floor on a 5-2 vote LB703, which would increase the maximum county levy for flood control from one-fourth to one-half mill.

The bill, signed by Sen. Dale Payne of Papillion, was supported by spokesman for the Papio Watershed Board and attracted no opposing testimony.

Heard and held for later action was LB823, proposing establishment of a basin authority for all major Nebraska water basins.

Such authorities would be responsible for comprehensive basin-wide flood control planning, and their boards would be armed with powers of eminent domain and taxing authority, not to exceed one-fourth mill.

The bill, espoused by Sen. Ross Rasmussen of Hooper, was opposed by spokesmen for the Nebraska Association of Soil and Water Conservation Districts, the Nebraska Farm Bureau Federation, individual watershed planning boards, and Lincoln's Citizens Rights Advisory Council.

Rasmussen received no supporting testimony.

The bill, he said, is needed in order "to tie basin projects together," reduce floods, and conserve oil and water.

Too Often

Too often, Rasmussen noted, there is no flood control action until the citizenry is spurred by loss of life and property.

Rasmussen suggested that taxing authority be increased to one-half mill, noting that "it will cost them more not to do something than to do it."

Opponents said LB823 takes away local self-government, control and initiative, and is too broad and far-reaching.

As a result of local action, six basin-wide investigations are now underway in the state, the committee was told. LB823 would ignore the existing local conservation agencies already at work on flood control, opponents said, and result in conflict and inefficiency.

Killed by the committee on a 7-0 vote, due to passage of a bill increasing the state gasoline tax, was LB378, authorizing a $5 county wheel tax.

Also axed on a 5-3 vote was LB565, broadening the exemption from certain motor vehicle fees of trucks used to haul material for irrigation districts, soil and water conservation districts and other political subdivisions.

Held For Later

Held for later action was LB707, reducing the fee for adding or deleting names on motor vehicle registration forms.

Advanced on unanimous votes:

High School Grads 'More Serious' Now

High school graduates today are better prepared for college than ever before and college students are working harder and more seriously than ever, Chancellor Clifford Hardin told high school principals and guidance counselors meeting at the University of Nebraska.

More than 200 representatives of the state's secondary schools were meeting at the University for the 11th Annual Principal - Freshmen conference.

The conference gives high school officials an opportunity to discuss the transition to college with graduates of their schools now enrolled as freshmen and to talk with university faculty members.

Morning discussions included special University programs such as the Career Scholar Program, Honors Placement, English, mathematics, languages and pre-professional training.

At a luncheon, Hardin said that in his view the majority of youth today want to get ahead and are serious in their work and study.

He said that the University is making every effort to provide an education for increasing numbers of young people who want to attend college. In spite of recent growth, the University is maintaining close contact with individual students and intends to continue developing and strengthening undergraduate programs.

Vets Get Benefits

Moscow (AP)—The central committee of the Council of Ministers has approved a decree granting special benefits for invalids from World War II. Benefits starting May 1 include free rides on public transportation except taxis for those who have lost a limb, free home loans, discounts on medicine, and priority on apartment rental waiting lists.

Tecumseh Firm Files Suit Against Nebraska Citians

Nebraska City (UPI)—The general contractor on the new Nebraska City Senior High School filed a suit in District Court against the school district of Nebraska City.

General Mechnical Contractors, Inc., Tecumseh, charged in the $10,500 suit that the district failed to uphold its part of a contract signed April 18, 1963, which gave the firm 15 months to build the new school at a total cost of $469,000.

The company alleged the district areed in the contract to "provide premises in a proper state of forwardness of accessibility." It said the district failed to provide the site in time and caused the contractor to incur an additional $29,721 in expenses.

Mayor Hopes Base Housing Goes To City

Mayor Dean Petersen said Thursday that he hopes for eventual city control of the Lincoln Air Force Base housing development.

Petersen said, "I have always thought that central control over base housing by some governmental agency is necessary to maintain decent standards."

No definite action has been taken by the city to acquire control of the area, he said, but the city has undertaken a preliminary investigation to find out the best possible use of base housing and the best means to control it.

The mayor said that the future use of housing units at the base could depend in a large part upon:

ICC Decision Means Rate Savings For State Shippers

The decision cancelled rate and minimum charge increases put into effect in 1963 by Middlewest motor carriers. By a 10 to 1 action it ruled out the carriers' 50 cent increase per minimum charge and a five per cent increase in rates, ruling they were "neither justified nor reasonable."

The decision has an effect in a 25-state area extending from the Gulf of Mexico to the Canadian border and from Denver, Colo., to Pittsburgh, Pa. The decision becomes effective April 15.

The action concludes 18 months of controversy including Nebraska shippers, the Lincoln Chamber of Commerce Freight rate division and the Nebraska Railway Commission.

John DuPont, Lincoln Chamber traffic director, said that an estimated $40 million collected in excessive rates would not be recoverable, but rate savings as a result of the decision could save as much as $1 million for Nebraska shippers in the future.

Joseph Brown of the State Railway Commission noted what he called the injustice of the no refund of improper charges and said that carriers other than motor carriers enjoy no such exemption.

The Lincoln Chamber of Commerce, principal pleader for the shippers and partner in the action, announced the ICC decision in a special news conference.

Legislation Urged To End Cruel Child Beating

By JOHN DE CAMP

More than two-hundred attorneys, law students and law instructors from a dozen states looked at the film of the beaten, bruised body of a six-year-old boy Thursday night and listened as a doctor told them about the "plight of the battered child."

Dr. Robert Gillespie, a surgical specialist nationally recognized as an expert on the subject of the battered child, and Richard Hansen, Lincoln attorney and author of the best-seller "The Year We Had No President," conducted the Battered Child Seminar for the 16th Annual 8th Circuit conference of the American Law Student Association which opened Thursday evening at the Nebraska Center.

Parents 'Mentally Ill'

"The parents who inflict these atrocities," Dr. Gillespie said, "are mentally ill. They have to be to do these things. Their children become frightened animals, fearful of anyone and anything—even those trying to help them."

"The parents who do these things give excuses for their action such as 'the child wet the bed,' or, 'he came in the house with muddy feet.' But these are the same things . . . children do every day. Yet we don't murder them for it."

The solution to the problem, Dr. Gillespie suggested, is in legislation—immediate legislation—by the State Ligislature. The Nebraska Medical Association in cooperation with members of the Nebraska Bar Association has worked to get legislation before the Legislature which would begin to solve the problem. This has resulted in LB444 which would do four things.

First, the bill would make it mandatory for anyone having knowledge of willfully inflicted injuries to children to report such injuries to the county attorney. Second, the bill gives immunity from prosecution for the person reporting the child abuse. Third, the bill would make it mandatory for the county attorney to investigate child battering reports and take necessary action on his findings.

Fourth, the bill sets up a penalty of a fine not exceeding one hundred dollars for anyone failing to report child battreing incidents. The bill carries the emergency clause.

"The two most important things in child battering cases are, first, that the incident be reported so that corrective measures can be taken. Second, the child must be taken away from his parents. For though their abuse may not kill the child the first, or second time, the child is almost always killed if he is returned to the parents for repeated abuse," Gillespie said.

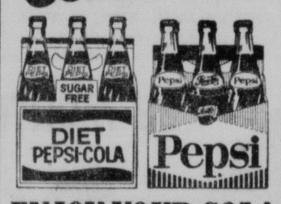

British Boost Postage Rates

London (AP)—The British government announced Thursday an increase in postage rates to meet the rising costs of running the post office.

The minimum charge for letters inside Britain is raised from 3 pence (3.5 cents) to 4 pence (42/3 cents) but the maximum weight for this category is doubled from one to two ounces to offset part of the shock.

Verwoerd, Apartheid Win Spectacular Vote

Johannesburg (UPI)—South Africa's white voters gave a massive vote of confidence Thursday to Premier Hendrik Verwoerd and his racial segregationist policy of apartheid.

For the first time, Verwoerd's Nationalist Party appeared to win a beachhead among English-speaking whites, who traditionally have been hostile to the Premier's Afrikaans-speaking followers.

Verwoerd hailed election results as "a glorious victory in the cause of unity and white survival."

Credits English

He told parliament in Cape Town that the elections had shown that English-speaking voters were rallying behind the Nationalist government and it was largely due to this that the government was able to strengthen its position.

He said that attacks and threats to South Africa and the white man's future from outside had caused this development more than anything else.

"Together we can solve our problems, racial and economic, in our own way," he added.

Lost Interest

Results of Wednesday's polling in provincial elections showed the white electorate had swung solidly behind Verwoerd's Nationalist Party. The voters lost interest in the more moderate opposition United Party and all but abandoned the multi-racialist Progressive Party.

Verwoerd's Nationalists won eight seats from the United Party. Throughout the country United Party candidates who were returned had their majorities slashed — sometimes by thousands of votes.

Martell's P.O. To Remain Open

Washington — Rep. Clair A. Callan, D-Neb., announced Thursday afternoon that the Post Office at Martell, Neb. which was scheduled to be closed on Friday, will remain open.

The congressman said that his office had discussed the closing directly with Postmaster General John Gronouski. Gronouski informed Rep. Callan late Thursday afternoon that the decision to close the Martell facility had been reversed and postal service will continue as usual.

Union Pacific To Sell Half Of Rock Island

New York (AP) — The Union Pacific Railroad said Thursday it has agreed to sell the southern half of the Rock Island Railroad for $120 million, pending approval of a Union Pacific-Rock Island merger.

The proposed sale, to the Southern Pacific Railroad, would require approval of the Interstate Commerce Commission. The government agency also has yet to approve the prospective Union Pacific-Rock Island merger.

Southern Pacific had asked that approval of the merger be conditioned on a sale to it of almost half of the Rock Island lines.

The sale would bring to the Southern Pacific 2,462 miles of main line road and 1,063 miles of branch lines of the Rock Island from Kansas City, Mo., to the South and Southwest. This amounts to about half of the Rock Island's main line and 37% of the railroad's branch linees.

The Southern Pacific is the nation's second largest railroad, measured by mileage and revenue. It operates 11,549 miles of track, dominating Pacific Coast rail traffic.

'Stalin Group' Started Opposing Italian Reds

Florence, Italy (AP)—Leaflets scattered this week, claim a "Stalin group" has been set up in Florence as part of a pro-Chinese "Communist Youth League" having headquarters in Milan.

Senate Confirms H. H. Fowler As Treasury Chief

Washington (UPI) — The Senate Thursday confirmed Henry H. Fowler to succeed C. Douglas Dillon as secretary of the treasury.

The appointment of the 56-year-old former undersecretary of the treasury was speedily and unanimously approved as the Senate's first order of business.

Fowler quit the No. 2 treasury post last April to return to private law practice only to be tapped for the top job last week.

President Johnson said Fowler would assume the secretary's duties as soon as he is sworn in. Dillon's official resignation is expected later this week.

LITTLE GIRL IN STICKY SITUATION

Eight-year-old Katherine Snyder of Massena, N.Y., found herself in a sticky situation after climbing into an old oil can while playing. At left, Kathy registers dismay as Massena Rescue Squad men size up the situation, then carry her to a waiting ambulance, center, to take her to a hospital. There, right, a nurse lubricated the inside of the can with lard to get Kathy out of the can.

Republican Named As Tie-Breaker On FCC

Washington (AP)— James J. Wadsworth, a big affable man was nominated by President Johnson Thursday to fill a 3-months-old vacancy on the Federal Communications Commission.

The 59-year-old Republican will join a group of commissioners whose often divergent views have resulted in some public verbal dueling and in several 3-3 tie votes since Frederick Ford resigned in December.

On the FCC, Wadsworth will be watched to see which way he leans in the policy split between the other six commissioners.

Three commissioners — Chairman E. William Henry, Robert E. Lee and Kenneth A. Cox — believe every station's commercial practices should be investigated when its license comes up for renewal every three years.

When renewal cases came up after Ford quit and the vote was a deadlock, the stations remained on the air, but their formal applications for renewal cannot be acted on until the tie-breaker is sworn in.

U.A.R Gives U.S. Temple As 'Thanks'

Paris (UPI) — The United Arab Republic has given the United States a temple.

It is presently lying, carved into portable pieces, on an island in the Nile River, opposite Aswan. It is up to the United States to decide what to do with it.

The gift, made known Thursday by the U.N. Educational, Scientific and Cultural Organization (UNESCO) here, is a gesture of thanks to the United States for the $12 million it has given to the fund to save the Abu Simbel Temple and other ancient monuments from the rising waters of the Nile backed up behind the Aswan High Dam.

The relatively small temple of Augustine, which stood at Denur, was built around 16 B.C. by the Romans to honor two Roman heroes drowned in the Nile. Later it was used as a Christian chapel. The outside walls are carved with Egyptian-style bas reliefs of scenes of offering gifts.

U.S. permanent representative to UNESCO Robert H. B. Wade thanked the U.A.R. government on behalf of the United States for its gesture. He said final decision on its acceptance must come from Washington.

He added that as far as he knew, no decision had yet been taken on whether it would be accepted, and if so, what would be done with the temple. It is believed President Johnson may appoint an expert committee to decide.

2 City Council, School Board Races Loom

Holdrege (AP) — Although there are no special issues up for a vote in the municipal election here April 6, races are assured for two seats on the city council and two school board vacancies.

The two incumbent city councilmen, renominated at the city caucus, are Rueben Nelson, oil dealer, and J. W. Berry, insurance agent. Both are longtime council members. They will be opposed by Marvin Dannehl, hospital technician, and Dee Swanson, advertising salesman. Swanson failed in his bid for nomination at the caucus and gained a place on the ballot by petition.

Dr. Walter Reiner, president of the board of education and a member of the board for 15 years, and J. Rowland McClymont, board member nine years, who is a livestock grower, both declined to run again. Board candidates on the ballot will be Dr. Arden Means, dentist; A. W. Meyers, insurance agent; Glen Anderson, banker, and Willard Peterson, accountant.

Block, Bridle Club Trip Will Cover 3 States

Approximately 30 University of Nebraska Block and Bridle Club members will leave April 21 on a three-state livestock tour.

The students, majoring in animal science will be accompanied by faculty members from the animal science department. They will travel about 1,200 miles in four days through Nebraska, eastern Wyoming and northern Colorado returning to Lincoln April 24.

The tour is conducted annually during the NU Easter vacation to acquaint students with diverse livestock raising and feeding operations, livestock research facilities and agribusinesses associated with the livestock industry.

Much of the planning has been done by Frank Ramaekers of Monroe, tour chairman, assisted by faculty advisors Dr. D. C. Clanton and Dr. Dwane Zimmerman.

Included in the tour are stops at the Earl Monahan Ranch at Hyannis; the Fort Robinson Beef Research Station; the Wyoming Hereford Ranch and the Warren Livestock Company near Cheyenne, Wyo.; Colorado State University at Fort Collins; the Monfort Feedlots at Greeley, Colo.; the Milo Whitcomb Arena at Sterling, Colo.; the Bruce Snyder Ranch at Paxton and the Paul Pedersen farm in Cozad.

CNUCC Elects Johnson As Head

He succeeds Max Brown of Lexington.

Elected vice president was Frank Hladky of Eddyville. The new treasurer is Robert Creighton of Overton.

At the organization's meeting this week, a constitution was adopted and bylaws approved. It was decided to meet every other month.

The next meeting will be May 18 at Sumner.

The organization includes the communities of Gothenburg, Cozad, Lexington, Overton, Elm Creek, Eddyville and Sumner.

Reported Missing

Two G.I. Men Injured As Car, Snowplow Meet

Darr (UPI) — Two Grand Island men were injured when the car in which they were riding struck a State Highway Department dump truck-snowplow on Interstate 80 near the Darr interchange.

The accident occurred as the car was attempting to pass a truck and the driver of the car was blinded by blowing snow.

Jerry Greenwood, driver of the car, was hospitalized at Cozad with multiple lacerations and broken ribs. A passenger, LaVerne Lewandowski, suffered a broken jaw, multiple fractures and severe lacerations. He was first hospitalized at Cozad, but later transferred to a Grand Island hospital.

Sherman Pleads Guilty To Assault

Valentine (UPI) — William Sherman, 26, of Valentine, entered a plea of guilty to an assault and battery charge in Cherry County District Court.

The charge originally had been manslaughter, but was reduced.

Bellevue Advisory Fireworks Plan Placed On Ballot

Bellevue (AP)—There will be fireworks in Bellevue's city election April 6 but whether there will be fireworks in Bellevue may depend on the outcome.

An advisory proposal has been placed on the ballot seeking to repeal a 1963 ordinance legalizing the sale of fireworks, which state law classifies as legal. The decision of the voters is not binding on the City Council, but is regarded as a public opinion poll.

Aside from this issue and the fact Bellevue will be voting for the first time under a new redistricting plan, the election apears to have no unusual elements.

Bellevue will not elect a mayor this year, and only one incumbent councilman is seeking re-election — James G. Harvell in Ward 2.

Erosion Damage Heavy In Plains

The Agriculture Department reports that 50% more land was damaged Nov. 1, 1964, to March 1, 1965, than in the like period last year. The acreage damaged this season was reported at 3,142,000 compared with 2,097,000 a year earlier.

The winds were said to have destroyed thousands of acres of fall-sown winter wheat for this year's harvest. Greatest losses have been in Texas—1,864,000 acres compared with only 157,670 a year ago.

Land damaged in other states this season compared with last, respectively: Kansas 467,100 and 250,900; Oklahoma 152,450 and 50,000; New Mexico 105,800 and 14,600; Colorado 94,550 and 1,259,000; Wyoming 28,270 and 23,210; South Dakota 35,221 and 4,440; North Dakota 18,730 and 9,315; Nebraska 311,300 and 27,400; Montana 64,300 and 300,902.

Meningitis Kills 51

Lagos, Nigeria (AP)—Cerebral meningitis has killed 51 or more people in northern Nigeria's Sokoto Emirate, health officials report. Since the outbreak two weeks ago there have been 441 reported cases.

Customs Proposal Submitted

Washington (UPI) — President Johnson formally asked Congress Thursday to reorganize the Customs Bureau. He said an "essential feature" was the abolition of patronage jobs.

The plan, originally announced by the White House on Sunday, was sent to Capitol Hill as a regular bill. In urging its approval, the President said:

"This reorganization plan will permit a needed modernization of the organization and procedure of the Bureau of Customs. It will permit a more effective administration of the customs laws."

The proposal calls for modernization of the bureau, which is under Treasury Department jurisdiction, by establishing six regional offices. There now are 113 independent field offices.

Discussing the abolition of jobs filled by the President, Johnson said "the program cannot be effectively carried out without this step."

Therefore, these offices which are filled by presidential appointment would be eliminated: collectors of customs, comptrollers of customs, surveyors of customs, and appraisers of merchandise. Under the program, all officials and employes of the bureau henceforth would come under civil service laws.

Johnson said the program, and "the tightened management controls achieved from these improvements," would make possible a net annual saving of $9 million within a few years.

Suit Questions Law Regulating Homes For Aged

Omaha (AP)—A suit was filed in District Court questioning the constitutionality of an ordinance passed by the Omaha City Council to regulate homes for the aged.

Seven operators of such homes filed the suit asking for a restraining order and permanent injunction to prevent the city from enforcing the ordinance which became effective Thursday.

The suit said the ordinance should be thrown out because it: does not properly define what is prohibited, is vague and indefinite, is in excess of city powers, violates due process of law, and covers a subject which has been preempted by the Nebraska Legislature.

Affected by the ordinance are such places accommodating two or more persons who are not related to the operator. The health director is given broad authority to enforce sanitary and other requirements. The director is required to inspect each home at least once every six months.

Always Condemn Superior Arms, Newspaper Says

Madrid, Spain (AP) — Commenting on the stir aroused by the use of nonlethal gas in the U.S.-Vietnamese war against the Viet Cong, the Catholic newspaper Ya said Thursday:

"Every rival surprised by the employment of arms more effecitve than his own has down through history condemned their use and demanded their prohibition.

"The Latern Council 1179 condemned the use of the bow and cross-bow as excessively brutal, and Pope Innocent III prohibited in wars between Christians the use of all arms that launched projectiles.

When firearms threatened to end the value of mounted soldiers (Miguel) Cervantes put into the mouth of Don Quiote a statement against them."

Ya said the problem still remains to determine "whether those gases used were excessively harmful."

Ethiopia Closes Somalia Border

Addis Ababa, Ethiopia (AP)—Information Minister Menasse Haile Thursday told a news conference the border with the Somali republic has been closed as a reprisal for continued Somali propaganda against Ethiopia.

The step is expected to bring protests from Somali nomads, because the only water on the border is on Ethiopian territory. Ethiopian government officials are meeting with the Somali charge d'affaires here, seeking a way to decrease tension.

Modest Rally Try Fails In Stock Market

New York (AP) — The stock market tried but failed Thursday to carry out a modest rally begun in the previous session. The list ended with an irregular loss, as it has so many times in the past couple of weeks.

Steels and selectced issues showed strength in early trading and it looked as if the market was going to try to pull itself out of the doldrums. Gains were trimmed, however, and by the close more stocks showed losses than gains. The popular market averages were lower.

Volume was 5.41 million shares compared with 5.42 million Wednesday.

Of 1,387 issues traded, 597 fell and 482 rose. New highs for the year totaled 102 and new lows 10.

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks declined .4 to 336.0 with industrials off .9, rails up .1 to a new high for the year and utilities off .1.

When prices were at their best, the Dow Jones industrial average showed a gain of 1.42. This was at the end of the first half hour. Thereafter the gains eroded, with no special selling emphasis.

Early strength in the steels was linked to record auto sales in mid-March for the steel industry's best customer and also to hope that a steel strike could be averted, analysts said.

Despite the ragged condition of the overall list, eight of the 15 most active stocks rose, with five lower and two unchanged.

Olin Mathieson was the most active stock, up 1¾ at 48¼ on 95-200 shares.

Prices were mixed on the American Stock Exchange. Volume was 2.03 million shares compared with 1.9 million Wednesday. Syntex lost 1¼. Fractional gains were made by Seaboard World Airlines, Dixilyn and Republic Industries.

Corporate bonds were mixed. U.S. government bonds were mostly lower.

Verwoerd, Apartheid Win Spectacular Vote

Johannesburg (UPI)—South Africa's white voters gave a massive vote of confidence Thursday to Premier Hendrik Verwoerd and his racial segregationist policy of apartheid.

For the first time, Verwoerd's Nationalist Party appeared to win a beachhead among English-speaking whites, who traditionally have been hostile to the Premier's Afrikaans-speaking followers.

Credits English

He told parliament in Cape Town that the elections had shown that English-speaking voters were rallying behind the Nationalist government and it was largely due to this that the government was able to strengthen its position.

He said that attacks and threats to South Africa and the white man's future from outside had caused this development more than anything else.

"Together we can solve our problems, racial and economic, in our own way," he added.

Lost Interest

Results of Wednesday's polling in provincial elections showed the white electorate had swung solidly behind Verwoerd's Nationalist Party. The voters lost interest in the more moderate opposition United Party and all but abandoned the multi-racialist Progressive Party.

Verwoerd's Nationalists won eight seats from the United Party. Throughout the country United Party candidates who were returned had their majorities slashed — sometimes by thousands of votes.

The Progressive Party, vying for 12 seats, was beaten in them all.

Martell's P.O. To Remain Open

Washington — Rep. Clair A. Callan, D-Neb., announced Thursday afternoon that the Post Office at Martell, Neb. which was scheduled to be closed on Friday, will remain open.

The congressman said that his office had discussed the closing directly with Postmaster General John Gronouski. Gronouski informed Rep. Callan late Thursday afternoon that the decision to close the Martell facility had been reversed and postal service will continue as usual.

This fine 1964 Chevrolet Biscayne is a 4-door sedan and has a standard shift transmission, with an economy six. It has had one owner only and the extra cost all vinyl interior is same as new. Radio and all.

1963 Thunderbird .. $2595

Ford's finest effort is this beautiful car. It was preowned by a local Lincoln officer who drove it a careful 20,103 miles and traded it for another new Thunderbird. This has just got to be the cleanest, low mileage Thunderbird in town

1962 Ford $1095

1962 Dodge $795

Buy this big Dodge 4-door sedan and save money on your purchase. It has a gleaming White finish and medium Blue interior. This fine car has a small V8 with standard shift and radio too.

1962 Mercury $1095

1961 Ford $745

Big family sized fordor sedan with V8 and Fordomatic transmission. It has the big radio and fresh air heater. Buy this at the "low overhead" price of only $745.

1960 Peugeot $395

Say, Pooh-Jo. The French made it well, the driver kept it good, and we'll sell it right. The Ramorjamsky Green finish shines and so will you as you park it in your drive.

1960 Plymouth $495

1959 Ford $245

Owned by a large group of people (State of Nebraska) and driven an awful lot—107,000—miles but—it was well maintained, is V8 and does have an overdrive. If you are short of grocery money, loan value is $270.

1959 Chevrolet $795

Come one, come all and see a beauty. We will show you by far the cleanest 6 year old Chevy around. It is an Impala 4-door sedan with V8, Powerglide, radio and a sharp two tone finish. Drive it and you'll buy it.

1957 Chevrolet $795

1956 Cadillac $395

Some call these the "Epitamy of Luxury", others "the Shining Knight of the open road" but we call it a heck of a lot of car for the money. It's a hardtop, it has power, it is air conditioned and it runs good. See it.

1942 Buick $1495

Immaculate 4-door sedan with only 14,000 miles. It is finished in two tone, dark green and darker green.

These automobiles are on hand and on display. They are not an advertised "come-on." They can be purchased for the list price and no hidden downpayments are needed. No salesmanager is going to be turning down the deal and then ask for additional money. Come buy a good car at a fair price. Always . . .

This fine 1964 Chevrolet Biscayne is a 4-door sedan and has a standard shift transmission, with an economy six. It has had one owner only and the extra cost all vinyl interior is same as new. Radio and all.

1963 Thunderbird .. $2595
Ford's finest effort is this beautiful car. It was preowned by a local Lincoln officer who drove it a careful 20,103 miles and traded it for another new Thunderbird. This has just got to be the cleanest, low mileage Thunderbird in town.

1962 Ford $1095
Country sedan Station Wagon. 6 passenger with 292 inch V8 with thrifty 2-barrel carburetor and automatic transmission. This wagon was not owned by a little ole lady but will make a good buy at just $1095.

1962 Dodge $795
Buy this big Dodge 4-door sedan and save money on your purchase. It has a gleaming White finish and medium Blue interior. This fine car has a small V8 with standard shift and radio too.

1962 Mercury $1095
Fancy Comet Red fordor wagon. It has lots of extras like an automatic transmission, beautiful all vinyl interior, big 6 engine, radio, whitewall tires & wheel covers too. Ready for the open road.

1961 Ford $745
Big family sized fordor sedan with V8 and Fordomatic transmission. It has the big radio and fresh air heater. Buy this at the "low overhead" price of only $745.

1960 Peugeot $395
Say, Pooh-Jo. The French made it well, the driver kept it good, and we'll sell it right. The Ramorjamsky Green finish shines and so will you as you park it in your drive.

1960 Plymouth $495
Here is one of Chrysler Corporation's "compacted" efforts (Valiant) in a 4-door Beige sedan. It has been gone over in our shop and is well, well worth the low price of $495.

1959 Ford $245
Owned by a large group of people (State of Nebraska) and driven an awful lot—107,000—miles but—it was well maintained, is V8 and does have an overdrive. If you are short of grocery money, loan value is $270.

1959 Chevrolet $795
Come one, come all and see a beauty. We will show you by far the cleanest 6 year old Chevy around. It is an Impala 4-door sedan with V8, Powerglide, radio and a sharp two tone finish. Drive it and you'll buy it.

1957 Chevrolet $795
Impala convertible and read this. Brand new top, reconditioned engine and transmission. It's robbin egg blue and beautiful. Cold weather price $795. Warm weather price — much more.

1956 Cadillac $395
Some call these the "Epitamy of Luxury", others "the Shining Knight of the open road" but we call it a heck of a lot of car for the money. It's a hardtop, it has power, it is air conditioned and it runs good. See it.

1942 Buick $1495
Immaculate 4-door sedan with only 14,000 miles. It is finished in two tone, dark green and darker green.

These automobiles are on hand and on display. They are not an advertised "come-on." They can be purchased for the list price and no hidden downpayments are needed. No salesmanager is going to be turning down the deal and then ask for additional money. Come buy a good car at a fair price. Always . . .
